Having and Keeping. 1,000,000 Flu Cases. New Bonfire Starts. Dry "Influence."

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

(Copyright, 1928.)

IF CHILDREN are worth having, they are worth keeping. Athens, Ga., believes that they are worth having and keeping. Health Commissioner Bagby sends this interesting telegram:

"Results of child health demonstration of commonwealth fund during period of five years show number of deaths of white children under 15 per year for five years' demonstration period, lower by 50 per cent than in the four years before the demonstration."

This is a wasteful world, and ours is the most wasteful, extravagant nation on the earth. The worst of all waste is the waste of child life.

PUBLIC health officials in Washington say that 1 per cent of the population has influenza, a million cases throughout the United States. And "the peak of the epidemic has not been reached."

Get plenty of fresh air, eat moderately, drink plenty of fresh water, not iced, keep away from crowds and keep cheerful. That's about all the advice you can get.

WHEN Henry Ford started his "Ford Motors, Ltd.," company, to build Ford cars in Britain for all Europe, he little thought he was starting a new speculative bonfire in Wall Street.

THE British, according to Ford's plan, were to own 40 per cent of his British company. They own little of it now, the Americans having bought it away from them, at a profit of more than 300 per cent, buying the stock for more than four times what Ford charged them for it.

TO MAKE things more interesting, Mr. Ford's Canadian company went up $72 a share.

Next time Ford will arrange it so that those to whom he benevolently sells stock for $5 a share won't be able to get rid of it for a year or two at least.

IT WAS a cheerful day in Wall Street, for those that lend money. Interest on "call money" rose to 12 per cent, the highest in a year.

HENRY FORD, who probably has never seen Wall Street in his life, says, "There is nothing new under the sun. Motors, airplanes, radios are no more new than 'a dinosaur's egg.'"

Mr. Ford thinks civilizations very ancient had flying machines, automobiles, etc. At least he is quoted to that effect.

The first flying machine that ever flew on this earth was the Wright brothers'.

On other planets other "men" fly, undoubtedly.

They have flown on Mars, perhaps, for ten million years. But here it is new.

MR. DURANT has given his $25,000 prize to Maj. Chester P. Mills, formerly Federal prohibition administrator in New York.

Mr. Mills suggests that the enforcement of prohibition be removed from "influence." It is a good suggestion, but hardly worth $25,000.

Put men in jail that buy from bootleggers and you will discourage bootlegging. But that would not suit the eminently respectable gentlemen that buy from the bootleggers.

LURA FRAZER is dead, in Hannibal, Mo., aged 91.

That will interest many when they are told that Lura Frazer was the Lura Hawkins who used to play with Mark Twain 80 years ago.

She is the "Becky" of "Tom Sawyer."

PRESIDENT COOLIDGE settles for a short rest on Howard Coffin's place in the sunshine of the Georgia coast.

Herbert Hoover is hurrying back to Washington, omitting for the present his visit to Florida, to get ready for March 4.

Washington predicts that Dwight Morrow will be secretary of state. Mr. Morrow's success in Mexico would make that seem reasonable. But predicting for Mr. Hoover is dangerous.

THE United States air mail has set a new record for speed, traveling from Dallas, Tex., to Chicago in six hours 42 minutes, a good deal of the time at the rate of THREE AND ONE-HALF MILES A MINUTE. Thanks are due the postoffice for really developing American aviation.

IT APPEARS that the estate of the late Judge Gary, head of the Steel Trust, amounted to less than $13,000,000.

He could have made more money than that buying himself a little "Steel common" back in the war days when he told this writer: "Buy Steel. It will soon declare a dividend."

This writer gave the good advice to Albert Lasker, afterward head of the Shipping Board, who bought Steel. It climbed up from $50 to $135 without stopping to take a breath. Knowing all about it, Mr. Gary could easily have made fifty or a hundred million with a little "pyramiding." But he never gambled.

AS TO the small amount of Steel stock that he left in his estate, the figures do not include what he gave, while he was still alive, to his grandchildren.

PARISH HOUSE BURNS

DAMAGE WROUGHT BY FLAMES

This is the interior of the center of the house after firemen had quelled the flames sufficiently to allow them to enter.

RECTORY SWEPT BY FIRE

The parish house of St. Canice Roman Catholic Church, Knox and Orchard avenues, old Knoxville borough, was swept by fire today.

Four persons were routed by the flames which virtually destroyed the interior of the building and for a time threatened to leap a driveway to St. Canice Church.

Church officials say the damage will reach $50,000, although Fire Chief Richard Smith estimated the loss at $12,000.

Miss Johanna Wills, housekeeper, discovered the fire in the cellar where she had gone to investigate the presence of smoke in the house. Flames spread rapidly, burning through a clothes chute to upper floors and through the roof. Miss Wills ran through the house spreading the alarm to the Rev. J. C. Fitzpatrick, assistant pastor, and to Mary Keane, a maid, and Helen Smith, the Parish secretary.

All the occupants of the house had reached the street safely when firemen arrived. Smoke and flames were pouring from all windows and a second alarm was sounded by firemen who feared the church also would be burned. The residence of J. R. Coates at 228 Orchard avenue also was endangered.

ORPHAN FUND SAVED

Traffic Lieut. Bert Jacks and several firemen braved flames to save parish records and more than $2,000 in cash in the secretary's office. Jacks recovered the money, $1,200 of which belonged to St. Paul's Orphanage at Idlewood.

Chief Smith answered the second alarm and directed firemen in extinguishing the blaze.

The Rev. J. C. Fallon, pastor, was absent, conducting a funeral downtown. He was informed of the fire and arrived at the scene before firemen had left.

JOHANNA WILLS

Miss Johanna Wills, housekeeper, discovered in the cellar the fire that today burned the parish house at St. Canice Roman Catholic Church, Knoxville.

40 MILLION PROJECT PLANNED

Fred W. Waterman, newly elected president of the National Tube Company, will oversee the expenditure of $40,000,000 on plant improvements at McKeesport if plans now under consideration are approved.

Waterman recently completed one of the United States Steel corporation's greatest construction projects. In 1923 he went to Gary, Ind., to take charge of the construction of the Tube company's $21,000,000 building program. Since then he has been in full charge of operations at Gary.

PLAN AWAITS APPROVAL

Although plans for the new mills at McKeesport have been under consideration for several months, it is understood the program has not yet been approved at the offices of the parent corporation in New York. Officials of the National Tube company would not make any comment on the reported plans..

The installation of equipment for increased production of seamless tubing will constitute the major portion of the work to be undertaken. Steel-making equipment to supply raw material for the new mills also will be installed.

At present National Tube makes Bessemer steel at McKeesport. Open hearth steel will be needed for seamless pipe. This will entail building new plants covering every operation for converting pig iron into the highly finished tubular products.

NATIVE OF ILLINOIS

Waterman succeeds Taylor Allderdice as president of National Tube after only 12 years of service with the company. He gained his reputation as a steel executive with other branches of the Steel Corporation where it was generally understood he was being groomed for leadership of National Tube.

He is a native of Sycamore, Ill., and a graduate of the University of Illinois. He entered employ of the Steel Corporation soon after his graduation.

MISS LESLIE FOSTER

Miss Foster, of Lake Forest, Chicago suburb, will become the bride of Conde Nast, New York publisher, at Aiken, S. C., on Saturday. She is 22. Nast is much, much older than that.

EVELYN THAW'S BROTHER ENDS LIFE IN BRONX

(Special Dispatch to Sun-Telegraph.)

Early today, when Miss Nesbit was making merry at a One Hundred and Twenty-fifth street night club, where she is hostess and leading lady in a revue, she received a call that Nesbit had hanged himself in his home, 2492 Devoe terrace, the Bronx.

NO MOTIVE KNOWN

Nesbit, who was 41, and a salesman, hanged himself from a steam pipe in the kitchen of the apartment. No motive for the suicide has been advanced.

He was found by his wife on her return from visiting friends in the house.

"We received word of Howard's death; that is all," said C. J. Holman, secretary of the Pittsburgh Stock Exchange, and stepfather of Howard W. Nesbit, who ended his life last night at his Bronx home, New York.

Mrs. Holman, formerly Mrs. Nesbit, mother of Howard and of Evelyn Nesbit Thaw, could not be reached today at her home, Washington and Lebanon roads, Mt. Lebanon. It was reported she had gone to New York for the funeral.

THIS AREA GETS BIG SHARE

WASHINGTON, Dec. 27.—(AP.)—The Treasury's annual list of tax refunds, covering the fiscal year ending last June 30, when $142,393,567 in illegally and erroneously collected taxes was returned to 168,501 individuals and corporations, made its appearance today at the capitol.

The list, made public by the house committee on expenditures, carried only those refunds over $500 and included claim allowances income, stock, sales and estate taxes collected for 1928 and prior years. Insurance companies, mills, industrial corporations, and rich estates were numerous in the list where large refunds were involved, while many golf clubs and thousands of individuals appeared in the smaller categories.

GET MORE THAN MILLION

Ten refunds amounted to more than $1,000,000, with the R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Company of Winston-Salem, N. C., receiving the largest amount—$6,213,808. The American Tobacco compnay and subsidiaries, of New York, was next with $4,270,059.

Others receiving more than $1,000,000 were the Federal Shipbuilding Company, Kearney, N. J., $3,654,239; estate of Margaret Olivia Sage, New York, $1,618,939; Swift and Company, Chicago, $1,496,631; The Texas Company, Houston, $1,336,507; estate of Peter C. Brooks, Boston, $1,368,826; United Fuel and Gas Company, Inc., Charleston, West Virginia, $1,235,962, and the estate of Verner Zevola Reed, Denver, $1,222,383.

Ex-City Fireman Charged With Theft

Charles Carr, 48, of 501 Lloyd street, former city fireman, was fined $50 or sentenced to serve 60 days in jail by Magistrate J. W. Orie in Central Police Court today. Detectives testified Carr was arrested in a downtown store with a shirt, which had been stolen, concealed under his coat. Carr testified he had bought the shirt at another store while under the influence of liquor.

SAYS HELDMAN WILL BE FREED

By MAX HENRICI,
Staff Correspondent.

CANTON, O., Dec. 27.—Alleged contradictions and suspicious omissions in Wilbur O. Heldman's account of the death of his wife, who, he declared, committed suicide after confessing she killed Vernard E. Fearn, can easily be explained, Frank N. Sweitzer, Heldman's attorney, asserted today.

Sweitzer, former prosecuting attorney for Stark county, assumed a defiant attitude after conferring with Heldman in the county jail, where his client is held as a coroner's witness in default of $25,000 bail. He challenged the state to show its hand. He talked of demanding a preliminary hearing before a magistrate in advance of the presentation of the case to the Grand Jury.

Prosecuting Attorney Henry W. Harter, Jr., said an affidavit formally charging Heldman with first-degree murder of his wife has been drawn up and only awaits Coroner T. C. McQuate's signature before it will be filed with a justice of the peace.

MONOXIDE PUTS 3 IN HOSPITAL

Three members of the family of Frank Colluci, 7315 Tioga street, were overcome by carbon monoxide gas and six others were slightly affected early today as the result of a clogged water heater flue in the basement.

The watchfulness of Mary Colluci, 19, is believed to have saved the lives of her father, 52, and her brother, Joseph, 24, when her sister, Jennie, 16, complained of feeling ill and fainted early today. Mary investigated and found her father and brother unconscious on the third floor.

The father, brother and Evaline, 14, were ordered taken to the Pittsburgh Hospital. Joseph was unconscious late today and in a serious condition.

Others stricken were the mother, Mrs. Angeline Colluci, 44; Mary, 19; Jennie, 16; Dominick, 11; Michael, 9, and Margaret, 6.

Two children of Joseph Garland, 7241 Tioga street, taken to the Colluci home late last night when their mother was removed, seriously ill, to Columbia Hospital, were not affected by the fumes.

BRIDE OF STRATON'S SON TO BE FIFTH TO USE RING

NEW YORK, Dec. 27.—(AP.)—The Rev. Dr. John Roach Straton tonight will unite in marriage his son, Warren Bagenoch Straton, and Miss Ruth Stokes Carter in what he describes as a "very beautiful" romance.

Miss Cater, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William B. Cater, of Douglaston, Long Island, in keeping with a family custom, will use a wedding ring that has already served four members of her family.

Two of her great-grandmothers had their wedding rings melted into one and this large double ring was then used by her grandmother, who in turn handed it down to her mother.

Miss Cater and her mother were guests of the Stratons in California last winter. The bridegroom is a student of sculpture. He is 20.

Caronia Sails for Cuba With McGraw

NEW YORK, Dec. 27.—(INS.)—The steamship Caronia sails this morning for Havana on its first voyage in the new Havana service of the Cunard Line. A capacity load of first-class passengers is aboard. The passengers included John J. McGraw, manager of the New York Giants. The sailing this morning marked the 30th anniversary of its skipper, Capt. W. H. Hossack, in the service of the Cunard Line.

Mexico Acts to Bar Deportees' Return

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 27.—(AP.)—The War Department today ordered military commanders who are stationed along the United States border to be especially on the alert to prevent political and other exiles residing on the other side of the border from entering the country. The government recently rejected the petitions of numerous political deportees for permission to return to Mexico.

Pope's Physician Dies of Pneumonia

ROME, Dec. 27.—(AP.)—The holiday joy has been dampened at the Vatican by the death of Dr. Andrea Amici, the Pope's physician, who also served Pope Pius X. He attended the Pope's jubilee mass on December 20 in full health, but shortly after was stricken with bronchial pneumonia.

Judge Rules Rum Buyer Guilty, Fines Him $200

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 27.—(INS.)—Purchasers of liquor were held equally guilty with bootleggers when the sale involves the element of transportation, by Federal Judge William H. Kirkpatrick today in one of the most important court decisions since the passage of the Eighteenth Amendment.

Under Judge Kirkpatrick's ruling Alfred E. Norris, wealthy New York clubman, was fined $200 for conspiracy to violate the prohibition laws in buying liquor from Joel D. Kerper, Philadelphia's "society bootlegger."

Hurt Riding, Colgate Keeps Good Humor

ORANGE, N. J., Dec. 27.—(AP.)—Sidney M. Colgate, soap magnate, is in a hospital with a compound leg fracture and a sense of humor. He sent his friends cards bearing a picture of a rocking horse and rider and the words: "A horse is a vain thing for safety." Mr. Colgate was thrown from his mount two months ago.

"Peeping Tom" Flees From Roof of Club

Police were called to the Pittsburgh Club, Penn avenue, early today, after one of the maids at the club reported that a "peeping Tom" had been seen on the roof. The club managers told police that the man had been seen on the roof, staring down through a skylight. He was gone when police arrived.

2 Women, Man Held After Sharon Raids

SHARON, Pa., Dec. 27.—Approximately 200 barrels of wine and a quantity of mash and liquor were seized in three homes in raids by officers. Two women and a man, Mrs. Anna Gladich and Mrs. Joseph Ceslak, of Farrell, and Elpedio Usco, of Sharon, were held for court.

PASTOR, 63, GIRL, 20, GO TO PRAYERS, THEN ELOPE

HARRISBURG, Dec. 27.—(AP.)—Police throughout Pennsylvania were notified today to be on the lookout for an automobile in which the Rev. Peter Wise, 63, and Anna Shields, 20, left a prayer meeting conducted by the Rev. Wise in the Salem Methodist Episcopal Church, two miles from Mechanicsburg, last night.

The girl's father, Joseph Shields, of Mechanicsburg, told police the couple were traveling in a small sedan bearing the license number 321,419.

Miss Shields went to the prayer meeting with a younger sister, who returned home alone.

The Rev. J. Howard Ake, superintendent of the Harrisburg district of the Methodist Episcopal Church, said that Rev. Wise, a widower, came to him several months ago and asked permission to hold services in the little stone church near Mechanicsburg, which had been abandoned for some time. Permission was granted as Rev. Wise had proper credentials.

Rev. Wise was not an ordained minister.

DECEPTION ISLAND, Antarctica, Dec. 27. — (Via Whaler Hektoria and KUP, San Francisco Examiner Wireless Station.)—We had hoped to spend Christmas holidays on the bleak expanse of the Ross Sea barrier, and in that case we would have munched dry biscuits and dried buffalo meat in the form of pemmican for our Christmas dinner; but, having had certain measures of success in determining the extent of Graham Land and the northern limit of the polar continent in the American quadrant, we momentarily forgot our disappointment and joined with our Norwegian friends in hearty Christmas cheer.

Eielson, Crossan and Porter celebrated Christmas Eve sacrificing in piece-meal their straggling hirsute growth. Eielson turned out clean shaved, Porter kept his moustache, Crossan saved a Charley Chaplin, sideboards and chin whiskers for Christmas Eve, but before Christmas dinner the sideboards and beard had fallen before the blade. For my part the Vandyk beard maintained for five years until the Arctic frosts compelled its removal in 1926 has reasserted itself to remain indefinitely.

The captains of the whalers joined us at the festive board. We were a merry party, comfortable before a heavily-burdened table, laden with a meal that could not have been excelled on the yacht of a millionaire.

TEACHERS TALK CIVIL SERVICE

READING, Pa., Dec. 27.—(AP.)—Civil service for teachers, giving them protection against political meddling, is the all-engrossing question of business which is to come before the sixty-sixth annual convention of the Pennsylvania State Education Association here today.

The civil service question will come before the teachers as one of the planks of a platform to be laid before the 1,000 delegates. Will Durant, author and philosopher, will speak.

U. S. Watchmaking Has 80-Million Year

NEW YORK. — (AP.) — Watches and clocks produced in the United States in 1928 had a value in excess of $80,000,000, almost equal to the combined output of Switzerland and Germany, the closest competitors.

Production of timepieces in this country, jewelers say, has more than doubled in the last 10 years. After meeting its own domestic demand, the United States last year exported watches and clocks to the value of 4 per cent of the total output, an increase of 6 per cent over the previous year.

Boy Hurt Running Into Truck's Path

Running into the path of a furniture truck when the machine was being driven past his home in Overly street, Fite station, McKeesport, Leonard Koltiska, 4, was knocked to the ground and suffered a fracture of his left leg. He was removed to the McKeesport Hospital by Robert H. Brady, of McKeesport, the truck driver.

Jaworski Mind Test Asked by Prosecutor

A counter move to offset any insanity defense in behalf of Paul Jaworski will be made tomorrow by the commonwealth.

Assistant District Attorney Andrew T. Park announced that he would ask the court to appoint an alienist to examine Jaworski. A similar request is to be made by Attorney M. Barney Cohen, who obtained a 20-day respite for the doomed man by appealing to Gov. John S. Fisher to permit Jaworski's sanity to be tested.

The date of Jaworski's execution at Rockview was originally set for the week of December 31. He was sentenced to die for the murder of I. J. Gump, payroll guard at Mollenauer, three years ago.

U. S. REPORTS 50 PCT. MORE FLU DEAD

WASHINGTON, Dec. 27.—(AP.)—Fifty-eight cities today reported to the Census Bureau that 710 deaths from influenza occurred during the week ended December 22. The figures compared with 475 deaths from influenza in 62 cities during the previous week.

Cities reporting on influenza deaths for the week ended December 22 follow: Pittsburgh, 64; Toledo, 27; New Orleans, 37; Philadelphia, 34; Denver, 50; Des Moines, 19; Detroit, 22; Duluth, Minn., 8; El Paso, 7; Fall River, Mass., none; Flint, Mich., 2; Fort Worth, 3; Grand Rapids, 16; Houston, 71; Indianapolis, 16; Jersey City, 3; Kansas City, Mo., 20; Louisville, 1; Lowell, Mass., 1; Akron, 18; Albany, 1; Atlanta, 33; Baltimore, 8; Boston, 2; Bridgeport, Conn., none; Buffalo, 6; Cambridge, Mass., none; Canton, 1; Chicago, 80; Cincinnati, 5; Cleveland, 25; Columbus, O., 10; Dayton, none; Milwaukee, 10; Minneapolis, 21; New Haven, none; Oakland, Cal., 7; Paterson, N. C., 32; Wilmington, Del., 1, and Yonkers, none.

In the same cities there were 1,272 deaths from pneumonia during the week ended December 22. Cities reported for the previous week showed a total of 1,207 deaths.

The weekly deaths of both influenza and pneumonia in 78 cities reporting to the bureau has increased as follows:

For the week ended November 3, influenza 51, pneumonia 57; November 10, influenza 78, pneumonia 587; November 17, influenza 91, pneumonia 687; November 24, influenza 105, pneumonia 791; December 1, influenza 203, pneumonia 853, and December 8, influenza 291, pneumonia, 1,009.

W. Va. Man, 85, Leaps to His Death in River

SHINNSTON, W. Va., Dec. 27.—(AP.)—Albert A. Sapp, 85, leaped to his death from a bridge into the West Fork River here yesterday. Sapp had talked to his twin brother, Allison, on Christmas Day and remarked "We'd both be better off if we were dead," Dr. L. C. Goff, county coroner said.

Revenge Blamed, Woman Held For 2 Fires

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Dec. 27.—Suspected of having set fire to two homes, in one of which a man narrowly escaped death, Minnie Calloway, Sharon line, was under arrest today.

PRESIDENT IN HUNTER'S PARADISE

By GEORGE E. DURNO,
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

SAPELO ISLAND, Ga., Dec. 27.—An opportunity to hunt deer, wild turkey, wild peacock, pheasants, quail and ducks was promised President Coolidge as the chief executive began the first full day of his Christmas vacation on the magnificent island estate of Howard E. Coffin, Detroit automobile and airplane magnate. Game of all sorts abounds on the island.

Off shore there are a number of varieties of fish calculated to afford the President plenty of diversion if he prefers his old sport of fishing.

Mr. Coolidge and the first lady of the land arrived late yesterday at the "Plantation," where the exotic picturesqueness of the tropics is combined with the bustling efficiency of a twentieth century civilization.

ASSURED SECLUSION

For the next week—perhaps longer—the chief executive and his wife will be the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Coffin. In prospect for him are seven days or more of intensive hunting and fishing in a locale which assures all possible isolation. Every convenience is at his disposal, even up to the inclusion of a twin motored Sikorsky amphibian airplane, yet, unless he wishes it otherwise, no one can get in touch with him.

The Coffin estate is set in a moss hung forest. The main building is a century-old Pompeiian villa. An emerald-hued lawn spreads beneath the trees, and nearby palms offer more than a suggestion of the tropics.

RAIL CRASH LAID TO BANDITS

HESPERIA, Cal., Dec. 27.—(INS.)—A widespread search will be launched for a gang of bandits believed to have caused the wreck of the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe crack passenger train No. 22, "The Missionary," near here early today, it was announced by officials of the railroad who arrived from Los Angeles.

Between seven and nine passengers, sleeping in Pullman berths, were injured, and many more narrowly escaped death when five Pullman cars and a private car plunged off the rails as the great juggernaut rattled on a down-grade at 60 miles an hour.

An inspection of the spot where the cars flew off the rails, according to Deputy Sheriff J. E. Farley of San Marino, revealed that the spikes of the first rail on the curve had been torn up.

This led to the belief that a gang of bandits, intending to stop the train and rob it, had caused the wreck. No other theory, company officials declared, seemed plausible.

Among the injured were Mrs. F. J. Mackee, of Los Angeles, wife of F. J. Mackee, assistant general manager of the railroad, and W. H. Burbage, Santa Fe attorney at Winslow, Ariz. Mackee, whose private car dashed off the rails, was unhurt.

Fishing With Net Brings $85 Fines

LOCK HAVEN, Pa., Dec. 27.—(AP.)—Russell Myer, of Lock Haven, and Samuel Vance of Tylersville, were arrested yesterday by Fish Warden George W. Spering, of Tylersville, for illegal fishing with a net, and fined $85 and costs, amounting in all to $92.50 each.

Law Reaches for Shortage Suspect

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Dec. 27.—(INS.)—Officers today were on their way to Jennings, La., to bring back Clarence R. Snethen, former secretary of the Los Angeles Traffic Commission, who vanished two months ago, suspected of connection with an asserted shortage of $10,000 on the commission's books.

Erie Will Sell $423,000 Bonds

ERIE, Pa., Dec. 27.—(AP.)—Ordinances providing for the issuance of city bonds totaling $423,000 were passed by City Council yesterday. The bonds, to be dated January 15, will finance grade crossing eliminations, the city's sewage disposal plant, erection of a new municipal garage and purchase of snow removal equipment. Bids will be received January 15.

VOICES, CROWD WEAKER AT MILT'S WORD RODEO

International News Service.

NEW YORK, Dec. 27.—Three members of the supposedly talkiest ran out of words today and staggered speechless from the arena of New York's "gab fest" marathon.

All of the contestants' voices showed occasional signs of weakness.

The crowd sent out and bought himself an ear trumpet.

Marie Guimpire, beautiful French blonde, mislaid all her accents and was too exhausted to look for them. Via the sign language, Mlle. Guimpire signaled she was retiring to a boiler factory to recuperate.

Anet Barrie, petite and white-haired, also walked out on the gang without another word.

BIBLE READER DROPS

May Shaw, who has been reading the Bible from cover to cover, backwards and forward, just ran down like an old alarm clock.

There was one masculine entry who slipped into the oblivion of silence. He was Signor Andrea Di Giurco, of Italy, whose tenor syllables have attracted crowds of sophisticated ears to his tent post.

But 23 pairs of vibrating tonsils are left in the noun-and-verb rodeo which will last until midnight Saturday—dictionary willing. The winner takes home all the unbroken atomizers and $1,000 promised by Promoter Milton D. Crandall. No mean talker himself.

Crandall branded as a "base canard" a report originating in his home hamlet of Pittsburgh that he was going to enter the competition Saturday morning and out-talk the field.

SWIMMER LEADS

Betty Wilson, former collegiate swimmer, was bearing gallantly the standard for her sex. Miss Wilson at noon today had talked 46 hours less time for meals and a few cat naps. This was held to be a world's record for continuous talking by a woman outside of sewing circles.

There are seven men, according to the alert timekeepers, who are tied with Miss Wilson.

Ten other men and five women are only a few chatters behind.

Hit by B. & O. Train, Dies in Hospital

Joseph Haley, 24, Willock, died in Mercy Hospital this morning from injuries suffered yesterday when struck by a Baltimore and Ohio Railroad train at Bruceton. His skull was fractured.

WIFE ARRESTED IN THEFT CASE

Absolved by her husband in an alleged confession in which he admitted 39 robberies, Mrs. Thelma Weaver, 21, today was arrested after, police say, her husband had a change of mind and accused her of instigating the crimes.

Weaver, arrested several weeks ago, freely admitted numerous robberies, police say. He is held in jail awaiting trial on 39 charges.

He told detectives today, they say, that his wife encouraged his thieving raids to provide fine clothes for her.

Some of the wearing apparel he says, according to detectives, was remodeled to fit his wife and other articles were sold to furnish cash for their travels. City Detectives Edward McEntee and Clarence Raider and County Detectives John Geisler and Frank Ritz arrested Mrs. Weaver in her home in Bridgeville.

Boy "Breaking In" Shoes Makes 8th Escape

CAMDEN, N. J., Dec. 27.—(AP.) Frank Hartale, 12, is back in the detention home after being caught by a policeman on his eighth escape from the institution.

Frank, placed in the home several months ago when his mother died and his father was said to have deserted him, slipped away when he was permitted to stroll about to "break in" a pair of new shoes he received for Christmas.

Miss Grace Anthony, superintendent, said Frank would be required to wear a nightgown for clothing for the next month as punishment.

Jackie Coogan Ill From Joy Over Toys

BERLIN, Dec. 27.—(AP.)—Too much Christmas excitement proved the undoing of Jackie Coogan, youthful American film star, and he was in bed today with a light case of influenza.

Jackie contracted the illness in running barefooted about in his hotel room in his joy over a steam engine, electric train and toy airplane. He was unable to appear in his vaudeville act last night.

A physician, after calling this morning, assured the boy's parents that there was no danger, but that he must be kept in a warm bed until Saturday.

GRAFT ARRESTS TO BE MADE NEXT WEEK

Although informations have been sworn out against the alleged racketeers and grafters recommended for indictment by the probing grand jury, no warrants will be served until after the New Year, District Attorney Samuel H. Gardner announced today.

Chief George W. Murren, of the county detective bureau, filed a total of 31 informations against 49 defendants before Alderman Thomas Jones, of the South Side, yesterday.

The warrants will be prepared today and will be turned over to the county detectives after the holidays to be served on the defendants. A week or 10 days will be given in which to post bond, after which those who have failed to raise the necessary bail will be arrested and taken to jail.

Alderman Jones plans to conduct the hearings some time in January. He said the bond will be $1,000 for the alleged petty grafters and racketeers, but in the liquor conspiracy cases, $2,500 will be asked.

HONEYMOONERS STILL LOST

PHOENIX, Ariz., Dec. 27.—(AP.)—Search for Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Hyde, of Hansen, Ida., adventurous honeymoon couple who disappeared in the Grand Canyon of the Colorado, continues tediously, on foot and by boat.

Searchers have established that the Hydes actually entered the section of the canyon under scrutiny but what became of them there is as much a mystery as ever. The home-made scow, in which they were attempting to traverse the length of the treacherous river, was found at Separation Rapids by Army aviators. Footprints of Hyde were seen by P. P. Pauraw, leader of a searching party, at Bass Cable crossing and Ruby Canyon rapids, down stream from the scow.

Mrs. Hyde is a former Pittsburgher.

Man Ending 12-Year Sentence Rearrested

Postoffice Thieves Get Money, Stamps

FRANKLIN, Pa., Dec. 27.—Robbers who forced the rear door to the Carlton postoffice, 15 miles northwest of here, escaped with $150 and several hundred dollars worth of stamps, Postmaster E. E. Dean reported today. Money order blanks also are reported missing.

"GOLD BRICK" CRY CRITICS OF AWARD

NEW YORK, Dec. 27.—(INS.) — Mrs. Chester P. Mills, wife of the recipient of the $25,000 prize offered by W. C. Durant for the best and most practicable plan for making the Eighteenth amendment effective, was announced today as author of a plan that ran a close second to that of Maj. Mills himself.

Dr. William H. Allen, secretary of the prize committee, made the announcement. He quoted Maj. Mills as saying that he considered Mrs. Mills' plan even superior to his own prize-winning contribution.

Mrs. Mills possesses an intimate and detailed knowledge of the machinery of enforcement, since her husband was Federal prohibition administrator for New York district in 1926 and 1927.

ASKS AID FOR U. S.

"Each community," she says, "should realize that the Federal prohibition department cannot be taxed entirely with the closing down of many of the seats of the leaks. Local agencies should be held responsible for enforcing respective laws. The speakeasies can often be closed for breaking the health department laws—physical examination of the personnel serving food, the quality and manner of serving and preparing this food, also ventilation of rooms and kitchens.

"The fire department can close these speakeasies for improper fire escapes and exits as they close factories, for the fire risk from stills and plants where alcoholic liquors are manufactured with untrained workers is enormous."

As to legal procedure, she says, "now, through lack of judges in courts, there are innumerable delays and the suspected or accused lawbreaker can continue in business until the case is tried. This delay is often from six months to two years and his business has not been stopped in any way."

She wants prohibition agents better instructed in the method of gathering evidence that will stand up in courts. "Agents," she says, "often have no knowledge of exactly what kind of evidence would be considered enough to bring a lawbreaker to trial, with hopes of having him found guilty."

MILLS' PLAN CRITICIZED

WASHINGTON, Dec. 27.—(AP.)—In certain quarters there is the feeling that Maj. Chester P. Mills has received $25,000 for suggestions already in operation.

James M. Doran, prohibition commissioner, said that he regarded Mills' proposals as "merely an exchange of old stuff for new money."

Dr. Ernest H. Cherrington, general secretary of the World League Against Alcohol, characterized it as a "real contribution," and Senator Capper, of Kansas, said that "taking the enforcement of the Volstead act out of politics is highly important." He added that Mills was "dead right on that point."

VOLSTEAD NOT IMPRESSED

ST. PAUL, Minn., Dec. 27.—(AP.)—Andrew J. Volstead said today that he was not particularly impressed by the Mills plan to make prohibition effective.

"Maj. Mills is entitled to a good deal of credit for not proposing a reorganization of the service," said Mr. Volstead, author of the federal enforcement act. "The prohibition forces have been organized almost to death. It has been the bane of the service almost from the very start."

Receivership Sought For Convict's Furs

NEW YORK, Dec. 27.—(AP.)—A receivership is sought for a beaver overcoat and a mink-lined overcoat and mink-lined gloves made for George Graham Rice, recently sent to prison for stock frauds. They are in storage. A creditor claims them. The storehouse people wish the courts to settle the matter.

Fire Burns Through Knoxville Catholic Parish House, Leaves Trail of Ruin

AS FLAMES RAVAGED PARISH HOUSE
Flames today swept through the parish house of St. Canice's Roman Catholic Church, Knox and Orchard avenues, Knoxville.

HAPPY YOUNGSTERS ENJOY FIRST SKATING OF YEAR

CHARLOTTE WALKER SYLVIA GRAY

MARJORIE CHUBB DOESN'T MIND A SPILL

ARE THESE DAYS DULL!

A joyous group of girls who find the outdoors invigorating these wintry days. They have cause for gladness, for theirs is one of the few skating ponds frozen hereabouts, and during the past few days they have taken full advantage of their privilege. At the left is Marjorie Chubb, who falls hard for the sport. "What's a spill or two—it's loads of fun, really!" she says, and actually appears to be enjoying herself.

OIL PLANT FIRE BREAKS OUT THIRD TIME

A third fire occurred late yesterday in the Heidelberg plant of the Carnegie Refining Company, where all day Tuesday and until early yesterday volunteer firemen—at times numbering 150—fought desperately to control a spreading oil fire. Approximately $500,000 damage has been caused by the fires at the plant. The blaze late yesterday lasted but a short time.

Five Stowe township firemen are still confined to the Ohio Valley Hospital, suffering serious injuries received when their fire truck plunged over an embankment off Windgap road near the Ingram borough line while en route to Heidelberg. Two companions were killed in the crash.

TRAFFIC SIGNAL WORK RUSHED

Work is being pushed today on the downtown traffic signal system. With the breaking of ground yesterday fos the conduit work at Penn avenue and Water street, the Duquesne Light Company began executing its contract to bring supply lines for 90 street intersections.

Director James M. Clark expects to award the $75,000 signal mechanism contract on Monday. Bids are now being tabulated. It is expected that Director B. L. Succop also will award contracts on the $28,000 work of signal equipment Monday. It is hoped to have the new system in operation next April.

Cutter Goes After Derelict Schooner

NORFOLK, Va., Dec. 27.—(AP.)—The Coast Guard Cutter Modoc was dispatched yesterday to pick up a derelict schooner sighted 180 miles due east of Wilmington, N. C., and believed to be possibly the missing schooner, Jacob William Hook, which disappeared with two men aboard off the Carolina coast about the time of the Vestris disaster and has not been heard of since.

Westmoreland Booze Sellers Are Raided

GREENSBURG, Pa., Dec. 27.—Twelve men were arrested and large quantities of liquor were seized by county detectives in a series of raids in Derry township, Slickville and Mt. Pleasant. John Graff, poolroom proprietor of Mt. Pleasant, was arrested for the fourth time accused of violating the liquor laws.

Gas Pump Speakeasy Will Be Padlocked

WAYNESBURG, Pa., Dec. 27.—Padlock proceedings in a liquor violation will be used for the first time in Greene County against Frank Yanne, West Waynesburg gasoline station operator, who was arrested Christmas eve, County Detective J. A. Hann announced today. Yanne's place had been raided on two previous occasions, according to the police.

CITY 'DADS' MAY BE BARRED AS CONTROLLER

Members of Council who are hoping to be elected controller to succeed the late John H. Henderson, may find their ambitions thwarted by a legal obstacle contained in the city charter, according to opinions expressed today.

This development, together with an energetic drive on the part of North Side leaders to secure the election of some one from that section of the city, featured the fight to fill the vacancy today. Council will probably hold the election at the regular meeting Monday. The legal obstacle, which is being advanced by friends of candidates who are not councilmen, is this sentence in the charter:

"Members of Council shall not hold any other office, position or employment under the government of the United States, the state of Pennsylvania, the said city or county during the terms for which they were elected."

HAVE PRECEDENT

To support their contention, those who are advancing this legal obstacle refer to the case of former Representative C. J. McBride, who resigned from the Legislature to accept an appointment to the Board of Viewers and who was barred from that board by a similar clause in the state constitution.

Several councilmen have been mentioned as possibilities for the post. Councilman John S. Herron is one, W. Y. English another and P. J. McArdle the third.

North Side leaders are waging a battle to have the appointment go to one of the wards on that side of the Allegheny, Henderson having been a resident of that section. Dr. F. M. Frederick and other leaders are reported to be supporting former Councilman W. H. Robertson, who admits he is in a receptive mood and who spent considerable time in the Council chambers today. Republican County Chairman Joseph G. Armstrong, while qualifying his statement by saying the question is one for Council to settle, expressed the opinion that the office should go to a North Sider.

There are numerous aspirants from all sections of the city. Henry Oliver Evans is being boomed by a number of prominent leaders, his municipal research work being advanced as a reason for his selection.

Bus Acquaintance Steals $200, Gems

A chance acquaintance, met on a bus en route from Detroit to Pittsburgh, is accused by Patrick Malone, Bingham Canyon, Utah, for the theft of $200 worth of jewelry and clothing from Malone's room in the William Penn Hotel. Malone told police he conversed with a man on the bus and after registering at the hotel the man visited him. During Malone's absence from the room he said his new found friend departed, taking the clothing and jewelry.

Youths Admit Theft of Pittsburgh Auto

ATLANTA, Ga., Dec. 27.—(AP.)—Clifford R. Sankey and Roe E. Flower, both 16, who said they were from Meadville, Pa., yesterday told E. S. Griffth, United States Commissioner, they had stolen an automobile last Friday night in Pittsburgh and were on their way to Florida when arrested in an Atlanta suburb Monday night of speeding. A letter in the car, a coupe, was addressed to Harold O. Child.

EGG CONSPIRACY CHARGED

CHICAGO, Dec. 27.—(AP.)—Charging conspiracy in restraint of trade, the Federal government has filed suit against the Chicago Mercantile Exchange. The suit was filed before United States Commissioner Edwin K. Walker as a result of several egg brokers being caught "short" recently in connection with future deals.

The government charges the exchange with causing various restrictions, including penalties, in the way of transporting eggs for December deliveries already contracted for.

Connellsville Boy Drinks Blue Vitrol

CONNELLSVILLE, Pa., Dec. 27.—Earl Wiltrout, 19, is in Connellsville Hospital as a result of swallowing blue vitrol Christmas night. Physicians say he may recover.

POLICE GUARD AGAINST GEM FIELD UPRISINGS

CAPETOWN, South Africa, Dec. 27.—(AP.)—Two hundred policemen today were patroling the diamond fields of Namaqualand, where diamonds were only recently discovered. Threats have been made that the people would start prospecting in defiance of government orders against it.

Reports were current here of clashes between the police and the people who have been reduced to desperation by a prolonged drought which ruined their crops. No definite information, however, was obtainable.

Two thousand persons at a recent meeting at Port Nolloth demanded that the government throw open 34 acres of state diggings or else employ additional diggers.

The Namaqualand member of the House of Assembly motored from Port Nolloth to confer with the ministers of mines and justice. He said that poverty was rampant in the district. He added that unless the government took immediate and tactful action, a serious outbreak, accompanied by considerable bloodshed, would be inevitable.

Fire Department's Rest Disturbed By Fumigation

MEADVILLE, Pa., Dec. 27.—(AP.)—The Meadville fire department, which had not answered an alarm since November 21, was taken for a ride yesterday, and that's about all.

Neighbors saw smoke issuing from a residence and called the department. The firemen found nothing more than a smoky fumigator being used after a quarantine had been lifted.

MISS MILDRED KAISER AND SHIP MODEL

Miss Kaiser, secretary of the Variety Club, holds a ship model presented to the club by inmates of the Western Penitentiary. The gift was in appreciation of an entertainment staged for the prisoners by the theatrical organization.

HOOVER FACES PARTY STORM

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 27.—President-elect Hoover is going to have a hectic 10 days when he sets foot in Washington again about January 6.

They—meaning congressional leaders, politicians, job-hunters, et al.—are almost going to meet him at the dock to get to him first with their problems.

The first decision that he will have to make is whether there is to be a special session of Congress after inauguration. This controversy has reached an acute stage, with muttering of "broken promises" bandied back and forth at the Capitol.

LONGWORTH VS. BORAH

Speaker "Nick" Longworth's vigorous statement opposing an extra session of the new Congress was followed today by an even more vigorous statement from Senator William E. Borah, of Idaho, declaring "there is no escape from a special session unless we propose to utterly disregard the promises we made to the voters in the campaign."

It is no secret that Mr. Hoover would rather not inaugurate his administration with an extra session of Congress. He would rather see the present Congress enact farm relief and effect such tariff changes as are considered necessary. His promise to call an extra session if this Congress failed to act was given with considerable reluctance. How he is going to escape it now, however, is another matter.

Negro Held After Auto Is Wrecked

Said to be one of three men who abandoned an automobile after it had struck a traffic light at Center and Negley avenues early today, Henry Redick, 25, Negro, of 1512 Bedford avenue, is being held in the Squirrel Hill Police Station. He was picked up in Penn avenue with deep cuts on the head. He admitted being in the automobile, police say, which had been stolen last night in the Hill district.

Theories Differ In Man's Death

Abe Azen, 50, of 5621 Melvin street, died in West Penn Hospital this morning, a few minutes after he had been admitted. According to the hospital report to the coroner, Azen had swallowed poison. At the Melvin street address, it was stated death was attributed to high blood pressure.

PLANE BEACONS OPPOSED BY PILOTS

Night flying beacons in the downtown district, one of which soon will be ready for use, actually will endanger the lives of night flying pilots instead of protecting them, Pittsburgh's five air mail pilots declare.

They formally opposed such beacons as that on the new Grant Building and two others that have been proposed in a letter to President James F. Malone, of City Council.

The letter, which is signed by R. L. Baker, Horace Stark, Eugene Cecil, K. F. Lovejoy and Dewey L. Noyes, includes the following reasons for opposing the beacons:

First—You are attracting the pilot to fly over a congested area and in case of motor failure would cost his life with the additional hazard of probably costing the lives of many of your citizens.

CODE NO AID

Second—With three beacons you are creating considerable confusion. In one instance you hope to have the word "PITTSBURGH" spelled out in the Morse code. It so happens that there is one pilot out of ten in the United States who knows the Morse code and it would therefore be meaningless. On foggy nights or if the city is covered with a thick blanket of smoke so that the beacon is essential, the pilot has enough worries on his hand without trying to spell out the word "PITTSBURGH."

Third—In our opinion the installation of these beacons would be a terrible waste of money because when night flying becomes a regular occurrence, the confusion will set up a protest that will bear so much weight that the Department of Commerce will see that they are removed as a menace.

Fourth—At an early date the mail route will be lighted by the Department of Commerce and it is likely that the lights will be so placed that the planes will fly on the outskirts of town and there will be no occasion to use the beacons.

DRYS GRAB TWO LIQUOR CARS

Two liquor-laden automobiles were seized last night by prohibition agents. As they approached a car in Eleventh street, Braddock, they reported, the driver jumped and fled. The operatives gave chase, but he escaped. The confiscated auto, the agents said, contained five five-gallon cans of moonshine.

In Forbes street, near the South Twenty-second Street Bridge, agents seized a car with six five-gallon cans of contraband liquor and arrested the driver, Anthony Kotwicz.

Philadelphia Renews Tax Fight of '60's

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 27.—(AP.)—John C. Bell, special counsel, announced yesterday that soon after the first of the year Philadelphia would make its third attempt to recover from the government $535,716, alleged to have been illegally collected as taxes during and immediately after the Civil War.

Ohio Hotel Greeters Meet in Youngstown

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Dec. 27.—Hotel men of Ohio will attend Friday and Saturday the annual convention here of the Greeters of Ohio. C. L. Corpening, of Chicago, president of the National Greeters' Organization, will speak.

PHONE CO. HERE PLANS OUTLAY OF 6 MILLION

The Bell Telephone Company is planning to spend more than $6,000,000 for additions to its plants here next year, F. J. Chesterman, vice president of the company, has announced. This expenditure represents part of the company's $35,000,000 appropriation for state-wide extension of its facilities in 1929.

Although a large amount of the money appropriated for this city will be used for central office extensions, about one-third of the total will be spent on equipment and apparatus outside the central offices. The outside appropriation will be absorbed principally by replacements in and additions to the underground and aerial cable network here.

NEW BUILDING PLANNED

It is estimated that about $2,000,000 will be expended for outside plant improvements and of this amount about $900,000 will be devoted to underground cable construction. About $300,000 will be spent for new building construction. A new building is to be started next year to replace the present Hemlock and Lafayette exchanges, and other buildings also will be erected in Wilkinsburg and Carnegie.

Engineers estimate that about 13,000 new telephones will be added here next year. In addition they estimate approximately 62,000 will be installed and that about 49,000 will be disconnected. An average of 920,000 calls is handled each day in Pittsburgh, including 9,000 toll and long distance calls.

$40,000 BUDGET CUT MADE

Council today in budget session cut $40,000 from the estimates of the department of city controller and brought the estimated municipal expenses for 1929 to within approximately $100,000 of the expected revenue. This $100,000 excess in expense over expected revenue must be eliminated before the budget is closed.

The big slashes made at this morning's sitting of Council were $15,000 in the interest on overdue damages account and $25,000 in the interest on contracts account, in the controller's department.

Council was informed by the City Transit Commission that after the first of the year the commission would have a report on its negotiations with the Pittsburgh Railways Company on the use of any subways which the city might build. Council requested the Director of Public Safety to hold up contracts on downtown traffic lights until after a conference with members of council. It was suggested that the lighting companies might take over the operating of these systems.

Turkey Bone Stuck In Throat Removed

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 27.—(AP.)—A few minutes after she arrived at the Jefferson Hospital late last night, a turkey bone was removed from the esophagus of Mrs. Henry Poir, of Tamaqua, Pa., and she was reported on the road to recovery. Mrs. Poir swallowed the bone while eating her Christmas dinner.

2 Convicts Leased To Mine Are Killed

SANFORD, N. C., Dec. 27.—(AP.)—Two prisoners were killed and nine injured here when a cable used in lifting a cage from the Carolina coal mine broke yesterday, hurling the men to the bottom of the shaft. Those killed and injured were state convicts who had been leased to the mine.

2,000 NEWSIES TERM ALDINE SHOW 'WOW'

Did you notice yesterday how eager Pittsburgh's newsboys were in selling The Sun-Telegraph? What is it that caused their faces to be wreathed in smiles? The answer is simple. They saw the big Christmas show as the guests of The Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph and A. J. Simons, manager of Loew's Aldine Theater.

More than 1,000 "newsies" flocked to the Aldine yesterday morning and and all agreed that they had the time of their lives. Another 1,000 saw it last Monday. Two more shows are scheduled for an additional 2,000 newsboys, one for this morning and the last one at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning.

Those who have already had an opportunity to see Karl Dane and George K. Arthur in that rip-roaring comedy, "Brotherly Love," are unanimous in their declarations that the picture is a "wow."

"I nearly died laughing," one of the "newsies" commented. All agreed that the talking pictures, "English As She Is Not Spoken," featuring Val and Ernie Stanton, and "Songs As You Like Them," with Van and Schenck, were as good or better than any sound pictures they had ever seen and heard.

Gus Arnheim, with his Cocoanut Grove Orchestra from Hollywood, was another top-notcher. The Fox Movietone news reel got a big hand, especially the scene were Col. Charles A. Lindbergh shook hands with Orville Wright, first man to fly a motor-driven plane. The entire program will be repeated today and tomorrow.

White tickets only are good for admission today and yellow for tomorrow. They can be obtained through the circulation department of The Sun-Telegraph and all news dealers.

Grief Kills Mother Of Girl Auto Victim

FARRELL, Pa., Dec. 27.—Grief over the death of her daughter, Mary, who was killed in an automobile accident a month ago, caused the death of Mrs. Michael Rakoci, 49.

WAITING FOR SUN-TELEGRAPH SHOW

NEWSIES AT THEATER DOORS

An hour before the doors of Loew's Aldine Theater were swung open yesterday morning, a crowd of nearly 1,000 Sun-Telegraph newsboys stood shivering in the cold, waiting to be admitted to the theater. They were well repaid for their patience, however, when, as guests of the Sun-Telegraph and the Aldine, they enjoyed a two-hour, all-comedy entertainment.

$500 Paid Widow Of Hunter Slain For Groundhog

YORK, Pa., Dec. 27.—(AP.)—A Glen Rock widow has collected $500 under recent state legislation which provides that if a person hunting game mistakes another for the game he seeks, and shoots him, he commits a misdemeanor punishable by a fine of not less than $500 nor more than $1,000, payable to the nearest kin of the deceased.

The fatal shot was fired by Harold Geesey, also of Glen Rock, who was also hunting groundhogs, and who, seeing part of Schriver's body through the brush, mistook him for a groundhog.

Dairy Firm to Hold Parade Tomorrow

The Liberty Dairy Products Corporation, which is a consolidation of the Hermes-Groves, Kittanning, Shady Side and Reinhold organizations, will parade its equipment through the principal streets of the city tomorrow afternoon, beginning at 1:30, from the old Hermes-Grove plant at Forbes street and Sixth avenue. Practically all of the several hundred wagons and motor trucks with a band on the first float and the statue of Liberty will be in line. The parade will move over the Seventh Street Bridge to East Ohio street, west to Federal street, to and over the Sixth Street Bridge, to Fifth avenue, to Aiken, to Walnut, east on Walnut to Negley; north on Negley to Penn; east on Penn to North Dallas, south on North Dallas to Beechwood boulevard, to Forward avenue, to Murray avenue, to Forbes street, to Liberty plant and dismiss.

Rules Dry Agents Free to Use Bribe Traps

ST. LOUIS, Dec. 27.—(INS.)—A prohibition agent may not be convicted of accepting a bribe if he takes it to trap a suspect, or if the suspect gives it to trap the agent, United States District Judge Martineau ruled here in an opinion filed on behalf of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals.

Judge Martineau reversed the conviction of James Robinson, a Kansas City prohibition agent, who was found guilty in United States District Court there of accepting $250 from Dan Marsh, a druggist, in exchange for an agreement not to appear as a witness against the latter. Robinson had been sentenced to 18 months imprisonment.

NEW DOCTOR IN TO SEE KING

LONDON, Dec. 27.—Dr. L. E. H. Whitby, a specialist, was summoned to Buckingham Palace at 2:30 this afternoon to see King George. It was believed he made a bacteriological examination, as he is a specialist in that branch of medicine.

It was officially stated at 3 o'clock this afternoon that there was no change in the royal patient's condition.

WING-WALKER TO REPAIR MOTORS IN DURATION TEST

SAN DIEGO, Cal., Dec. 27.—(AP.)—Mechanics at Rockwell Field are putting the finishing touches on the motors of the big Army transport plane, "Question Mark," which will take off on New Year's morning in an attempt to see just how long a plane and its crew can stay in the air.

For the purpose of allowing minor repairs, catwalks have been built to the two wing motors, and on these catwalks, Sergt. Hood will go to the two motors. In the event of a stop, the plane will be nosed up, to slow down the propeller of the misperforming motor; then a heavy, rubber-shod hook will be thrown around the propeller to hold it still.

Sergt. Roy Hood, wearing a parachute and a lineman's safety belt, will go out to the motor, hook onto it with his belt so that he can use both hands to work, and replace spark plugs valve springs or anything else necessary. Only Hood, while making repairs, and the two pilots, will wear parachutes, except during the refuelling periods.

The course of the test flights, which start today, will be around San Diego. The course of the flight itself, will lie between Rockwell Field or Imperial and some Los Angeles field yet to be selected.

It was at Rockwell Field also, a little over five years ago, that the world's first refuelling flight was made.

The big Fokker monoplane, with its enclosed cabin and three motors, is a vastly different machine from the single-motored open cockpit De Haviland which demonstrated to the world that a plane might take gasoline and oil while in full flight.

STILLS SEIZED IN 3 RAIDS

Alleged distilleries at 24 Clay way and at 3204 Dobson street were raided last night by prohibition agents. A 200-gallon still and a quantity of mash and moonshine were seized in the Clay way house and a smaller still and 15 gallons of moonshine in Dobson street. George Defelice and Thomas Perzynsky were arrested.

Weather Conditions.

There was considerable activity in the pressure units during the last 24 hours. The Atlantic coast high is now well out off the coast, the western high developed southeastward to New Mexico and Texas, and the Missississi valley low covers the Ohio Valley states, the Lake region and northward, with its center north of Lake Superior. Lowest barometer reported is 29.58 inches, at White River. This disturbance produced light rain in all the Ohio Valley states and southward over Georgia and South Carolina. Another low is centered over Saskatchewan, and a third off the Washington and Oregon coast.

Spray the Nose and Throat

Prevent Attacks of Colds and "Flu"

USE

NOZOL

To Keep the Nostrils Clear and Healthy

"Spray the nostrils and throat with an oil to keep them lubricant. 'Flu' and grippe germs cannot take hold in membranes that are well lubricated" ... such is the advice being given out by leading health authorities.

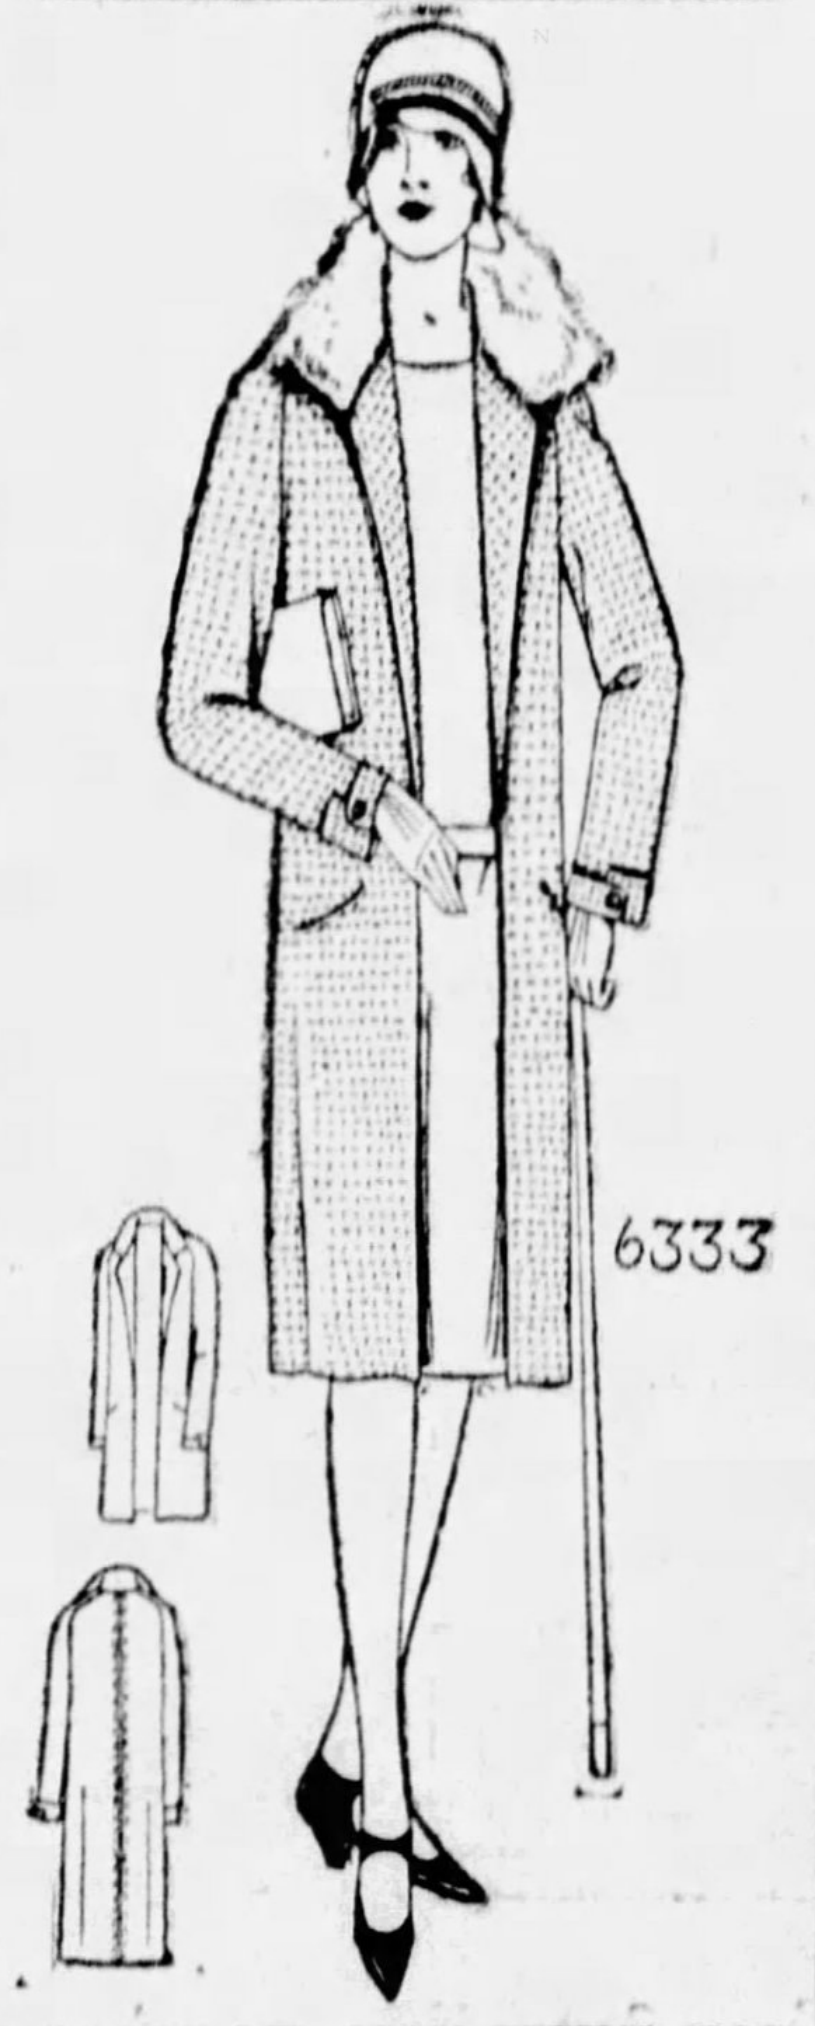
And for this purpose all urge the use of a highly effective preparation ... NOZOL.

Spray or drop a little Nozol in each nostril and the throat two or three times a day. The antiseptic oils cling to the linings, protecting you against the germs.

Nozol costs but little and you should get a bottle today at your druggist. Take no chances, particularly with the present prevalence of flu.

On sale at May Drug Stores and leading druggists.

The Sun-Telegraph Fifteen Cent Pattern



A POPULAR COAT STYLE FOR SLENDER FIGURES.

Novelty woolen, home-spun, camels hair, tweed, broadcloth, velvet or satin may be used for this model. The coat may be in ⅞ length or in hip length. It may be finished with the broad collar pictured in the large view or with the small collar of the smaller view. The sleeve is comfortable, with saddle shoulders, and a shaped cuff. Pockets are inserted at curved slashes in the fronts. This is a good coat for an ensemble costume.

The pattern is cut in three sizes: 16, 18 and 20 years. To make a 16-year size in ⅞-length will require 2½ yards of 54-inch material. In hip length 2¼ yards will be required. To make the collars of fur or fur cloth will require ⅝ yard 6 inches wide for the broad collar, and ½ yard 4 inches wide for the small collar.

COUPON.

This pattern will be sent on receipt of 15 cents (silver or 2c and 1c stamps). Make number, name, address, etc., plain. Send to Pattern Department. The Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, Pittsburgh, Pa.

"Bossy" Gillis Freed by Traffic Officer

SCRANTON, Pa., Dec. 27.—(AP.)—Mayor "Bossy" Gillis, of Newburyport, Mass., ran afoul of the law in Lackawanna county yesterday, but for a brief time only.

"Bossy" and Scranton friends were returning by automobile from Wilkes-Barre, where they had met Mayor Dan Hart, of that city. Coming through Minooka, a suburb, "Bossy" drove his car out of the regular traffic lane and was "hitting it up" at a good pace when a police whistle stopped him. Officer Peter Heston allowed him to go on after learning his identity.

Less risk of "flu" if you do two things

Precautions you can take immediately

"THERE is no use worrying every time you draw a breath for fear you will breathe in some influenza germs. Do the following two things and forget it: First, keep your nose and throat well protected, and second, keep your system in good condition. The chances are you will avoid contagion.

"As a first precaution, I am prescribing Mistol to all my patients, as it protects the nose and throat against the germs of influenza. Use it every morning, the first thing, before you go out. Again when you come home at night. Don't be afraid to use it freely; it will do no harm.

"Just tilt your head back and apply Mistol with the special dropper which comes with every package, until you feel it trickling down your throat. It will clear your head wonderfully, relieve any inflammation; it will help dry up a running nose. It has a soothing effect on the throat, too. Gargle it for a sore throat or a little irritating cough. Above all, it protects the nose and throat against the germs of influenza.

"This is the first precaution; now for the second: Physicians agree that, particularly in times of epidemic, weakening of the system due to purging by laxatives and cathartics is not advisable; therefore, many doctors are prescribing Nujol. It is not a laxative or cathartic but a pure, natural substance that helps your system function at all times the way nature intended it to. Like pure water, it is harmless. In no case does Nujol cause weakening of the system. Take it night and morning; it will keep you in first class condition. You will have a far better chance to resist "flu" or any other diseases that are going the rounds.

"The combination treatment of Nujol and Mistol is a double safeguard against colds and influenza. Start this wise twofold precaution now. Don't delay. Put worry out of your mind. The chances are good that you will escape influenza and colds. Nujol and Mistol are on sale at all druggists."

GIANT POWER PLAN UNDER WAY HERE

Hydro-electric power development, aside from the benefits of flood control, warrant expenditures of $80,000,000 by the United States government in the Allegheny and Monongahela River valleys, according to Congressman Stephen G. Porter.

STEPHEN G. PORTER

Writing to the Flood Commission of Pittsburgh, Congressman Porter contrasts this sum with the $340,000,000 which the government will eventually spend for the development of Boulder Dam, the bill for which was signed last week by President Coolidge.

PLAN RESERVOIRS

Mr. Porter declared that the report of United States engineers, calling for the erection of 17 storage reservoirs in the river valleys back in the mountains, will be available for examination here within the next few days. The report will be in the office of Maj Jarvis J. Bain, United States district engineer.

The report, Congressman Porter declared, will not discuss the advantages of hydro-electric power development, but will deal with flood control only. The survey was made by authority of a special bill fostered by Congressman Porter. The report has been reviewed by Major Gen. Edgar Jadwin, chief of the U. S. Engineer Corps.

Congressman Porter's letter to the Flood Commission, addressed to George S. Davison, chairman, urges the commission's engineers to study the report and make their recommendations as quickly as possible.

"In accordance with the usual policy of the United States engineers with regard to reports of this kind," Mr. Porter wrote, "details of the contents of the report on your project cannot be made public until it is formally transmitted to Congress. But from a talk which I recently had with Gen. Jadwin in connection with this matter, I am greatly encouraged over the successful solution of Pittsburgh's flood problem if all of us stay actively on the job, especially as the practicability of your plans from an engineering standpoint meet the universal approval.

POWER POSSIBILITIES

"I understand, for instance, that while the report will indicate an opinion of the United States engineers that the cost of your reservoir project, said to be estimated by them at $80,000,000, will exceed the benefits in actual dollars from the standpoint of flood control alone, yet other benefits have not been considered in connection with their construction and operation. This is due to the fact that the bill which I presented at your request to authorize this survey limited consideration to flood control only. Under an entirely different act, the United States engineers are now examining your project from the standpoint of the development of water power also, and it is expected that this will show money benefits greatly in addition to those for flood control alone, so that the two together will in all probability indicate sufficiently large benefits to warrant undertaking the construction of these reservoirs.

"With the expenditure of $340,000,000 authorized to control the Colorado River by the erection of Boulder Dam, which is a project similar to yours, there should be no hesitancy in proceeding with the great project at the headwaters of the Allegheny and Monongahela rivers, which will produce enormous benefits to the Pittsburgh district and other thriving communities down the Ohio River in the form of flood control, aid to navigation, development of water power and increasing the available water supply for domestic and manufacturing purposes."

FLU HAMPERS AUTO BUREAU

HARRISBURG, Pa., Dec. 27.—(AP.)—Illness added to the trouble of the State Motor Vehicles Bureau at the start of the annual last week rush for automobile licenses.

One hundred and nineteen employes, representing 14 per cent of the bureau's working force, were absent with colds and influenza, while a record number of applications, 75,000, poured into the offices here. The bureau is admittedly swamped and Benjamin G. Eynon, registrar of motor vehicles, said it would take 36 hours or more to get the licenses into the mails.

Registrar Eynon expects to have 1,200,000 tags issued by New Year's Day, at the expiration of the time limit for the 1928 tags.

Peru's Fliers Reach Montevideo Safely

BUENOS AIRES, Dec. 27.—(AP.)—The two Peruvian aviators who, December 12, began a good will tour which they hope will carry them eventually to New York, flew safely to Montevideo, Uruguay, from here yesterday. The aviators are Carlos Martinez de Pinillos and Lieut. Carlos Zegarra. From Lima they flew to Ilo in Southern Peru and thence to Santiago, Chile. On December 19 they crossed the lofty Andes range by way of the Uspallata Pass to Argentina.

Pittsburgher Dies, Wife Hurt in Crash

M'CONNELLSBURG, Pa., Dec. 27.—F. M. Yagel, of Pittsburgh, was instantly killed and his wife seriously injured yesterday when their automobile skidded on a stretch of icy pavement, ran off the highway and landed in a stone quarry after turning over five times.

Mrs. Yagel was taken to a hospital at Chambersburg. Her condition was reported as critical.

Y. W. C. A. HERE OUT TO RAISE BUDGET

A campaign to raise $135,000, the annual budget of the Young Women's Christian Association of Pittsburgh, will open January 11 and continue until January 21, according to announcement made at campaign headquarters, 521 William Penn way. Mrs. Walter S. Mitchell is general chairman.

Organization of committees to assist in completing the preliminary arrangements for the public appeal to be made throughout Pittsburgh is now under way. The period of advance solicitation has already started and according to reports, this phase of the work is progressing most satisfactorily.

COLLEGE FIRE LOSS $20,000

READING, Pa., Dec. 27.—(AP.)—Fire that swept the chapel building of the new Albright College last night did $20,000 damage, sent many students to the campus carrying their clothes, and burned all the belongings of 13 delegates to the Pennsylvania State Education Association, which convenes here today.

The delegates were in another building, attending a conference of the Pennsylvania School Press Association.

The building has been remodeled recently. It will be rebuilt, Dr. Warren F. Teel, president of the college, said.

Until several weeks ago the new school was known as Schuylkill College. It has been merged with Albright College at Myerstown.

Guard Against "Flu" With Musterole

Just Rub Away Danger

Influenza, Pneumonia and Grippe usually start with a cold. The moment you get those warning aches rub on good old Musterole.

Musterole relieves the congestion and stimulates circulation. It has all the good qualities of the old Mustard plaster without blistering.

First you feel a warm tingle as the healing ointment penetrates the pores, then a soothing, cooling sensation and quick relief. Have Musterole handy for emergency use. It may prevent serious illness.

To Mothers: Musterole is also made in milder form for babies and small children. Ask for Children's Musterole.

Gossip About World of Amusements and Some of Its People

NEW OPERETTA AND COMEDY AMONG THEATER BILLS FOR COMING WEEK

MUSIC IN MAY," the latest operetta to be produced by the Shuberts, comes to the Alvin for an engagement of one week, opening next Monday night, with matinees New Year's Day and Saturday. In the cast are Solly Ward, Greek Evans, Marion Marchante, Bartlett Simmons, Gladys Baxter, Charles Lawrence, Edith Scott, George Offerman, Jr., Joseph Lertora, and many others. Seats are on sale today.

The attraction in the Nixon next week, with a special New Year's Day matinee, will be "The Beaux' Stratagem," with an all-star cast, including James T. Powers, Raymond Hitchcock, Wallace Eddinger, Frances Starr, Fritzi Scheff, Brandon Tynan, Marie Carroll, Percy Ames, Wilfrid Seagram, Minnie Dupree, John Westley, Howard Kyle, Valerie Valaire and S. Miller Kent. Seats are available today.

Ann Harding and her daughter, Jane, went to New York to spend last week with her husband, Harry Bannister, who was playing there in a Theater Guild production. Miss Harding is appearing in the Pitt in "The Trial of Mary Dugan."

Jack Norworth and Dorothy Adelphi, in a comedy, "The Nagger," will be headliners in the Keith-Albee-Orpheum two-a-day vaudeville program in the Davis New Year's week.

JOHN GILBERT and Greta Garbo are the co-stars of "A Woman of Affairs," which comes to the Penn screen next week. Teddy Joyce and the Penn stage band in "Bubbles" will be the stage attraction.

Monte Blue, who will be seen in the Stanley New Year's week in his first talking picture, "Conquest," will have H. B. Warner, Lois Wilson, Tully Marshall and Edmund Breese in his support.

The New Year's eve performance in Loew's Aldine will be continuous until 12:30 a. m. The feature sound picture will be Belle Bennett in "Mother Macchree."

"Dimpled Darlings" will be the attraction next week in the Academy. It features George Leon and Fay Norman. There will be shows at 12:05 and 3 o'clock New Year's morning.

BILLY DOVE and Antonio Moreno are featured in "Adoration," sound picture which opens the new Enright, East Liberty, Friday night, and will remain there New Year's week.

"The Woman Disputed," will bring Norma Talmadge to the screen of the Regent for a week, beginning Saturday.

Vitaphone and movietone will be seen and heard for the first time in the Sheridan Square today. The first picture will be "The Toilers," with Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., and Jobyna Ralston. Clark & McCullough will appear in a "talkie" act via vitaphone.

NEW ENRIGHT DEDICATION FRIDAY

East Liberty's new Enright Theater, built at a cost of $3,000,000, will be opened tomorrow. It is at Penn avenue and Beatty street. And East Liberty business, social and civic leaders, as well as representatives of World War service organizations from many communities in Allegheny County, will assist in its dedication.

Mayor Charles H. Kline has issued a proclamation complimenting the Stanley Company on the dedication. It has been named for and will be perpetuated in memory of Thomas Francis Enright, Pittsburgh boy, who was the first American soldier to give his life in action in the World War. The East Liberty Chamber of Commerce will conduct the ceremonies. A luncheon at 12:15 in the Rittenhouse will attract nearly 1,000 members of the chamber and civic leaders. Mayor Kline, County Commissioner Edward V. Babcock and State Treasurer-elect Edward Martin will speak. Magistrate A. D. Brandon, chairman of the chamber's committee in charge of the affair, will preside.

Following the lunch, a military parade will be held, participated in by members of veteran organizations.

Capt. Thomas Voss, commandant of Rodgers Field, and other members of the Three Hundred and Twenty-fourth Observation squadron, will fly over East Liberty and drop wreaths on the procession and theater. The One Hundred and Seventh Field Artillery will fire a 21-gun salute. Capt. Robert Woodside will deliver a brief address at the raising of the flag.

The doors of the theater will open at 7 o'clock. At 8 o'clock will be the opening ceremony in which President of Council James F. Malone will give the address of welcome. President C. F. Bayard, of the East Liberty Chamber, will accept the theater for the community. This will be followed by the regular program of entertainment.

The Enright, seating 3,500, is probably Pittsburgh's largest theater, although third in seating capacity. It is decorated in French modernistic style.

Film Destroyed in Blast.

SOME WHO APPEAR :-: IN PROGRAMS :-: NEW YEAR'S EVE

Robert Williams, of "The Trial of Mary Dugan," to be in Pitt second week.

Frances Starr, who will be seen in "The Beaux Stratagem," all-star comedy coming to stage of the Nixon.

Gladys Baxter has a prominent part in "Music in May," play with tunes, to be presented in the Alvin.

Frankie Heath, singing comedienne, will appear at the Davis with "A Quartette of Song Stories," each a thumbnail sketch of a mood.

Greta Garbo will be presented on the screen of the Penn, with John Gilbert, in "A Woman of Affairs."

Mendelssohn Choir In Concert Friday

The Mendelssohn Choir of Pittsburgh will give its annual presentation of Handel's "Messiah" in the Carnegie Music Hall Friday night. Nevada van der Veer will be featured as soloist. The performance will begin at 8 o'clock.

YOUTHFUL MOVIE ACTRESSES SEEK THIRTEEN COVETED "BABY STAR" ROLES

By REGINA CREWE.

(Copyright, 1928, By King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 27.

THE usual political campaigning for the election of the screen's 1929 baby stars is in full swing. Things are apparently shaping up well for several of the girls. It looks as though the following are sure of a place among the lucky 13: Jean Arthur, Virginia Cherrill, Mona Rica, Merna Kennedy, Anita Page, Josephine Dunn, Jeanette Loff, Doris Dawson, Helen Twelvetrees and Agnes Franey. They say that the Goldwyn Studios plan to nominate Lily Damita for baby stardom. But so far her name has not been offered.

The current issue of one of the fan magazines directs attention to the laughable situation existing between a young English writer and a popular leading man. The writer is Cedric Belfrage, and the leading man is Conrad Nagel. Belfrage authored a yarn entitled "Clap Hands, Here Comes Conrad," which appeared in the November issue of a motion picture magazine. Since then a rare tempest in a teapot has been amusing the more or less innocent bystanders. All the fan magazines are presenting a united front for the freedom of their pages. Belfrage has been tacitly barred from several studios. The boys in the studios are now making bets that Belfrage won't be in Hollywood three months from now. And the fan writers are wagering he will. And how. Meantime, the title of the story has become a Hollywood slogan. It would be a dull world save for the Nagels and the Belfrages and the Callahans and the Murphys.

More Glory For Broadway

BROADWAY is certainly getting its break in the movies. The latest film featuring the bright street is "Broadway Bound," to be made by an independent company, with Marian Nixon and little Frankie Darrow in featured roles. It is to be an audible photoplay made with sound equipment in the Christy Studios. Fred Newmeyer will direct.

News comes from odd places. The garage man tells me to please make future checks payable to Mr. William Fox's organization. The site is ideal for a theater, and it appears that a 4,000-seat Fox theater is soon to be erected. This will be about four blocks from the new Warner Theater. Pantages is putting up another house a similar distance in the opposite direction from Warner's. With these three big ones, plus the two large Grauman theaters and a number of neighborhood houses, Hollywood will be able to pick and choose its movie entertainment.

Pauline Garon Working Again

PAULINE GARON has completely recovered from the bad shakeup she received in a recent car crash, and is back on the Warner lot playing a good part in "The Gamblers," in which Lois Wilson and Edward Everett Horton also are featured. Pauline also has been signed for a two-and-a-half reel talkie feature at Educator.

Westerns may be dead or dying, but animal pictures live on. At least, out at Sennett's they are making a sound picture called "The Lion's Roar." I understand it shows the various beasts and birds of the jungles, and "sounds" them, too. What a wonderful way for the kids of today to learn their natural history lesson.

Some one says Marcelline Day has signed with Paramount. Someone else that she is all hooked up with Fox. Both statements are correct. As soon as Marcelline Day finishes in "The Wild Party" at Paramount, she goes to Fox to be co-featured with Helen Twelvetrees in "Nobody's Children." "The Wild Party" role was originally given Ruth Taylor, but, with her usual bad breaks, Ruth is out now, and Marcelline is in.

Movie "North" Not So Chilly

MAHLON HAMILTON, if you remember him—and who doesn't?—is back before the kleigs again. He'll play opposite Sophie Tucker—Madame Sophie Tucker—in Warner Brothers' Vitaphone picture, "Honky Tonk." Audrey Ferris will be the young love interest, as they call it in the movies. And, incidentally, "Sex Menace" is the latest movie term for a "vamp." Shades of Theda! And Louise Glaum!

"White Fury," a tale of the frozen North, has been rechristened at the Fox Studio. The new name is "The Sin Sister." Whee! That should take some of the chill off the North Pole!

William Powell is going to be the something-or-other in Paramount's picture, "Darkened Rooms." Does the title scare you? The film will. Because it's a story of spirits and spiritualism. Ghosts 'n'everything. Philip Gibbs, who is a "Sir" when he's in England, is the author. Josef Von Sternberg will direct.

They say that the Fox picture, "In Old Arizona," is going to wow 'em. If it does lots of folks, who have been thinking western stories are dead ducks, will have time to change their minds before next season's production schedules are made out.

'Abie's Rose' Steal Planned, Says Witness

NEW YORK, Dec. 27.—(INS.)—The intention in purchasing the play which led to the screen production entitled "The Cohens and the Kellys" was to make a movie "as nearly as possible like 'Abie's Irish Rose,'" Warren Laurence, author, testified here in the suit of Anne Nichols, playwright, against Universal Pictures Corporation and others.

Miss Nichols is suing in Federal Court for $3,000,000, alleging that the Universal's pictures was an infringement of her rights as the author of "Abie's Irish Rose."

The witness testified that the picture rights to Aaron Hoffman's play, "Two Blocks Away," were bought by E. M. Asher, representing a theatrical agent. Asher paid $8,500.

ACTOR LEAVES WIDOW NO CASH

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 27.—(AP.)—Fred Thomson, 37, portrayer of western screen roles, who died here yesterday, left his widow only "my love and affection."

"I do this at her own request and in the belief that she is already provided with sufficient means for her care," he said in his will, filed for probate. Mrs. Thomson, better known as Frances Marion, is a scenario writer.

Thomson's will provides that his estate shall be shared equally by his mother, Mrs. Clara F. Thomson, and his 3-year-old son, Fred, Jr. The document said he believes his wife will provide for their adopted son, Richard Thomson, two years old.

PRIVATE FILM SHOWS UPHELD

WASHINGTON, Dec. 27.—(INS.)—An injunction has been issued by consent in the Federal Court at Oklahoma City, to restrain the Motion Picture Theater Owners Association of Oklahoma from engaging in a conspiracy to prevent non-theatrical exhibitions of movies from leasing picture plays.

According to the announcement at the Justice Department the defendant sought to prevent schools, churches and public buildings, not primarily engaged as motion picture theaters, from obtaining plays in Oklahoma and Northern Texas.

BEWARE THE COUGH FROM COLDS THAT HANG ON

Coughs from colds may lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs from colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist.

OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

PREFERRED LOVE STOCK

By EFFIE DELNORD

CARA was quite determined at breakfast and at lunch and all afternoon that she would not tell Bill what she had heard the night before. She knew it would not only discourage him but positively make him unhappy. There was no sense of having him go about for days with this burden of bad news. She, herself, would carry the weight, locked safely in her heart. The idea made Cara feel very noble and self-sacrificing. But once during the afternoon when Bill, being in a riotous good humor, inquired why she looked so glum, she felt decidedly irritated. Here he was fairly exploding with good spirits while she was oppressed by the bad news that really concerned only him. It did not seem fair. Even Tony Snark, who came stag to the skiing party—Tony never took another girl anywhere since Cara had thrown him over for Bill—remarked on her depressed air.

It was over hot tea and muffins in the clubhouse when Bill's jokes and smug satisfaction began to get on Cara's nerves. "Bill," she said finally, "there's something I ought to tell you. Last night at Jennings, I overheard a conversation between Frazer and Maj. Cummings. They didn't see me, of course."

Bill pricked up his ears and turned a genial face attentively to the pretty girl. "That sounds interesting. What did my boss have to say to his best customer?"

"I didn't hear the beginning of the conversation. Maybe I wouldn't have listened at all if I hadn't heard your name mentioned. Then somebody made a racket and I lost a sentence or two. Then I heard Frazer say, 'It's our biggest territory and I practically promised it to him when Blake retires next month. He'll be disappointed but it can't be helped.'"

All the bright color seemed to drain out of Bill's face. "That New England territory. Look here, Cara, he didn't really promise it to me but with the results I've been showing in this state I counted on getting it. You know we have." He pushed away his half finished tea and lit a cigaret. "What else did they say?" he asked in a hard, bitter voice.

"Not much. They began discussing Tony Snark and Elwell Lane. Something about a Bothward order," Cara remembered vaguely.

Bill's eyes narrowed. "Elwell hasn't a chance for that territory. He made a botch of that Bothward deal. I was the man to do it. It was rank injustice but old Blake's related to Tony and pushes him all he can. Saw Blake playing billiards with the major last night, too. I might have known. No chance unless you have pull with this firm. I'll be darned if I'll work my head off any more. Tony got all the credit for patching up that Bothward mess but you know, Cara, that I was the one who helped Tony. Fool that I was. Of course, I don't blame Tony. He's a nice fellow and I'm glad to see him get ahead."

"Tony will get the New England territory?" asked Cara, wide-eyed.

"Elwell Lane hasn't a chance, though he's been planning how he'd spend that fifteen thousand a year." Bill's clipped laugh was dry and brittle.

"You mean that territory will pay fifteen thousand?" asked Cara, softly. Then she measured him with cold, practical eyes. "Why in the dickens didn't you get yourself in soft with Old Blake and Frazer? Always hobnobbing with the wrong people! Where were you, asleep? Anybody with brains would have made sure of that job. Why did you help Tony, anyway? Why didn't you stand by and let him get in a nice tangle? Then you could have stepped in and made a good showing. Now what?"

Bill stared at her. "Say, lower your voice, will you? We'll simply have to wait, Cara, that's all. And if you think it's a hopeless waiting, don't spare my feelings."

On the ride home Bill apologized and they made up. "Don't breathe a word of what you heard to anybody, Cara," he warned her.

Cara had no intention of telling a soul, but Margie, her sister, met her in the hall with an annoying request. "Cara, you'll have to read to Grandma tonight. I've a date. You've been out every single night for 10 days and I've got to see and hear something else or go batty." Margie was small and good-natured but awfully determined at times. So Cara seeing Margie's cherub chin at its worst angle, let two big tears trickle down her chapped cheeks and told her all about Bill's disappointment.

"It would just finish me to sit in a sickroom tonight, Margie, with all this trouble on my mind. I'm so glad you got a date at last, though I do believe you called somebody up to get it," Cara suspected.

"Well, what if I did?" challenged Margie, "I'm not taking Tony Snark away from any other girl!"

Cara did some swift thinking while she noticed that Margie's chin was as set and determined as ever. "Oh, don't rub that in!" she whimpered and began to cry in earnest. "I never knew you were fond of Bill. I certainly never wanted to take him away from you, Margie. And it was you, remember, who drew my attention to his brilliant prospects."

"I was just bragging," remembered Margie bitterly, "bragging about what I thought was my private property. Now you got him and you stick to him. Are you mercenary enough to want the man who gets that big territory?"

"Don't talk so rotten mean. That has nothing to do with it. Tony has never quit loving me and I know it. Bill could never make me happy and now it's almost sure that Tony's going to get this big advancement—oh, I've been such a fool. If I'd only never listened to you!"

"Listened to me!" incredulously. "Do stop that awful noise. Next thing Grandma will hear you and I'll be up all night with her. If you really were on the point of making up with Tony why—Oh, he'll toot his horn at 7 and you can run out and make some excuse for me."

Cara wiped her tears. "Will you break it kind of gently to Bill, you see, I'd hate to have him think it was on account of Tony getting this New England territory?"

Margie read to grandma until the old lady fell into sound snoring sleep, then the girl tiptoed downstairs and decided, since it was nearly 10 that Bill had met Tony and Cara. Her thoughts were just as dreary as the dripping rain outside when Bill's car came to a splashing stop before the house.

"Where's Cara?" he demanded to know when he came in and struggled out of a mud-spattered slicker.

Margie told him.

Bill laughed, not bitter nor forced, but as if he was genuinely amused. "Let's go in by the fire, Margie. I've had a dickens of a time. Met Mrs. Frazer with a flat tire out on that muddy cross-cut. Well, I naturally had to help the boss' wife. Then after I'd put on another tire isn't she scared to drive without chains and I had to take her home. She's mighty fond of you, Margie, and not any too fond of me until I told her—" he flushed.

"What did you tell her, Bill?" Margie encouraged him softly.

"Oh, nothing!" But he had Margie's hands and in another moment his head was on her shoulder and Margie kissed something wet from his cheek. "I've been such a cur, Margie, and I thought I'd lost you forever and —what's the use of explaining, I'll just try to prove to you all the rest of my life that you didn't make a mistake. Can't we get married soon? I know girls like oodles of time to get all kinds of stuff, but wouldn't two months do?"

Margie shook her head. "Today's Saturday, so we'll say Wednesday noon. You see Blake retires on the first and Mrs. Frazer told me confidentially that in choosing a man for his place, a married man would be given the preference."

STONE ELECTED BY ENGINEERS

E. C. Stone, system development manager of the Duquesne Light Company and a nationally noted electrical engineer, has been nominated for vice president of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers. The nomination is tantamount to election.

Mr. Stone is a member of the faculty of the School of Business Administration, University of Pittsburgh, and graduate lecturer of the Sheffield Scientific School of Yale University. The district which he will supervise after his election includes Delaware, District of Columbia, Maryland, Ohio, West Virginia, New Jersey and Pennsylvania.

Mother and Daughter Meet After 23 Years

NEW CASTLE, Pa., Dec. 27.—Mrs. Charles Boule, Harrison street, is reunited with her mother, Mrs. Charles Johnston, of Spokane, O., for the first time in 23 years. The mother is the guest of the daughter for the holidays, the happiest in their lives, they state.

The family broken up two dozen years ago, Mrs. Boule, then a small girl, was adopted by another family, which moved from Ohio to Pennsylvania. Mrs. Boule believed her mother dead.

Funeral of Bishop Crane on Saturday

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 27.—(AP.)—The funeral of the Rt. Rev. Michael J. Crane, auxiliary bishop of Philadelphia, who died yesterday, will be held Saturday morning. Pontifical mass will be celebrated in the church of St. Francis de Sales, of which Bishop Crane was rector.

Because of the bishop's death, Cardinal Dougherty has cancelled his New Year's reception by the clergy and laity of the arch-diocese.

ESSEX
THE CHALLENGER

NOW READY and bids 1,000,000 Super-Six Owners to pit it against all that motordom has to offer.......

24% Greater power—Over 70 miles an hour—Hydraulic shock absorbers all around—Effective double action four-wheel brakes, the efficiency of which is not affected by water or mud and which permit positive car control by the slightest foot pressure—Larger, roomier bodies—Seats easily adjustable to comfortable driving position—Electric gas and oil gauge—Instant starting regardless of weather—New radiator, with shutters, of course—All bright parts chromium-plated—New easier steering—Greater economy in fuel and oil.

IN FAST GET-AWAY—no car is excepted. IN SPEED—anything the road offers up to 70 miles an hour. IN HILL CLIMBING—against any car you choose. IN APPEARANCE—match it for smartness with costlier cars. IN EASE OF DRIVING—note smoothness of motor—ease of steering—roadability and effectiveness of brakes. IN ENDURANCE—60 miles an hour all day long is well within its range.

One million owners know the special advantages of the Super-Six. They are best qualified to compare the Essex the Challenger. To them we offer first opportunity to test the most powerful, the largest, roomiest, smoothest, easiest riding—most complete Essex ever built. But all motordom must be astounded that even with seventy-six notable improvements, the price is the lowest in Essex history—a price but little above the lowest-priced car on the market.

What's on the Air

By DARRELL V. MARTIN, Radio Editor.

A NEW "hour" by the Studebaker Company, presenting a 40-piece orchestra, and a Charity Ball from the William Penn Orchestra are two of the outstanding features on the air tonight.

The Studebaker program will make its debut over WJAS at 10:30 o'clock while WCAE will present the Clicquot Club Eskimos on the Charity Ball broadcast at the same hour.

Letha Frazier Rankin, soprano, is the soloist on the Kemble and Mills concert tonight.

The story of a football hero and his girl friend will be dramatized on the Maytag program over KDKA at 10 P. M.

Other highlights are the appearance of Helen Dreyden, illustrator and fashion artist, on the Lehn and Fink Serenade, KDKA at 8 o'clock; Craig B. Hazelwood, president of the American Banker's Association, on the Halsey-Stuart program from WCAE at 10 P. M.; Ruth Breton and Allan Jones from WJAS at 9 o'clock and at 10 o'clock from this station a reproduction of the dinner that Rossini gave to his friends at Pesaro.

HOLIDAY MUSIC

Mabel Zoeckler, soprano, and the Choristers, a male octet, will be heard in a program of characteristic Christmas songs during the Wayside Inn Feature over WJZ, WBZ, WHAM at 10 tonight. Miss Zoeckler will sing as an opening number "Oft in the Stilly Night." The Choristers will give "Good King Wenceslas."

The "Solemn March" from Handel's oratorio, "Joshua," will be played as the opening number of the Slumber Music at 11 p. m. over WJZ. Selections include the Minuet and Finale from "Fifth Symphony," by Haydn; Schubert's "Ave Marie"; "Dreaming" by Strauss, and a musical scene from Wagner's "Lohengrin."

The Mid-Week Hymn Sing to be broadcast at 7 tonight by WEAF will give a picture of the life of a Christian in a day. A quartet will render Barnby's "O Paradise" and "Holy Night, O Holy Night" by Chwatal. Arthur Billings Hunt, baritone, will sing "Go to the Deeps of God's Promise."

Peter Amison, tenor, and Emerson Williams, bass, will give duets, "God Calling Yet," by Oliver, and Phelps' "O Morning Land." Rodeheaver's "I Love Thy Word" will be sung by Mr. Amison.

The Coward Comfort Hour from WEAF, WEEI, WJAR, WTIC at 7:30 P. M. is entitled "The Chimes of Trinity"—a musical story of an old time New Year's custom of gentlemen calling upon their lady friends, both old and young. The text will relate all the quaint and humorous details of the New Year's "calls" while the musical program will contain many old friends in the shape of songs of yesteryear. Some of the songs are "Hail, Hail the Gang's All Here," "He's a Jolly Good Fellow," "Auld Lang Syne," "Good Night Ladies" and "Sweet Adeline."

From WGN at 10:30 o'clock the Iso-Vis Orchestra will offer "Don't Be Like That," "March of the Marionettes," "Caressing Butterfly" and "Dancing Doll."

Lisping, star-eyed blondes may be the preference of gentlemen, but on the authority of Helen Dryden, one of Americas foremost illustrators and fashion artists, herself a blonde, the most beautiful women are the tall, willowy brunettes. They can be more unusual and striking than their light or Titian-haired sisters.

Expansion of this opinion and numerous others on the general theme of woman's charm and beauty will be broadcast tonight by Miss Dryden.

The program lists Miss Breton's selections as "Hymn to the Sun," from "Coq d'Or" of Rimsky-Karsakoff, in which she will be accompanied by the symphony orchestra, and "Tambourin Chinois" and "La Gitana," both compositions of Fritz Kreisler. In the last two Miss Breton will be assisted by the pianist, Walter Golde.

Mr. Jones has chosen for his selections "La Donna e Mobile," from the opera "Rigoletto" of Verdi; Liszt's "Liebestraum" and Victor Herbert's well-loved "I'm Falling in Love With Someone," from "Naughty Marietta." Mr. Jones will be assisted by the symphony orchestra.

A violin and tenor duet has been arranged for Miss Breton and Mr. Jones, "O Cease Thy Singing, Maiden Fair," by Rachmaninoff.

The program will be completed with selections by the symphony orchestra, the Mayfair House Salon Orchestra, the Picadors (a popular dance orchestra), and the Sonora Male Trio.

10:00 P. M.—Great composers.

Pesaro, a little town on the Adriatic, was the birthplace of Rossini, and one of the greatest events in its history was the large dinner that Rossini gave there. Many famous musicians attended it, including Wagner, Bellini, Donizetti and Spontini. As a special feature, Rossini arranged to have the leading characters in his operas represented, and Cinderella, Rosita and William Tell were all to be seen and heard singing their particular operatic roles. This colorful scene will be reproduced.

10:30 P. M.—Studebaker program: Forty-piece orchestra, directed by Freddie Rich.

Six Seconds For Safety

"Old Man Jonah had his troubles, but they weren't traffic jams! Play safe!"

That was the warning issued by the Pittsburgh Motor Club in its campaign to prevent death and injury to Pittsburghers during the Christmas holidays. Six seconds, the club opines, will prevent that accident.

There were 25,775 persons killed in the United States last year in automobile accidents.

4 MASKED MEN FLOG BARBER

READING, Pa., Dec. 27.—(AP.)—Kidnaped by four masked men at 11 o'clock Christmas night from a fire house, Harry R. Matz, barber, was carried in a darkened sedan to the outskirts of the city, beaten and finally flung out of the car early yesterday.

Matz had received a letter signed "K. K. K." Saturday, in which a flogging was threatened "unless you stop drinking and stay at home with your family."

Matz took the letter as a joke. He thought fellow members of the fire company sent it to him in fun. He did not recognize any of his assailants.

PATRICIA PITT'S SPRIGHTLY COMMENT ON PITTSBURGH'S SOCIETY HAPPENINGS

School Girls' Societies Charity Ball Big Event Tonight

TONIGHT'S the night of the big ball—the night when society outdoes itself to provide funds for one of its pet charities. This year the Federation of Girls' School Societies hopes to pay the indebtedness on the new building at the Harmarville Home through the proceeds of the ball, and the most extensive plans have been made to entertain the numbers of folks who always crowd the William Penn Hotel the night of this dance.

I've told you a lot about these plans during the past two or three weeks, and in addition to this, I hear that Karl Heinrich and Madeline Ward are going to have a specialty dance. And did you know that Donald Scott Rodgers is going to add his bit to the Hawaiian atmosphere of the cafeteria by singing Hakaiian songs to the accompaniment of his banjo? This cafeteria seems likely to be about the most colorful feature of the ball, speaking quite literally, with the gay Hawaiian costumes and decorations. It will be open, I understand, from 11 to 2 o'clock. William C. Robinson, Jr., is chairman of the committee of men who will assist.

Upstairs, the entertainment will be featured by the "radio" dances to be given by a group of young women who have been rehearsing some difficult steps for the past fortnight. These girls, as I told you before, will step on to the ballroom floor through a huge loud speaker.

ONE of the popular debutantes of the winter, Virginia Willock, was guest of honor last night at a dance which her mother and father, the Frank Scott Willocks, of Sewickley, gave in the Pittsburgh Club. As a welcome change in the decorations, which have been so exclusively "Christmas" for the past three or four weeks, the ballroom was adorned with masses of pink rambler roses, the stage being shielded with a hedge of pink begonias.

The Willocks and their daughter received in one corner of the ballroom, before an embankment of palms and the debutante's gift flowers. Virginia wore white tulle and silver and carried Talisman roses tied with silver ribbon. Mrs. Willock appeared in yellow moire and her flowers were red matchless roses tied with gold ribbons.

Ivory baskets of roses, stevia, heather and yellow pompons centered the supper tables, which were lighted with candles in the pastel colors. There were about 350 guests, I understand.

Before the dance, Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Stewart and Mr. and Mrs. J. Shirley Austin gave a small dinner in the Stewart home in honor of their debutante sister, Marian Stone.

* * *

AN engagement announcement of interest both here and in Sewickley Valley is that of Katherine Baldwin Porter and Hartley Given Walker, which has just been made by her parents, the John Ebbert Porters, of Sewickley. Mr. Walker is a son of the junior Hay Walkers, of Beaver road, Edgeworth.

AMONG the young married folks who are spending Christmas with their parents are the Henry Lawrence Joneses, of Wilkes Barre, who are visiting Mrs. Jones' parents, Col. and Mrs. Samuel Harden Church, of Wallingford street.

And also, Mr. and Mrs. John Berdan and their small daughter, Peggy, are here from Toledo, spending the holidays with Mrs. Berdan's father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Raymond Evans, of Beechwood boulevard. Mrs. Berdan was Margaret Evans, you know.

ANNOUNCEMENT is made of the marriage of Miss Florence Ada Duff, of this city, and J. Frank Good, of Braddock, which was solemnized yesterday morning at 11:30 o'clock in the First Lutheran Church of Pittsburgh.

* * *

MR. AND MRS. F. W. LAGER, of Perryview avenue, North Side, have announced the marriage of their daughter, Miss Elvira Anne Lager, and Dr. John A. Moran, of Pittsburgh and Scranton, which was solemnized yesterday morning at 9 o'clock in the chapel of Duquesne University by the Very Rev. M. A. Hehir, president of the university, and the Rev. J. P. Danner, treasurer of the university. Mrs. Charles V. Doherty was her sister's matron of honor and Mr. Doherty was best man. A breakfast in the president's room of the William Penn Hotel followed the ceremony and later Mr. and Mrs. Morgan left for a southern trip. They will be at home after January 2 in Perryview avenue. The bride is a graduate of Seton Hill College and is art instructor at the Perry High School. Dr. Moran is dean of the school of accounts, finance and commerce at Duquesne University.

INTER FOUNDER ON CAMPUS OF SCHOOL

ROCK HILL, S. C., Dec. 27. —(AP.)—Dr. David Bancroft Johnson, founder and president of Winthrop College for Women, who died at his home here early yesterday, was to be buried today on the campus where he spent so many of his professional years.

Affectionately called by thousands of "Winthrop daughters" as "Debe," Dr. Johnson was known nationally among educators as a leader to his profession. He was a former president of both the National Education Association and the Southern Education Association.

He conceived the idea of establishing a training school for South Carolina teachers, and at his own expense he went to Boston and secured an initial grant of $2,000 from Dr. Robert C. Winthrop, then chairman of the board of the Peabody Foundation for Education in the South.

In the autumn of 1895 he opened Winthrop College with 19 students and one teacher. The first classes were held in the chapel of the Presbyterian Theological Seminary, a converted stable.

A few years later the school started by Dr. Johnson was taken over by the state of South Carolina and moved to Rock Hill. Its present equipment and buildings are valued at more than $2,000,000, and its student body exceeds 1,800.

Girl Badly Burned As Combs Ignite In Beauty Shop

HOUSTON, Tex., Dec. 27.—(INS.)—Miss Dollie Davidson, 21, is in a critical condition at a hospital here as the result of burns received yesterday when two celluloid combs in her hair caught fire while she was undergoing a "beauty" treatment at a beauty shop here.

An attendant's hands were badly burned in removing the blazing combs from the girl's head.

ITALY'S OPERA SEASON OPEN

ROME, Dec. 27.—(AP.)—The winter season of the Royal Opera in Rome was opened formally last night in the presence of the King. Victor Emanueel, clad in ordinary evening clothes like most of his opera loving subjects, was given a friendly demonstration.

Claudia Muzio, well known in New York and Chicago opera circles, interpreted the main role of "La Norma," by Bellini.

MILAN, Dec. 27.—(AP.)—The famous opera house Scala reopened last night for the season with the "Meistersinger." A large audience was on hand to celebrate the thirtieth anniversary of direction by Arturo Toscanini.

U. S. EDUCATION WINS PRAISE OF POPE

ROME, Dec. 27.—(AP.)—Pope Pius, in a recent letter to the American episcopacy, praised the bishops for the education of Catholic youth in America and the improvements brought about at the Catholic University of America at Washington, D. C. The letter, dated October 10, was made public here yesterday.

The Pontiff referred to a letter of Leo XIII, who wrote to the late Cardinal Gibbons in 1887, showing the great advantages, spiritual and material, of creating the Washington university. The Pope said that it would not be in accordance with Catholic dignity if the Washington institution were not absolutely perfect, inasmuch as many private universities have been helped much through the charity of private individuals and Catholic societies.

He recalled that the university was created not only for ecclesiastics, but also for laymen, and warned that it hardly can be expected that Catholic lay scholars will abandon Protestant institutions if the Catholic University does not offer all the advantages that others do.

The Pontiff suggested that there should be instituted a "university day" some Sunday during the year for the clergy to explain the meaning of the university's function and to ask for funds to further its work.

BYRD ATTACKS BARRIER TO ANTARCTIC

NEW YORK, Dec. 27.—(AP.)—Commander Richard E. Byrd and his companions today stood face to face with the vast unknown of Antartica they set out to explore.

In a wireless message to Curtis D. Wilbur, Secretary of the Navy, through the New York Times, the St. Louis Post-Dispatch and associated newspapers, Commander Byrd announced the arrival of his ship, the City of New York, at the great mysterious ice barrier which drives its wedge into the continent of ice and snow surrounding the South Pole.

At the Bay of Whales the party has challenged the towering ice cliff of the barrier that stands sentry on the last frontier of geographical exploration, 2,400 miles beyond the last outpost of human habitation.

PROBE POLE SECRETS

From this great ice-capped continent of 5,000 square miles, Commander Byrd and his scientists hope, with the aid of airplanes, to wrest secrets which will add to men's knowledge of the globe upon which they live.

Arrival of the ship on Christmas Day brought the explorers to the scene of their adventure in what is midsummer at the "bottom of the world," when milder temperatures and less unfavorable weather offer the most auspicious conditions for flying and scientific observation.

The first task which faced the party was the landing of their planes and other equipment. This had to be sent up to the top of the ice cliff for establishment of a base from which air excursions and dog-sledge dashes will be made toward the pole.

VILLAGE ON ICE CLIFF

The base will assume the aspect of a village of portable houses and workshops carried as part of the $1,000,000 equipment of the expedition. Storage for the tons of food and fuel and hangars for the four planes in the air squadron of the expedition also must be provided at the base.

Dog teams will be used to transport supplies to a line of emergency stations stretching from the base toward the pole for use by the fliers if they are forced down.

The party, which numbers 65, is equipped and provisioned to spend two years in the enterprise.

Around on the South American side, another expedition, headed by an aviator, is known to be looking toward a flight over the South Pole. That party is under command of Sir George Hubert Wilkins, who has joined with Commander Byrd in declaring that neither regards the other as a rival for the first flight across the Pole.

Two explorers, both using dog teams on overland trips, have visited the South Pole. They were Roald Amundsen and Capt. Robert F. Scott.

Aged Doctor on Visit Killed by Automobile

DETROIT, Mich., Dec. 27.—(AP.)—Dr. Charles Nelson, 75, of Morgantown, W. Va., who came here to spend the Christmas holidays with his son, Walter M. Nelson, an attorney, was fatally injured when he was struck by an automobile last night. Dr. Nelson was crossing a street when the machine hit him. He died a short time later in a hospital.

CHANGEABLE BLONDE JAILED IN KIDNAPING

LANCASTER, Pa., Dec. 27.—(AP.)—Rita Doran, blonde who became a brunette, was in the county jail today on charges of larceny growing out of the abduction and robbery of Russell Troup, state highway patrolman, last October.

State police said the young woman, also known as Mrs. Rose Lewis and Mrs. Willard Cole, would plead not guilty and insisted that she is the wife of Willard Cole, who with Edward Touhey, is under arrest in Cincinnati in a bank robbery investigation. Cole and Touhey were with Miss Doran at the time he was abducted, according to Troup's testimony at the hearing.

Before a magistrate she smiled while Troup told of his kidnaping. He said he had stopped a speeding car near here, in which a girl and two men were riding. He was disarmed, and was forced to drive a stolen car, he said, until they reached Baltimore, when he was ordered out and left by the roadside. His life was threatened by the abductors, Troup declared, but Miss Doran interceded and he was not harmed.

BARBER SLICES OWN THROAT

His throat slashed with a razor, Justus Mathin, 50, barber, was found in a pool of blood in his shop at 209 North Main street, Sharpsburg, this morning by a customer. He was taken to St. Francis Hospital where he died soon after being admitted. The death was reported to the coroner as a suicide. Before dying he asked that his relatives be not notified. He disclosed no motive for his act. He was unmarried and is said to have one sister in the Sharpsburg district.

BLUE LAW VOTE URGED BEFORE TRADE BOARD

Michael A. Musmanno, representative in the state Legislature, renewed his attack upon rigid Sunday blue laws in an address before members of the Allied Boards of Trade at the Congress of Women's Clubs last night. Musmanno advocates a referendum on Sunday laws.

A bill drafted by Musmanno, to be introduced at the beginning of the 1929 session of the Legislature, provides that 15 per cent of registered voters of a township, borough or city ward may petition the County Commissioners to place upon the ballot at the next election, the question whether, and to what extent, the Sunday laws shall be modified.

OPPOSES "OPEN SUNDAY"

"I am opposed to a wide open Sunday," Musmanno said. "Sunday is a day of sanctity and should be so respected. But this day of rest is capable of a larger use, not by making it less moral, not by treating it in a spirit of desecration, but by giving it a fuller and broader application. Even if modification should be approved, no sport or entertainment would be permitted until after 3 o'clock p. m."

Musmanno declared he believed that with such a law on the statute books, there would be a more general feeling of respect for the Sabbath. The Sunday blue laws are now 134 years old and antiquated, he asserted. Travelers avoid Pittsburgh because they dislike to be in the city over the week end, Musmanno said, and for this reason business men favor modification.

The bill which Musmanno advocates is primarily a referendum. Enacted into law, he said it would not itself modify or affect in any way the legislation at present on the statute books, but it would give the people an opportunity to determine and decide the advisability of a relaxation of the present laws. Any governmental unit opposed to modification would not have enforced upon it any compulsory liberalization. At the same time any district, convinced that the best interest would be served in permitting sports or entertainment, might have them by so indicating through a majority vote at the polls.

Texan Whose Love Of Horses Won U. S. Job, Dies

DALLAS, Tex., Dec. 27.—(AP.)—W. M. C. Hill, who was given the Dallas postmastership by Grover Cleveland because the President's fancy was caught by a remark concerning race horses, died here yesterday at the age of 82. Mr. Hill was also a former Dallas county and district clerk.

It was told of Mr. Hill that when he went to Washington to confer with President Cleveland about the office of postmaster, he was questioned about the ownership of race horses. The President intimated this would be an objection.

Friends of Hill said he answered that if breeding and owning fine race horses was an objection, he did not want the job.

Hill was met in the hall by Vice President A. G. Thurman, who told him his answer had caught the fancy of the President and that the job was his.

COUNTERFEITER RING ATTACKED

BUFFALO, N. Y., Dec. 27.—(AP.)—Police of six cities are co-operating with the United States Treasury Department in a drive to stamp out the counterfeiting ring operating through the western part of this state and in Northern Pennsylvania.

Reports of the appearance of spurious $20 gold notes are being received frequently.

Police of Rochester, Batavia and Warren, Pa., have notified Edward J. McHugh, in charge of the United States Treasury agents here, of the discovery of counterfeit gold notes in those cities. All the bills found bore the number K74854211. They turned up last week in Buffalo, Niagara Falls and Jamestown.

The third man arrested since Saturday has been held in connection with the investigation. He gave his name as Joseph Martinez, of Niagara Falls.

A Frank Open Letter to Druggists of Pittsburgh

Your Big Chance To Do a World of Good in Your Community

In this big epidemic of Influenza that is sweeping the country, thousands of people will look to you, Mr. Druggist, for advice and counsel.

Tell them now, how best to protect themselves and their families from the ravages of the deadly "Flu" germs.

You know better than your customers that it takes a powerful non-poisonous antiseptic to fight these vicious germs that are already taking their toll of precious lives just as they did in the epidemic of 1919.

So tell them about KOJENE and its giant, germ killing power. Tell them it is the one outstanding antiseptic that will safeguard them from the germs of Influenza and explain to them why Doctors urge folks to keep the nose, mouth and throat in a healthy condition during the ravages of this dread disease.

Tell them also as they value their lives, to take no chances with uncertain antiseptics but to gargle their throat and rinse their mouth several times a day with KOJENE and make it very clear to them that being non-poisonous it is safe even for the children to use.

You know that thousands of physicians use, endorse and prescribe KOJENE as a sure killer of deadly germs, and that you can offer them nothing better in the way of protection than this powerful, safe, dependable antiseptic.

It's a big chance for you, Mr. Druggist, to be of incalculable help to the people of your city, so why not inform School Teachers, and the Heads of Factories, Department Stores, Banks and Public Institutions, of the priceless value of KOJENE in the prevention of "Flu"?

Why not be frank with them and tell them that there is a whole lot of so-called antiseptics that have no power to kill germs—especially such powerful ones as these germs that cause the "Flu"?

This frightful menace to the lives of our people is a serious thing, calling for every precaution possible, so do all you can to help the Doctors and Health Authorities to stamp out this epidemic before it gets a real start.

If you do, Mr. Druggist, you will be serving humanity in no uncertain manner and your townsfolk will reward your kindness a thousandfold.

Let's All Pull Together and Fight The "Flu" With Kojene

COERCION CHARGED IN GAINING PROPERTY

SIDEWALKS OF PITTSBURGH

by HAVEY J. BOYLE

TO RECALL Mr. Coue, whose hocus-pocus was taken up by many persons, Pittsburgh, day by day, is getting better, if assuming a more metropolitan air can be said to be improvement. The downtown, especially, is changing from its gingham of provincialism to the satins and silks of sophistication.

* * *

It is to be noticed in the brightly-lighted, expansive drug stores which are after the New York fashion. And recently the town was added to a celebrated chain of bobber shops especially familiar in New York. Three-quarter length barbers' coats, a floorwalker and the new credo which says barbers ought not to suggest purchases, are metropolitan ideas.

* * *

GEE- HE MUST BE A GENERAL !

* * *

Apparently, the sun still yawns for there is nothing new under it. A group of men were discussing the gabfest marathon, current in New York, when Gene Connelly, veteran theatrical man and former newspaper man, recalled that many, many years ago Harry Davis in his Eden Musee in Fifth avenue had a show not entirely dissimilar to the gabfest. He called it the "Cranks' Conventon."

Spurious discoverers of perpetual motion, crazy people who talked about flying machines and the possibility of telephoning without wires, and even short-haired women who argued that women should be allowed to vote, all had a place in the Cranks' convention. Gene Connelly remembers that it went over in the old Musee.

How many remember the Musee in Fifth avenue, where a band played on a balcony to help attract the customers?

THE holiday season in Pittsburgh, before the great draught, was the time for displaying in the drinking palaces a large bowl filled with what is called Tom and Jerry. It is a mixture of eggs, powdered sugar, water, rum and whisky. No bar in the old days was complete without a large bowl of this on view.

* * *

Spy No. 468, assigned lately to what is known as the Tom and Jerry Division, reports that in certain places, the custom is still hanging on. One tender touch, he reports, is that the proprietor doubted whether he would make a cent profit, but he insists on having the bowl on display all this week in memory of what he terms the good old days.

WAIT 'TILL THEY HEAR THIS-- THE OL' BOWL AN' EVERY THING !

BOXING is popularly supposed to be brutal. Perhaps the exception set forth here simply proves the rule. Anyway, the other night in McKeesport in Jim McGirr's hall a boxer knocked another boxer cold. The conqueror went over, after the count of 10, helped pick up his victim and whispered: "I'm sorry—I hope you're not hurt." They shook hands.

Some minutes later in the dressing room I came upon the boy who had been knocked out. He was on his knees. He was saying a short prayer. It's easy to have faith when you're a winner. It's a pretty good test when you still hold it when luck runs against you. And this proves all boxers are not barbarians.

A Scotchman was defending his race the other day against all the Scotch jokes emphasizing thrift. "The stories are unreasonable," he said. "For instance, I lately was in Glasgow and had occasion to drop into a cigar store to borrow a match. The clerk told me he could not give me a match because his boss was in business to sell. I met the same reasonable explanation in two other stores. Now there's nothing wrong about that. It is true, isn't it, that a merchant must sell his wares? And do you know that I had to walk all the way back to my hotel before I could borrow a match?

S. SIDE POLICE HONOR OFFICER

Pittsburgh's South Side police were saddened by the sudden death yesterday of Ptl. Dennis Mangan, 63, who during his 24 years' service won a place in the hearts of all with whom he was associated. All day long a steady stream of his comrades and friends paid their respects.

Officer Mangan, who was the treasurer of the Fraternal Order of Police and an officer of the Police Protective Association, was known to almost all of the old South Side residents. He was respected for his humanity, kindness and ability. He was liked because of his wit, and his sense of fair play.

Born on the South Side, he was educated there and lived his entire life amid the scenes of his childhood. Besides the two police organizations, he was a member of St. Basil's Catholic Church, Carrick.

Ptl. Mangan leaves his widow, Mrs. Mary A. Shey Mangan; three daughters, Grace, Agnes and Marion Mangan; three sons, Joseph, John and Dennis R. Mangan, and two sisters and a brother.

Funeral services will be held Saturday morning in St. Basil's Church, from which he will be buried following a requiem high mass. Interment will be in the Calvary cemetery. The body will be escorted from he church to the grave by a guard of honor to be selected by Police Superintendent P. P. Walsh.

Bible Class Will Reproduce Pageant

"The Enchanted April" given by the Sunday School class of Mrs. Sarah F. Stright, Bellevue Methodist Episcopal Church, will be reproduced in North End M. E. Church, for the benefit of the building fund, the night of January 4. The original cast, which scored a big success when the play was given in Bellevue High School auditorium several weeks ago, will appear.

Motorcycle Officer Injured in Carrick

Thrown to the street when his motorcycle hit an obstruction in Madeline street, Carrick, early today, Motorcycle Patrolman Thomas Bennett, of 1228 Brownsville road, Carrick, was cut and bruised. His machine was wrecked. Bennett is attached to the Carrick Police Station and was on duty at the time of the accident.

Married 21 Years, Now Asks Divorce

Edward L. Sittler, 2967 Volkel street, Dormont, after 21 years of wedded life, wants a divorce. He has filed a libel in Common Pleas Court charging Stella C. Sittler whose address is given as Uniontown, with cruel and barbarous treatment.

CHURCH BODIES NAME OFFICERS

Officers for the coming year were announced yesterday by two Swissvale church organizations, the Loyal Temperance Legion of the Primitive Methodist Church, and the N. G. Ladies Bible Class of St. John's Lutheran Church.

Bible class officers are: Mrs. Earl MacDowell, president; Mrs. Alberta Nisdorf, vice president; Mrs. Freida Lutz, secretary, and Mrs. Sara Caldwell. Elections were held at a meeting in the home of Mrs. Emma Ebersole of Michigan avenue, Swissvale.

North Sider's Auto, Street Car Collide

The automobile of W. W. Chatman, of 4127 Perrysville avenue, was damaged early today in a collision with a street car in East Ohio street near Cedar avenue. Motorman C. J. Heis, of 3108 Niagara street was in charge of the car. Chatman was arrested on a reckless driving charge.

Other Robots Useful :-: But Pittsburgh's :-: Plays Santa Claus

TELEVOX SANTA ROY J. WENSLEY

Televox, the mechanical man, appeared in a new role last night at the Father and Son Banquet of the Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce. This robot, which can do almost anything but think, played Santa at the orders of his master, Roy J. Wensley, engineer of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company.

DR. BENJAMIN HAUSER

Dr. Hauser has invented another form of robot, a chemical "man," which digests food, much after the fashion of humans, in glass organs. So far Dr. Hauser's new automaton has no application beyond the biological laboratory.

AN ARM OF THE LAW

This tiny robot directs traffic in Berkeley, Cal. It is equipped with stop and go signs and with a fire siren. But it cannot argue with a motorist, for it possesses neither tongue nor vocabulary.

LAST TRIBUTE PAID SCHOOL HEAD

Funeral services for Prof. William H. Martin, 52, superintendent of Wilkinsburg schools, who died Tuesday in his home at 1166 South avenue, Wilkinsburg, were held today in the Second Presbyterian Church of Wilkinsburg. Interment was in Woodlawn cemetery.

Prof. Martin, who was a former state legislator, taught in Pittsburgh and Wilkinsburg schools prior to assuming the superintendency at Wilkinsburg. He was a graduate of Franklin College, and had lived in Wilkinsburg for more than 20 years.

Mr. Martin was an officer of the Second Presbyterian Church, worshipful master of Samuel Hamilton Lodge, F. and A. M., Pennsylvania Consistory, Royal Arch Chapter, and Syria Temple.

School Boosters Canvass Alumni

Members of the Booster Club of Swissvale High School, headed by John Conn and John McGraw, are campaigning to get the support of all alumni of the school, in their effort to establish an active organization to sponsor school activities. The Booster Club was organized in 1926.

RAILWAYS CO. SUED FOR $50,000

For injuries to her spine and hip received in a traffic collision November 10, Mrs. Smith R. Sanford and her husband, William T. Sanford, of Hazelwood, have brought suit for $50,000 damages against the Soho Coal and Coke Company and the Pittsburgh Railways Company, holding them responsible for the accident.

Mrs. Sanford was a passenger in a street car which collided with a truck of the coal company, causing her to be thrown from her seat and hurt.

Auto Thief Steals Policeman's Car

An automobile thief is being sought for taking the machine of Motorcycle Patrolman Louis Cardell from in front of the officer's house on the South Side yesterday. The patrolman's uniform, his revolver, handcuffs and blackjack were in the machine, he said, in reporting the theft.

East End Man Hurt When Hit by Auto

Knocked down by an automobile while crossing Frankstown avenue near Wheeler street last night, Peter Pasti, 42, of 1053 Wheeler street, was cut and bruised. The machine was driven by Guy Sitler, of 215 Seventh street, Homestead, police say.

BOY, 13, OVERPOWERS DOG ATTACKING 4 COMRADES

A 13-year-old boy overpowered a large police dog yesterday, after it had attacked and bitten four other Mt. Washington youths.

Frank Merina, 14, 504 Natchez street, Mt. Washington, while passing the home of August Dattilo, 122 Natchez street, the owner of the dog, according to the Mt. Washington police, was attacked by the canine which ran from the house, jumped upon the boy and bit him five times, also tearing his clothes. He was bitten on the left shoulder, left knee, right hip and thigh and right shin.

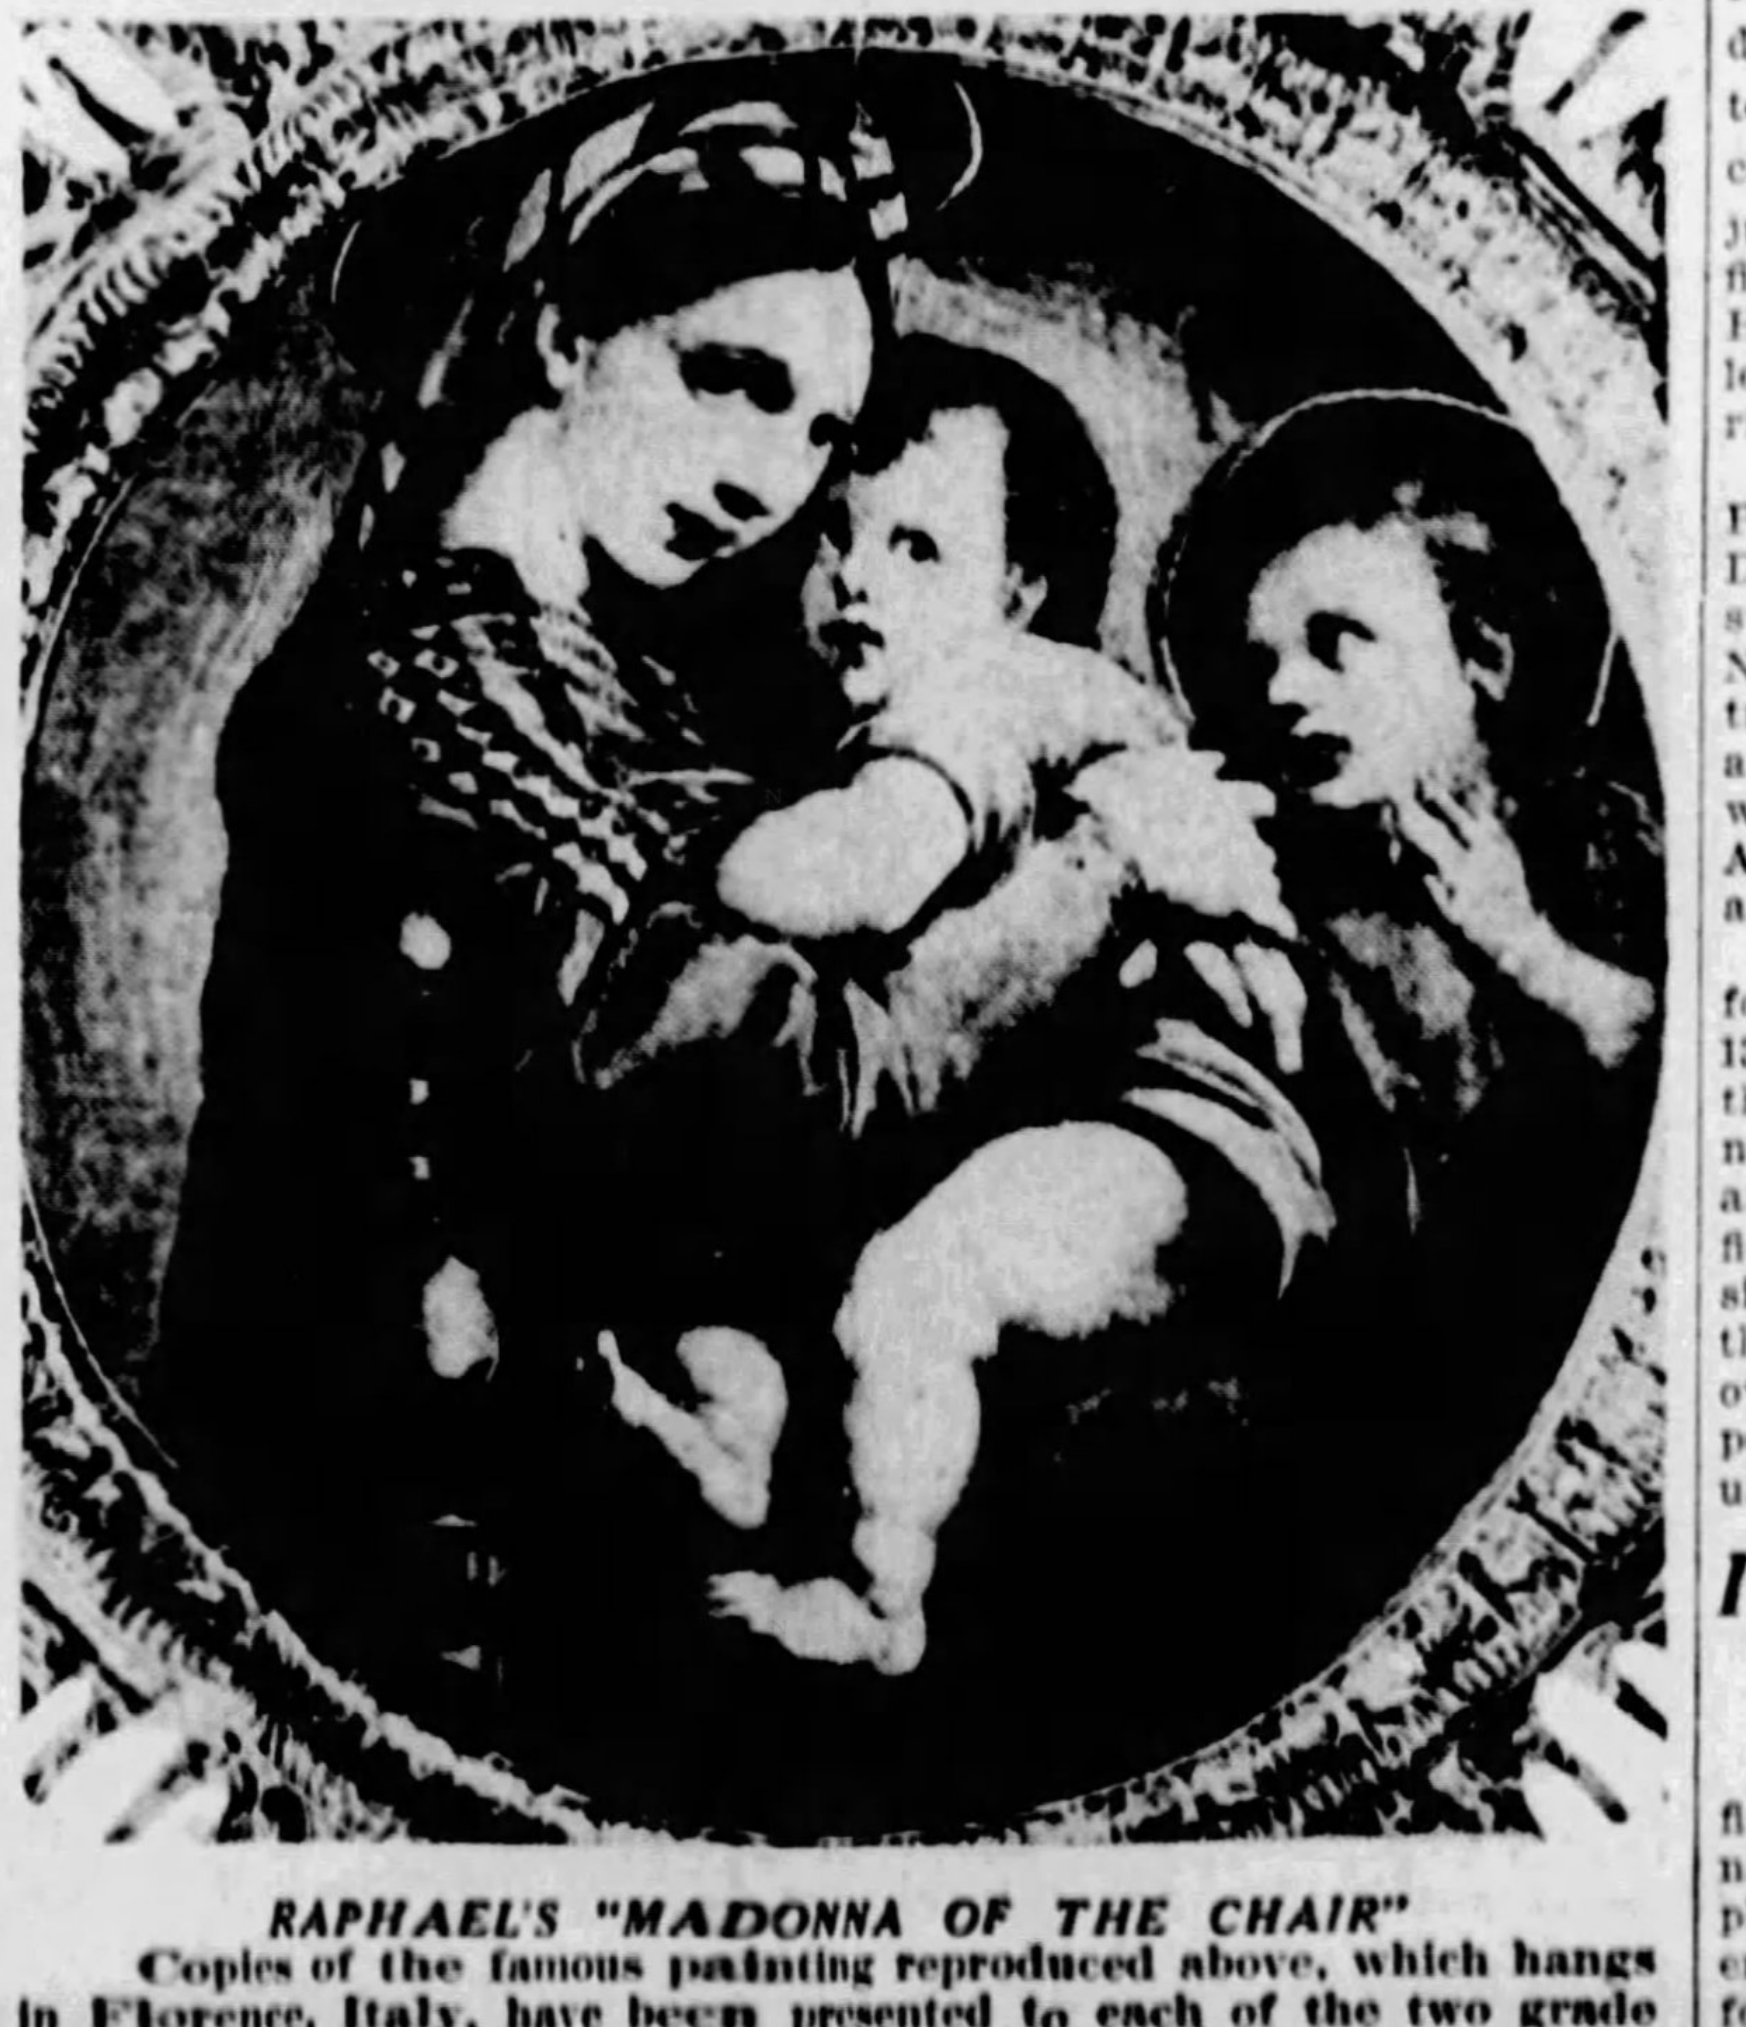
Three of his companions, Anthony Perpera, 13, 16 Southern avenue; Donald Wharton, 12, 112 Natchez street, and Byron Atwood, 14, 35 Natchez street, happened along and tried to rescue Merina. The dog, according to the police, became wild and attacked the rescuers. Anthony was bitten on the left leg and Atwood on the right hip.

The four youths fought the dog for a while, when Mariana Badelli, 13, 120 Natchez street, leaped upon the dog and grabbed it around the neck. The dog fled to its home and the boys were taken to the office of Dr. E. F. Waller, city physician, 55 Wyoming street, where their wounds were cauterized. The owner of the dog was notified by police to keep the animal tied up until further notice.

Inspector's Power To Be Enlarged

West View council has passed on first and second readings an ordinance enlarging the powers of the plumbing inspector with respect to entering dwellings and other places for purposes of inspection. The measure will come up for final passage, January 15.

SCHOOLS GET PAINTINGS



RAPHAEL'S "MADONNA OF THE CHAIR"

Copies of the famous painting reproduced above, which hangs in Florence, Italy, have been presented to each of the two grade schools and the high school of Bellevue by Mrs. Nellie E. Robertson, a member of the borough school board.

DADS AND SONS "CUT UP" AT ANNUAL C. OF C. PARTY

Whistles tooted, tow balloons popped a magician performed seemingly impossible things, Televox, in the guise of a mechanical Santa Claus, did the bidding of his master and the entire assemblage sang and were merry last night at the sixth annual Father and Son celebration of the Chamber of Commerce.

Climaxing the fun, Tom Brigham, son of Doland Brigham, escorted his dad to the throne of the "baldest dad;" Ralph Holbertg, son of R. C. Holberg, was voted the "heaviest son;" Millard Cox, son of M. C. Cox, the "tallest son;" Richard Tilton, son of R. Tilton, "youngest son," and Harry C. Miller, the father with the largest number of sons present—five.

Following the banquet in the Chamber's dining room, the fathers and sons were entertained by Jack Gwne and Company, magician, through the courtesy of the Stanley-Davis-Clark Corporation. R. J. Wensley, of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company, presented Televox, a mechanical man, who did as he was told so long as he was addressed in the only language he understands, "Electrical Esperanto," which consists of a series of whistles.

Televox, when instructed by 'phone, turned on lights, an electric fan, electric whistles, signaling devices, and raised an American flag. Gwne and Company fascinated the dads and sons with a Hindu rope trick, and caused things to disappear and to appear from empty hats and bags.

Flu Victims

MRS. HARRIET CAMERON

MRS. REBECCA SCHWARTZ

Three members of one family, all victims of the flu, were to be buried today in Knoxville. They are Herbert Schwartz of Zara street; his wife, Rebecca Schwartz, and his wife's mother, Mrs. Harriet Grill Cameron. The bodies were to lie in the Knoxville Methodist Protestant Church until 2 o'clock, when the services were to be held.

SON INJURED, ASK $40,000

Wilbert J. Arend and his wife, Mary Arend, of the South Side, have brought suit against the William Zoller Company for $40,000 damages on behalf of their son, Wilbert J. Arend, Jr., 4, who sustained a broken leg October 31 when struck by a truck of the defendant company. The child was crossing Spring Garden avenue near Arcola way, according to the bill of complaint, when the accident occurred.

Swissvale Girl Cut in Auto Crash

Gertrude Weyels, 17, of 1912 Monongahela avenue, Swissvale, was cut and bruised when an automobile in which she was riding collided with another machine at Penn and Lang avenues. She was riding with her brother Clarence, of 530 South Trenton avenue, Wilkinsburg. The other car was driven by James Dunlap, of 818 Ross avenue, Wilkinsburg.

North Side C. of C.'s Final '28 Meeting

The final meeting of the year will be held tonight by directors of North Side Chamber of Commerce in the old city hall, Federal and Ohio streets, North Side. W. H. Newmyer, president, will preside.

STADIUM FOR N. BRADDOCK ASSURED

North Braddock is to get its new stadium, to be erected on Sixth street, the proposal having been sanctioned by the borough council at its regular December meeting, which had been postponed from December 11.

After the passing of the stadium ordinance, Council President M. S. Harrity was named to represent the borough in the drawing up of a charter following the passage of the metropolitan bill.

Fires during the month caused damages amounting to $2,275, according to the fire department's report. The burgess' report showed collections of $230.25; that of the borough secretary, $3,704, and that of the borough treasurer, a balance of $9,561.41 in the treasury.

Knee Cap Hurt, Asks City to Pay $25,000

Mrs. Lavinia H. Griffin, Melwood street, has sued the City of Pittsburgh for $25,000 damages for a broken kneecap. She slipped on the icy sidewalk in front of what is known as 4632 and 4636 Center avenue, January 4, 1927, and claims, through her counsel, Albert G. Liddell, that the sidewalk at that point is not on the level with an adjoining sidewalk. As a result of the accident she was a patient in a hospital for three months. Her husband, Newell Griffin, joints with her in the suit, claiming $5,000 damages, and the wife $20,000.

Mrs. Griffin also has brought an action against Edward J. Kretz who owns the property at 4636 Center avenue for $25,000 damages which makes him a joint party to the suit against the city.

OLD SCHOOL BELL WILL SOUND ALARMS OF FIRE

A campaign for members is being conducted by the Quaill District Volunteer Fire Department, Ross township. Postal cards are being mailed to residents of the community by John E. Winner, secretary and treasurer, asking support of the newly organized company.

According to L. J. Fryer, fire chief, the community which adjoins Bellevue on the northeast has had no fire protection except that provided by Bellevue and West View. Fire plugs were installed last summer enabling the volunteer company to give protection as soon as equipment is provided.

A committee to purchase equipment and to provide permanent quarters has been named consisting of J. W. Holmes, Willard Moon, Herbert Kentzel, Henry Ruhl and William Marquis. A report will be made at the next meeting, the second Thursday of January.

A 500-pound bell formerly on the old school in Cemetery lane, will be used for sounding the alarm. The districit numbers about 700 and is rapidly developing.

Bellevue Society Holds Yule Party

Members of Circle No. 3, Ladies' Aid Society, Bellevue Methodist Episcopal Church, were scheduled to meet this afternoon for their monthly business meeting and Christmas party at the home of Mrs. J. W. Jones, 930 Forest avenue, Bellevue. Associate hostesses will be Mrs. W. H. C. Moore and Mrs. D. A. Hughes. Circle No. 6 will meet tomorrow at the home of Mrs. C. S. Ferguson, 912 California avenue, Avalon, with Mrs. George Bole, Mrs. Frank Long and Mrs. Albert Chaffey as assistant hostesses.

STEP-FATHER ACCUSED BY SON

Alleging that his step-father dragged his mother around by the hair, threw her down a flight of steps and otherwise coerced her into signing over a joint interest in five dwellings in Josephine street, South Side, Edward J. Sulewski has filed a bill in equity to prevent his step-father, Joseph Karwoski, from encumbering or selling the property, pending court decision.

Sulewski's mother died January 3, 1926, her first husband and father of the plaintiff, Jacob Sulewski having died February 16, 1915. The mother, Mary Sulewski, married Joeph Karwoski, the defendant, on January 21, 1917, and soon thereafter it is averred, Karwoski began to abuse her and that fearing he might do her bodily harm deeded the property over to Angelyn S. Haberman on April 24, 1917, who in turn deeded it back to Mrs. Karowski and Joseph Karowski. When Mrs. Karowski died she left three children by her former marriage, Edward J. Sulewski, who is of age and his brother Theodore, and a sister, Marie Sulewski.

Subsequent to Mrs. Karowski's death it is alleged that Karowski compelled the Sulewski children to withdraw from the house and that his course of conduct has deprived them, it is alleged in the bill of particulars filed by Attorney Edwin B. Goldsmith representing the children, from a rightful interest in the property.

The court is asked that the defendant be enjoined from encumbering the property with mortgages until disposition of the case in court; that he be restricted from conveying or parting with the title until the rights of the plaintiff have been properly determined and that Karwoski be declared trustee of the property.

CHURCH BOARDS CALL PARLEY

Official boards of the churches of Bellevue and Avalon, have been called to meet for a dinner and conference at 6:30 p. m. tomorrow in the parlors of the Bellevue Baptist Church, preparatory to a campaign of visitation evangelism to be held January 6 to 11.

A religious census of both boroughes has been made under the supervision of the ministers. Those who have moved into the district within the past year and are not affiliated with any church will be visited by teams of the churches during the campaign.

The visitation drive will be under the direction of the Rev. Dr. O. H. Milligan, of Avalon, United Presbyterian Church. The Rev. Dr. R. F. Galbreath, chairman of the ministerial association, will preside at tomorrow night's meeting. Talks will be given by several ministers and laymen. It is hoped to duplicate the results of last year's campaign when several hundred new members were added to membership rolls.

Wife Says Husband Cruel, Asks Divorce

Pauline Elliott, 1060 Ridge avenue, Coraopolis, married in 1923 has filed a libel in divorce in Common Pleas Court, charging her husband, Harold Elliott, with cruel and barbarous treatment.

Husband Says Wife Cruel, Asks Divorce

John Basko, 1339 Woods Run avenue, has filed a libel in divorce in Common Pleas Court against Mildred Basko, alleging cruel and barbarous treatment. The couple were married in 1925.

Will Rogers Says

NEW YORK, Dec. 27.

Mr. Hoover changed his mind and is going to Washington and break the news to the office seekers, instead of having them come down to Florida and him have to feed 'em while there.

That will knock those two railroads out of the biggest business they would have all year.

Say, this police commissioner has rounded so many crooks up and put 'em in jail, that it's interfering with the theater attendance.

Yours, WILL.

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Madge Sayre, pretty and young, craves luxuries of life. She meets handsome Carroll Dudley, artist and aviator and "man about town," at a party given by Frances Storrs, a friend. Frances warns Madge against Dudley's professions of love. She dines in his luxurious studio apartment, takes midnight air rides in his plane and accepts his suggestion to pose for him in the nude. After professing his love for her, which she accepts, it develops that he is already married. She is struck by the automobile of Michael Winchester, who falls in love with her. They are married. The event is one of startling magnificence. Madge had previously described to Michael her affair with Dudley. Later a barrier of misunderstanding which neither is able to surmount arises. Michael receives a cable to go to his sister in England. He fails to ask Madge to accompany him. Shortly after in a darkened theater a man takes the seat next to her. "Ecstacy! Ecstacy!" he whispers. It is Dudley's pet name for her. Refusing to be jilted by her coldness, Dudley forces her to ride with him through the park. An agreement is reached based solely on "friendship." She invites him to dinner. She deserts Michael and goes to Carroll. Michael is heartbroken when he discovers Madge has left him. Michael plans a trip to Africa in order that he might forget her. Madge is again deceived by Carroll and makes up her mind that she is through with him. Madge realizes now that she loves Michael and mistook thrills for love. Madge saves Celeste's life after she is bitten by a rattlesnake.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

"PLEASE do," Madge replied, pulling up a rocking chair by the window. "I was looking at the sunset, and I think it made me sad."

"After what happened today, you and I can never be strangers," Martha began slowly. "Henry feels the same way. You have become one of us by giving us back our darling. I've been talking to Celeste, dear, and she told me the story you just told her."

"Well," she asked, as tears threatened.

"I don't want to pry into your affairs, dear," Martha said, "but I am a woman, with a woman's intuition, and you are very dear to me—like a sister, Madge. I guess things are wrong, and perhaps I could help. There was that young man at tea, who stuttered over your name. And I wasn't spying on you, but I saw your expression, dear, when Ethel was telling about her reconciliation with her husband. The infinite sadness in your face just pulled at my heart. And now this story . . . Confide in me, dear, and let me help."

But Madge was weeping, weeping. She rose and knelt by Martha's side.

CHAPTER XXIII.

"Don't my dear, don't! Tell Martha about it," that kindly soul crooned over Madge, much as though she were talking to a child.

With a great effort Madge controlled herself. But she could hardly speak. She went to her desk and took from it the letter she had written to Frances.

"Read this," she said brokenly. "Can't talk. Wrote this—to a friend. This will tell you. And I'm not—Carroll Dudley's wife. I'm the wife of Michael Winchester."

Without a word, Martha read the many pages that Madge had written to Frances, clearly repeating the whole unhappy story. Now and again, Martha would take Madge's hand and press it, while she made little interjections. "You poor dear!"

"This is the Michael Winchester I read about—the very, very rich Winchester?" she asked simply, when she had finished the letter.

Madge nodded, her eyes brimming with tears. "Yes! And I love him, Martha—now it's too late."

"It's never too late," the other said quietly. "It's never too late when you love."

"Oh, he'd never forgive me—he'd never believe that I haven't been actually bad. Besides, he's going away."

"I'm only a simple woman," Martha smiled sadly, "but I don't believe, dear, that there is any difference in love—if it's a palace like the home you ran away from, you dear foolish princess, or in a farmhouse like this! Send for this husband of yours, and tell him the truth!"

"Oh! No!" cried Madge, frightened at the mere thought. "You don't know him, Martha! And you don't understand his pride of family and name. He would never forgive me, and I could never face his scorn. I can't and I won't!"

"Then you shan't!" Martha soothed her. "But what about Carroll Dudley? I know it's too late to say it—but I never liked him—never."

Madge's mood changed and her voice was bitter as she answered: "I'm almost looking forward to meeting him, when he flies back here! I believe it will make me feel better when I have had my final interview with him."

She began to give Martha details, going over the whole affair from the very beginning.

After this long explanation, having neglected all her household duties, Martha persuaded Madge to come downstairs and to sit in the kitchen with her while she prepared the supper.

"I've no right to stay here," Madge was saying. "I have no right in a home like this, Martha—and you know it. When little Celeste was saying good-night to me this evening, I wondered what you would feel if you knew that I'd left my husband to run away with another man."

Henry Ferris, whose boots had been covered with mire from the duck-pond, had removed them on the back porch and had entered silently during Madge's last remark.

"Now then!" he called out almost sternly. "I heard that, though I wasn't meant to. How dare you say that?"

"Dare say—that—that I'm not Carroll Dudley's wife?" she faltered.

"No—but how dare you say that you have no right in this home?" he went on with rough tenderness. "I don't care a damn what you've done, but this is your home, and you're like a sister to me and Martha here." He caught her in his arms, kissed her forehead, pushed her roughly from him and strode out of the kitchen toward the small room where he kept his farm papers.

"And Henry is the boss here," Martha smiled. "He's crude sometimes, but he's a nature's gentleman, and when he gives his friendship, which doesn't often happen, just try and evade his loyalty. As for me, I repeat what he says, because I loved you even before you saved our child, so don't let's have any nonsense about you going. You and I and Henry will fight this out between us—but keep that fellow Carroll Dudley out of Henry's reach, or I don't know what would happen!"

"You, as a happy wife, Martha, can't know what the loyalty and friendship of you and Henry mean to me at this time. I can't thank you—it's too big for thanks."

She recalled the letter she had written to Frances. "Oh, I wanted an envelope, Martha," she changed the subject.

Martha, opening a drawer, produced one. "Address it here," she said. "One minute—yes. Here's my fountain pen. Henry's going into town after supper, and he can mail it for you then." She waited while Madge addressed the envelope and then picked it up and went into the little room that Henry called his office.

Tomorrow's Horoscope

Friday, December 28

A DAY of sudden and quite unexpected change, with radical and far-reaching results, is predicted from the very lively side-real operations. With Mars and Uranus, both constructively dynamic orbs, under high lunar stimulus, and assisted by the lunar sextile to Neptune, many strange and important events and situations are foreshown, but these are attended by some financial hazard.

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate a year of radical change and important activities attended upon new ventures or bold initiative. While the opportunities are well aspected for success, yet there are some possibilities of financial loss unless extreme caution and general conservation be employed. Speculation is hazardous.

A child born on this day may be skillful, original and enterprising, and should cover much ground with these qualities, but a leaning toward speculative enterprises might offset gains made through talents and initiative.

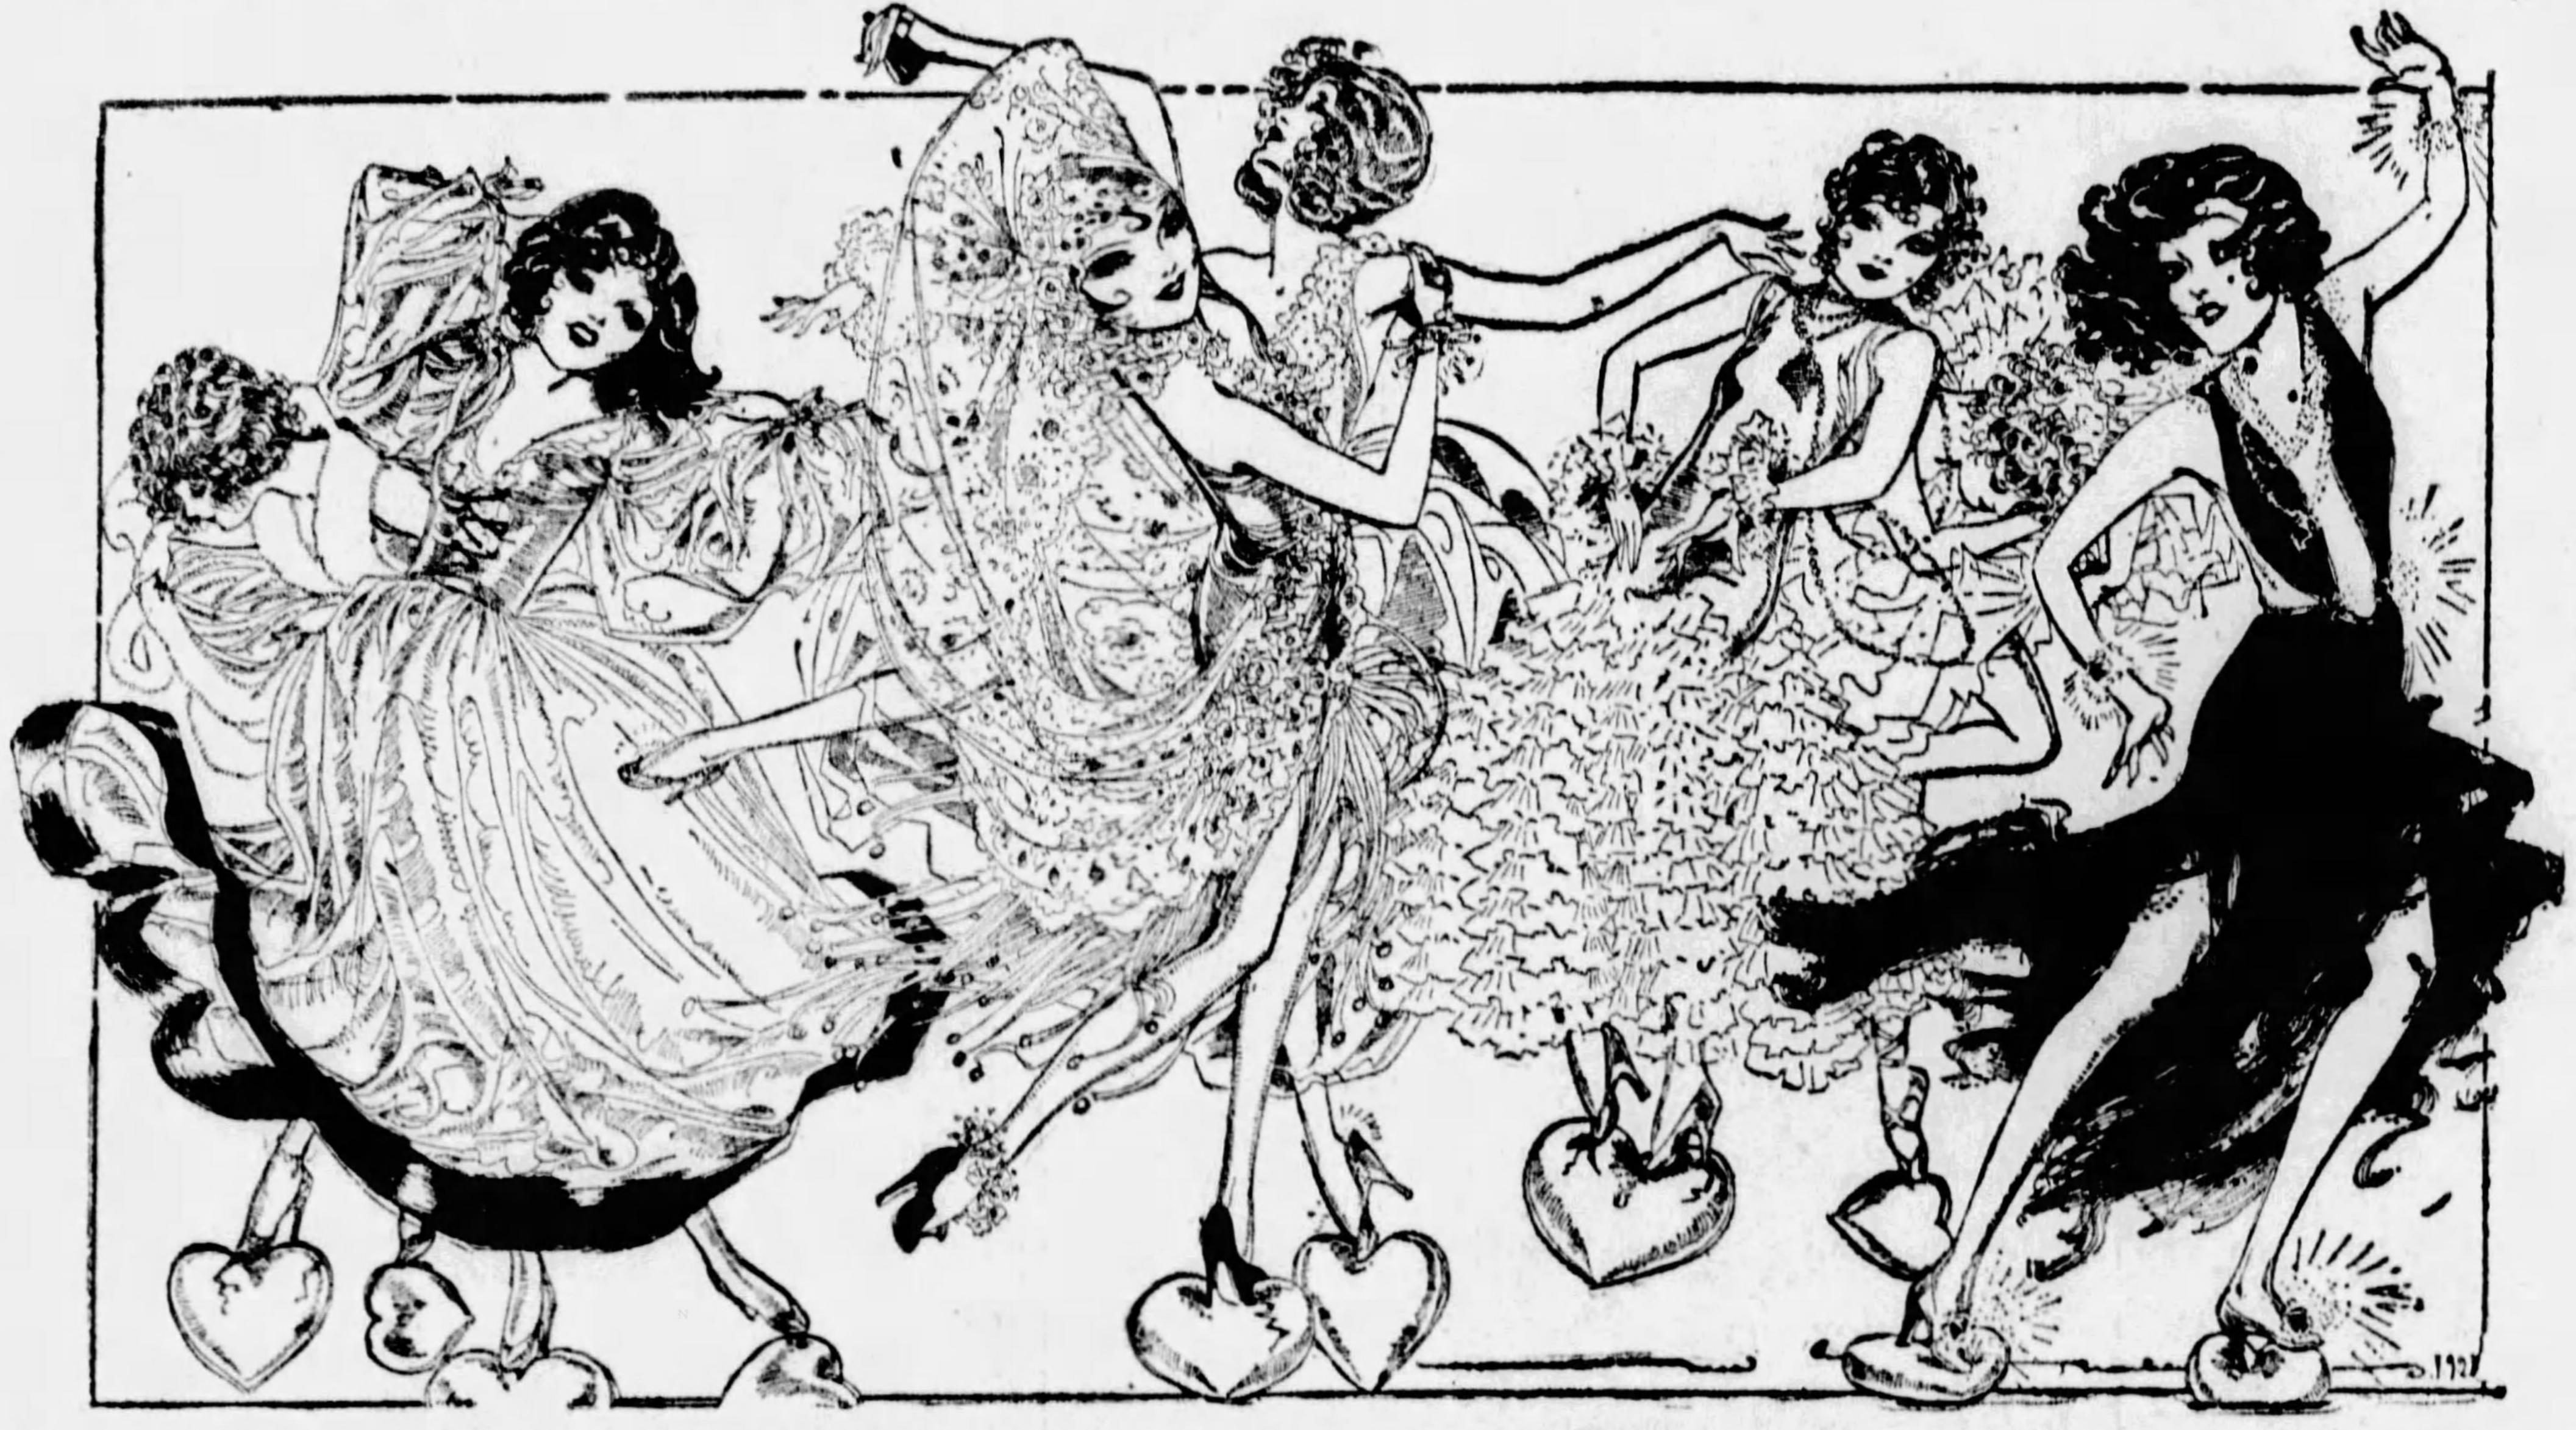
"THE HEART-BREAKERS"

Drawn by Nell Brinkley



SHE who breaks one man's heart, cracked under the cruel toe of her mad-maid slipper, or squeezed like a soft pudding under her paper-sole, leaves hard and cold the heart of another.

A thousand types of Graces, not three, dance by, tripping from one strong heart to another, testing them for soft spot. And the heart that yields, but springs defianly back again for golden hair and fluff, will collapse under the feet of gypsy hair and brocade.

Does your trembling heart bear up under the tread of a school of dancers, only to give way to the tiny heel of an "insignificant?" Or is yours a ruin because every dancer that pirouettes upon it leaves her imprint? Maybe yours is a heart of flint, or a tough ole heart that never shows a mar or the faintest impress beneath the loveliest foot that ever came by. Maybe you think so—No—Yes?

But theres' a white mouse of a foot somewhere across the world, or just around the corner, that IF it comes will leave your heart marked, never to be the same again. —NELL BRINKLEY.

Painful Memories of the Past Confront Lillian

"RESTITUTION from Samuel Brixton!"

The words, almost whispered by Lillian, seemed to ring through the room, so charged were they with amazement and a touch of the superstitious terror which the first sight of the letter she just had received had given her.

I never had heard the name, but before opening the letter Lillian had recognized the handwriting as that of an old associate of her first husband, Marion's father. I could hear yet the way she had said "of—Tom's" as if even after all the years she could not bear to speak the name of the husband who had made her marriage a mockery and had kept her baby daughter from her during the beautiful years of the child's little girlhood. I knew that everything and everybody connected with that tragic marital experience was anathema to Lillian, and waited tensely for the explanation which I was sure she meant to give me. If she had intended to keep her own counsel she would not have opened the letter before me.

"Samuel Brixton!" Again the name echoed through the room, and then Lillian lifted her head and looked at me.

"You're warranted in thinking I'm just waking up from the gas," she said with the travesty of a smile quirking her lips. "And it really seems like a fantastic ether vision—this letter. Sam Brixton is the last man on earth I ever expected to hear from. The last time I saw him was in the first years of my marriage to—Tom"—again that curious hesitating aversion to speaking the name of the man now dead who once had been her husband, "and he just had swindled—us—out of a sum of money which at that time meant the difference between comfort and penury. He and Tom quarreled bitterly, and I never have seen him or his wife since. Poor Helen! she was not to blame, I know she suffered terribly because of it, but she could do nothing. And now, after all these years of silence comes this letter! Read it please—aloud—I'd like that slant on it, and tell me what you think of it."

Obediently I picked up the letter, written in bold, dashing characters—patently the work of a man who did not wish to dictate the letter and was not familiar with or did not wish to use a typewriter:

"Dear Lillian," it began, "I hope you'll let me address you that way, even though I know you must be still mighty sore at me—and no wonder.

"I've made my pile at last, and the first thing I've planned to do is to give back to you or Tom's daughter the money he and I quarreled about so many years ago. It's hard to admit it, but I was wrong in that old deal, and I can't rest easy until I've made good every penny of it with interest. Please write and tell me the earliest opportunity I can have to see you about this.

"Helen always has grieved over this affair and the separation from you it entailed," the letter went on. "I have told her of what I mean to do, and she is overjoyed at the prospect of everything being all right once more. We are taking a motor trip through the East, shortly, Helen, myself, my half-brother, Charles Owen, and of course, the two children, Carolyn and Ronald. I've just waked up to the fact that I can't say 'children' any longer, nor can I speak of Marion as a child either, I suppose. Ronald is entering college next fall while Carolyn has another year at preparatory school. It is partly to bring them to their schools that we are motoring down with two cars.

"Will you not write me as soon as convenient, telling me when we can see you? We could stop on our trip through and run down to you. Helen is wild to see you, and I feel that I cannot rest until I have settled up this matter and paid to you or to Tom's daughter the money which I owed him.

"Anxiously awaiting your answer, I am, as ever,

"Faithfully yours,
"SAMUEL BRITTON."

Correct Manners

By Mrs. Cornelius Beeckman

He Resents Fee

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

When entertaining a few friends at dinner I oftentimes would like to serve a salad as the first course, and that just preceding the meat course. Is that incorrect?

2. Is it essential that fruit or cocktail, soup, fish and entree be served before the meat course?

3. Is it unethical to "tip" the proprietor of a hairdressing shop who has waved my hair exceptionally well? H. W.

2. This is a question of choice. The following is the usual order in serving a dinner:

1. Hors d'oeuvre.
2. Soup.
3. Fish.
4. Entree.
5. Roast.
6. Salad.
7. Dessert.
8. Coffee.

Of course, you may omit any course if you wish. Ones that are most easily left out are the hors d'oeuvre, fish and the entree.

3. It is not unethical, of course, but usually the proprietor of a hairdressing shop resents his clients offering him a fee.

Writing to Children

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

1. I have just received a letter from three children ranging from the ages of 12 to 7. I wish to acknowledge the letter. Should I write to each one individually or address them as follows: "Dear John, Joe and Anna?" Or "John, Joe and Anna—My Dears?"

2. I am a maiden of two score and a little over and I would like to know how to sign my name to the letter, omitting Miss, or should I sign Miss prefixed (Miss)? Does this apply to business letters when writing to adults? READER.

OF course each child would love to have a separate letter from you, but if this is too much of a task, and since they wrote to you together (you must be a very delightful person to receive such a letter from three children), I think that your second suggestion would intrigue them more than the first.

2. Don't use the "Miss" at all in this friendly kind of letter, even though you are writing to such young people. The title in parentheses is appropriate only for business letters or letters to people who would not know from your signature what title to use in their answer.

Meditations of a Wife

By HELEN ROWLAND

Amateur Vamping

THE day has passed when "vamping" was a highly specialized art, practiced only by a few professionals. It is now merely an amateur sport, which nearly every girl takes up as a "side-line."

* * *

The Great Sirens of history and of yesterday were "that way," because they had to be. To them, the only known business of life was the business of getting a man—and holding onto him.

* * *

There were only two kinds of women in the world—wives and vamps. "Nice girls," who were trying to get hold of one man for life, and who were struggling to capture a lot of men. In those days, to be known as a "flirt" almost wrecked a girl's chances of marrying; and to be too popular with the stag-line instantly stamped her as declasse.

HELEN ROWLAND

* * *

But, now, HOW the world has changed! Every woman frankly and openly uses every act she can discover and every artifice she can invent to attract he men. One-hundred-charm-power is none too much for her; and the amateum vamping championship goes to the girl with the longest stag-line.

* * *

The only unpardonable sin, these days, is to be unpopular. Even her own sex won't forgive a woman for being a wall-flower or a "dud" with the men.

* * *

The difference seems to be merely in the fact that the old-fashioned vamp followed vamping as a business, while the modern vamp does her vamping just for the sport of the thing. The distinction between them is the same as that between the professional gambler and the amateur sportsman—between the race-track tout and the gentleman plunger.

* * *

To want to vamp a man does not necessarily mean that a girl wants to marry him—or even that she wants to annex him. It means merely that she wants to try her skill. She is not looking for a victim—she is looking for a thrill.

* * *

What women have learned about men, about sex-appeal, about synthetic beauty and cultivated charm, since vamping became an amateur sport in perfectly good standing, would fill a Carnegie library.

* * *

Now that vamping has been lifted above the cloud of disapproval, and has become one of the modern arts, most girls take it up along with their French and their algebra, and are post-graduates by the time they reach their coming-out parties. The man who looks into a pair of baby-blue debutante eyes is looking into the eyes of a skilled amateur-vamp, whether he knows it or not!

How to Keep Well

By Royal S. Copeland, M. D.

Indigestion Usually the Cause of Hives

FROM one of our readers comes a letter asking for an article on hives. While I have discussed this ailment on occasions, it is apparent this lady has missed those issues of her newspaper.

DR. COPELAND

We meet hives in several forms. There is one type commonly called "nettlerash." Another is known as "giant hives." This name is given because of the great size the swellings have, becoming, in some instances, as big as an egg.

There is another and less common variety. It is known as "urticaria haemorrhagica." The swollen places are filled with blood.

Any suddenly developing swelling of the skin may be considered a form of hive. The spots may be whitish or pink in color. Invariably there is severe itching.

In nettlerash there are small red spots. The skin feels as if a poisonous nettle had been hauled across the skin. It burns and smarts and itches intolerably.

Back of the attack is something wrong with the digestion. It may not be an attack like indigestion, but some article of food has acted as a poison. Very shortly its effects are shown by the eruption of the skin.

The particular foods that cause these symptoms are not many in number. Shellfish and strawberries are the most common. Any of the shellfish, such as lobsters, oysters, clams and other fish, too, may be responsible.

We find that certain drugs are capable of exciting skin trouble. Quinine, cubeb and the various coal-tar drugs are numbered among these.

It is an interesting fact that the things which cause asthma and gout may likewise produce hives. There is a certain disturbance of the nervous system that in one person takes the form of a swelling in the windpipe, in another it attacks the points, while in a third it involves the skin.

The symptoms last but a few hours, or a day or two at most. The worst feature of the attack is the horrible itching. This is so pronounced as nearly to drive the patient frantic.

An alkaline solution like bicarbonate of soda in water may help a lot. In my own experience the most satisfactory local application is hyposulphite of soda. A tablespoonful in half a glass of water may be mopped on the itching skin.

If the whole body is involved, a half pound or more of the hyposulphite may be thrown into a bathtub half full of water. Soaking in this for 20 minutes or more will give great relief.

Laxatives and alkaline mineral waters are helpful. The food must be limited for a few days and the bowel thoroughly cleansed.

The family doctor will discuss diet with you and attend to the medication.

Answers to Health Queries

M. H. Q.—Is there any cure for gas on the stomach? What would you advise?

A.—Careful attention to the diet and regular elimination should clear up this trouble.

* * *

A. W. F. Q.—What do you advise for rheumatism?

A.—Some infection in the system is usually responsible for rheumatism, which must be removed before the trouble can be cured. Have your teeth, tonsils, sinuses examined for possible points of infection.

* * *

A. E. W. Q.—What can be done to reduce the hips and legs?

GLASS OF WATER CAUSED DISTRESS

Local Lady's Health Troubles Ended by Ten Herbs; Husband Also Benefited.

"Although I had suffered with my stomach for a number of years, Ten Herbs made me feel like a different person," was the recent statement of Mrs. William J. Bailey, 529 Marshall Avenue, North Side, Pittsburgh, to the Ten Herbs Man, who

"Gas used to give me a miserable bloated feeling and would crowd around my heart and cause shortness of breath," Mrs. Bailey continued. "Sometimes my heart would palpitate so badly that I would be alarmed. Even a glass of water would cause so much gas to rise that I could hardly breathe. There were severe pains in my stomach. At times the pains were so terrible in my shoulder blades that I could hardly endure them. Headaches and dizzy spells would be so bad that I would nearly fall over. I often had a blurring of the eyes and black spots would come before me. I felt tired and wornout—had no ambition for anything. Some nights I did not sleep at all and would feel very bad upon arising in the morning.

"Ten Herbs surely did wonders for me. I can now eat and drink what I wish without suffering afterwards. Gas and pains are gone. I am free of dizziness and spots before my eyes. I feel vigorous and full of life when I arise in the morning. My husband had suffered with nervous indigestion—seemed as though his stomach could not digest anything. He felt tired and wornout, and could not sleep soundly—would jerk and toss about. He tried numerous other medicines but nothing helped him like Ten Herbs did. He had taken only one bottle of your medicine when he noticed a great change for the better. Now he can eat without having gas pains like he used to. He sleeps soundly—no more jerking or twitching. We both heartily recommend Ten Herbs."

The Ten Herbs Man is at May's Main Store, 529 Liberty Avenue, Pittsburgh, where he is daily meeting the public and explaining the [illegible] of this medicine.

NEW CONTRACTS READY FOR BUCS

APPARENTLY, some big league baseball managers are far from being scrupulous about the lengths to which they go nowadays in their efforts to boost their own ball players—to make them look good in comparison with others.

Andy Reese

Even John McGraw, veteran manager of the New York National League Club, is no exception, if reports are to be believed, for in a recent news dispatch from Gotham the skipper of the Giants, in praising Andy Reese, whom he plans to start at second base next year, was quoted as saying that he had turned down an offer made by the Pittsburgh club to trade Shortstop Glenn Wright for him.

Pirate officials say they do not believe that McGraw ever made such a statement, but that in any event it is utterly without foundation, as Reese's name was not mentioned at any time by either side during the negotiations between the Pittsburgh and New York clubs prior to the consummation of the dicker whereby Wright was swapped to Brooklyn for Pitcher Jess Petty and Infielder Harry Riconda.

IT IS known that the only New York player ever mentioned by the Pirate management in connection with a trade for Wright was Shortstop Travis Jackson. Prior to that, McGraw himself, probably with a view to leading up to a deal for Wright, asked the Buccaneer bosses if they were interested in a certain pair of players whom he was willing to let go. The Pittsburgh club said it had no room for either of them, and then suggested an exchange of Wright for Jackson, but this in turn was declined by McGraw, who said he expected Jackson to have a big year in 1929.

That concluded all deal talk between the bosses of the Pirates and Giants, and Reese's name never was brought into the discussion, the Pittsburgh club officials declare. If McGraw was correctly quoted, the statement that Wright had been offered in exchange for Reese probably was made only for the purpose of making Reese look good. It may not turn out to be such smart stuff on the part of McGraw if Reese takes seriously the remarks supposed to have come from his boss and decides to do some holding out next spring on the strength of the boost.

THE most striking feature of the National League fielding averages made public today is the disclosure that Taylor Douthit, centerfielder of the St. Louis pennant winners, accepted the enormous total of 547 chances during the 1928 season.

This breaks not only the National League record, but sets an all-time mark for all major leagues. The National League record for chances accepted by an outfielder in a season was 478, set by Max Carey while with the Pirates in 1923, and the American League record was 495, set by Baby Doll Jacobson while with the St. Louis Browns in 1924.

Joe Dugan

THE scramble that had been expected in some quarters for the services of Joe Dugan when it developed that the Yankees had placed the veteran third baseman on the market, failed to materialize. The Boston Nationals were the only club to put in a claim for Dugan when waivers were offered, and consequently Joe goes to the Braves. Many baseball men believe it is doubtful if Boston paid even the waiver price of $7,500 for the veteran. The opinion is that the Yankee owners were glad to take what ever they could get for Joe when they discovered that no club except Boston wanted him. It is reported that Dugan is already balking at the transfer, declaring that he will not consent to join a tail-end club. If memory serves, Dugan played for Connie Mack on a tail-end club in Philadelphia for five straight years, or from 1917 to 1921, inclusive, and he was a far better ball player then than he is now.

INCIDENTALLY, the action of the Boston club in taking on the 31-year-old and fading Dugan, who is far below his old standards in a mechanical sense, though admittedly one of the smartest players in America, gives the average fan the impression that the Brave management has adopted a strange system for the building-up of a run-down club.

Dugan is only another ancient link in a chain of aged material that the owners of the Hub outfit have been gathering in, as only a few weeks ago, they picked up Rabbit Maranville and George Harper. As one fan remarked yesterday: "When they stage the annual old-timers' baseball game in Boston next year it won't be necessary to dig up Wright, Morrill, and the others, as has been the custom. They can just send the Braves on the field intact."

A SUPPLY of the new form of major league player contract blanks finally reached the offices of the Pittsburgh club yesterday, and President Barney Dreyfuss will get busy in a few days on the annual task of sending them out and rounding up his team for 1929.

As a general rule, the local magnate has the majority of his players signed by this stage of the off-season, but he was delayed this winter by the change made in the forms and has enrolled only Capt. Pie Traynor, Infielder Jim Stroner and a few other Bucs. The remainder will now fall in line rapidly, it is expected.

Al Mamaux

MOST of the changes made in the form of contracts used in the major leagues apply merely to the phraseology, but one rather important alteration is included. This affects hold-out players who do not report in time for spring practice. Under the provisions of the contracts formerly signed by big league players, a club was not permitted to do more than fine a player who failed to report in the spring, the maximum penalty allowed being $100. But, as changed, the contracts now give a club the right to suspend a player who fails to report and to place him on the ineligible list.

DURING the last two world series, Al Mamaux, former Pirate pitcher with Newark, N. J., in the International League, has expressed the hope that no major league club would ever be able to get him again. "I'd rather be a big flag on a little pole than a little flag on a big pole," he said.

The case of Rosy Ryan, bought from Toledo by the Yankees last fall and recently released to Milwaukee, is cited by Joe Villa as a parallel to that of Mamaux, the point being raised that a pitcher loses prestige by such a rise and fall. Ryan was considered the best relief pitcher in the country last season in the American Association, but it is contended that his failure with the Yanks has blasted that reputation.

IT IS said that more than once last season there were rumors that one major league club or another would take Mamaux from Newark, and each of the reports caused Al's cheeks to blanch.

"I'd quit first," he is quoted. "I'm nicely situated in Newark and I don't want to be disturbed. I might put in a year with a big league club and then be sent to some outlandish place like Denver

GRIMM, FRISCH LEAD

By CHARLES J. DOYLE.

ASIDE from a new outfield record established by Taylor Douthit of the Cardinals, the National League fielding figures for the past season, as published today, do not contain any startling disclosures.

The ball-hawk of the Redbird pasture in taking care of the duties of a centerfielder, rang up a string of 547 putouts, with total chances accepted reaching 557. His total of chances was 566. The putout total and gross total is far in excess of the previous mark held by Max Carey.

Lefty Grimm, of the Cubs, led the firstsackers of the league in fielding consistency, with Bill Terry and George Kelly almost in a deadlock with Grimm.

Frank Frisch of the Cardinals had the best percentage of the second basemen, but Fred Maguire of the Cubs handled many more chances than Fordham Frank, and Maguire's consistency was just about on a par with that of the Redbird.

Horace Ford of the Reds led the shortstops, although Sparky Adams played 27 games in the position with only one error, to be the nominal leader. Ford took part in more double plays than any other infielder, excepting firstbasemen. Horace was in 128 double shuffles, as the Reds established a new league mark of 194.

Maguire handled more chances than any other infielder, barring first sackers. Fred was in just two less double plays than Ford, and Hughey Critz, Ford's running mate, was only two below Maguire.

Cy Williams of the Phillies handled 127 chances in the outfield without an error, but Douthit eclipsed all pasture men in brilliance of performance.

ARM IN SHAPE, MAYS SAYS

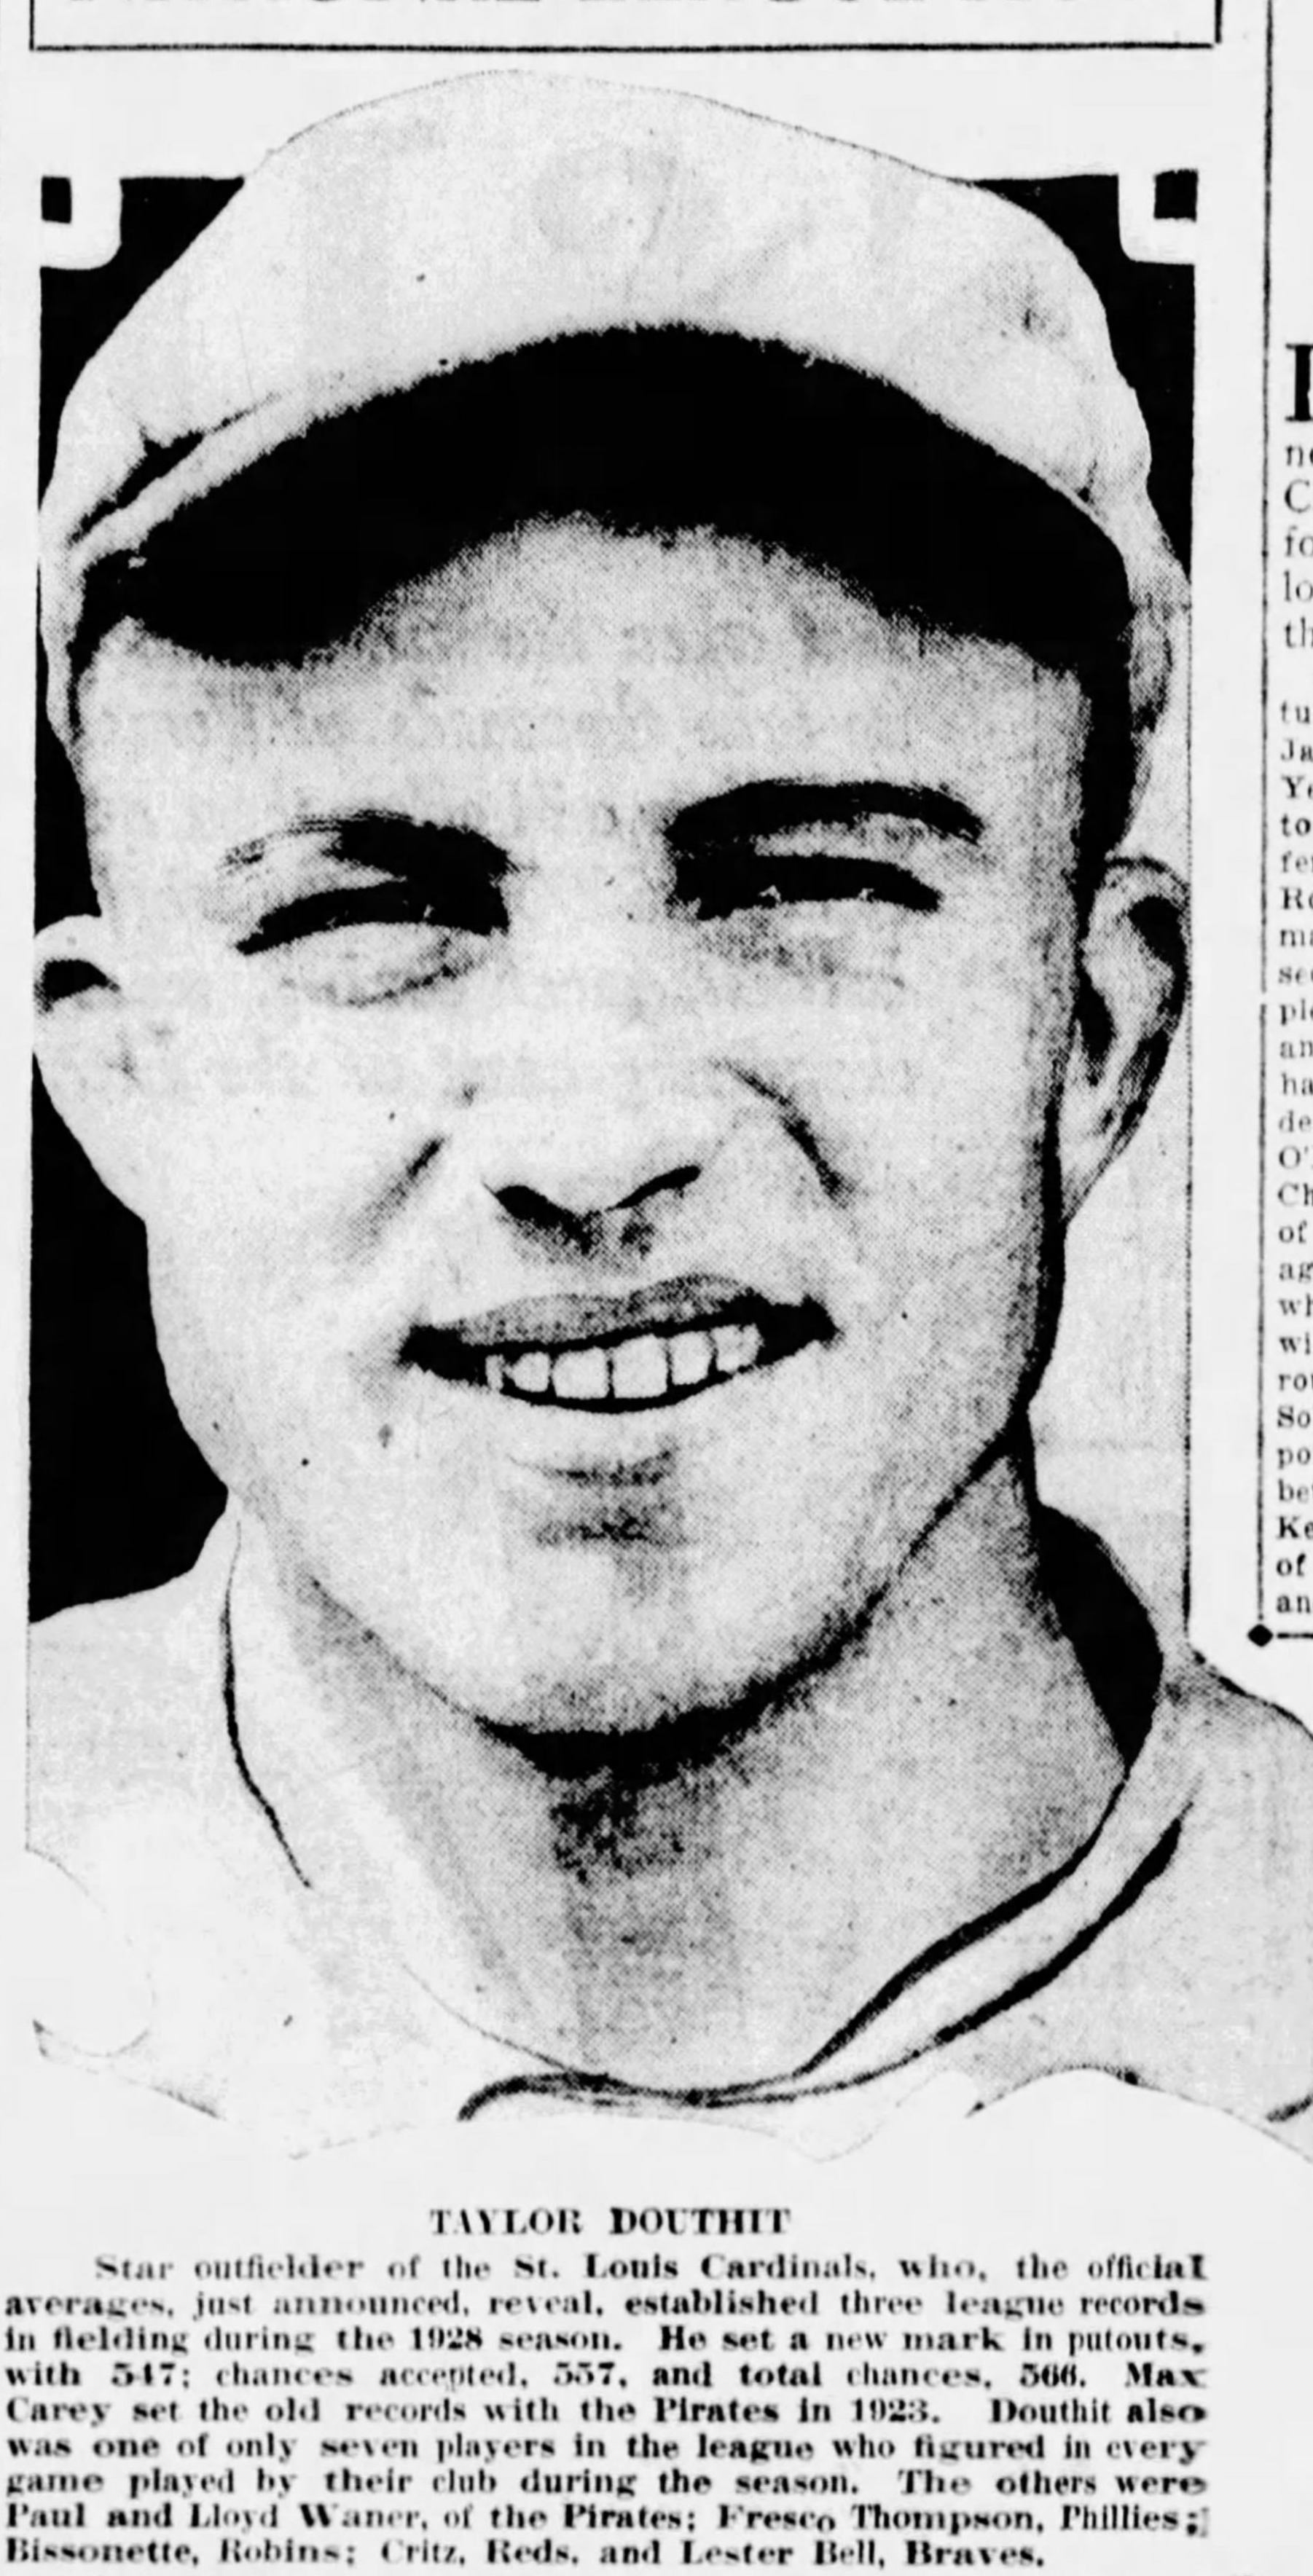
NEW YORK, Dec. 27.—(INS.)—Carl Mays, submarine pitcher of the New York Giants, writes to officials of the club that his right arm has regained its former cunning and that he expects to stand National League batters on their heads next season. The erstwhile blonde terror of American League batsmen is wintering at Miami Beach, Fla., and hopes to restore the effectiveness of his salary whip by baking it in the sun.

Mays formerly starred with the Red Sox, the Yankees and Cincinnati, but has done little or no pitching for the Giants.

SWIM MEET TONIGHT

The Homestead Library will be the scene of a swimming meet tonight, with Miss Susan Laird, a member of the U. S. Olympic team, as the feature attraction.

NATIONAL LEAGUE ACES



TAYLOR DOUTHIT

Star outfielder of the St. Louis Cardinals, who, the official averages, just announced, reveal, established three league records in fielding during the 1928 season. He set a new mark in putouts, with 547; chances accepted, 557, and total chances, 566. Max Carey set the old records with the Pirates in 1923. Douthit also was one of only seven players in the league who figured in every game played by their club during the season. The others were Paul and Lloyd Waner, of the Pirates; Fresco Thompson, Phillies; Bissonette, Robins; Critz, Reds, and Lester Bell, Braves.

ROGERS HORNSBY

For the seventh time, Hornsby this year led the National League in batting, hitting .387. He reigned supreme from 1920 to 1925, inclusive, and did a comeback this season after losing the crown for two years. He needs only one more season of leadership with the willow to equal Hans Wagner's old record of eight years at the top of the heap, and he will make a bid for this honor as a member of the Chicago Cubs next season.

NEW GRID PLANS TO BE BEFORE COACHES TODAY

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 27.—(AP.)—Football coaches, representing almost every American university and college, were in New Orleans today to attend the twenty-third annual convention of the National Association of Football Coaches, and many proposed changes in the rules will be debated during the meeting which extends through Saturday.

Among the later arrivals were 70 eastern coaches, headed by Glenn (Chick) Meehan, of New York University, who came to New Orleans on a special train. Alonzo Stagg, of the University of Chicago, and Lou Little, of Georgetown, reached New Orleans yesterday.

PRESENT NEW PLANS

Executive sessions were on today's program and it is thought that many of the proposed changes in the rules, including Pop Warner's plan to eliminate tie games by awarding victory to the team making the most number of first downs in cases where actual scoring is tied, will be presented.

The coaches will hold an open meeting tomorrow, but the final day will be devoted to executive discussion and adoption of the rules for 1929.

Warner's plan to end tie games has not a strong following, apparently, many leading coaches expressing opposition to the plan. Coach Stagg was one of the more outspoken, declaring the football public seems to be satisfied with the present luck element in the game, and he saw no reason for adopting the Warner proposal.

Stagg also expressed opposition to the custom of naming all-America and all-sectional teams by experts.

"Why, it takes a football coach in intimate contact with his men two or three weeks and sometimes longer to learn which is the best player on his team for a certain position," Stagg declared. "How can a so-called football expert who has to pick from the entire United States know which man in the country is the best for a particular position?"

'Huskers Sign Bible To Succeed Bearg

LINCOLN, Neb., Dec. 27.—(AP.)—Coach Dana X. Bible of Texas A. & M. has accepted a three-year contract as head football coach at the University of Nebraska. He succeeds Coach Ernest E. Bearg, who goes to Washburn College, Topeka, Kas., as director of athletics.

Coach Bible has been at Texas A. & M. for the last 11 years. During that period his teams have won the Southern Conference championship five times. He went to that school as freshman coach in 1916. He had been there in that capacity only a short while, however, when he was offered the head coachship at Louisiana State University. Upon receiving leave from A. & M. he accepted that position and went to the Louisiana institution for the remainder of the season. Offered the head coachship of L. S. U. and A. & M. after his season at the former institution in 1917, Bible elected to return to A. & M.

His 1921 team at A. & M. climaxed their all-victorious season with a victory over the famous Center College team that had defeated Harvard University, 6 to 0. Center College claimed national honors that year, but found the Aggies a superior team when they met in a post-season game.

W. C. Fownes Sets Pace at Pinehurst

PINEHURST, N. C., Dec. 27.—(AP.)—William C. Fownes, Jr., Oakmont Country Club of Pittsburgh, turned in a card of 75 to lead the field in the qualifying round of 18 holes in the twenty-sixth midwinter golf tournament of Pinehurst Country Club yesterday.

The Pittsburgh star went out in 38 strokes and came back in 37 to finish two strokes ahead of Kenneth F. Wilson, York Harbor, Me., and Robert H. Wilson, Southern Pines, N. C. Wilson, a Yale sophomore, was medalist last year with a score of 73, and holds the Maine state amateur championship.

The players, including a number of leading college golfers, all found the going difficult for no special reason. Weather was favorable and the No. 2 championship course was fast.

The summary:

First division—W. C. Fownes, Jr., 75; R. H. Wilson, 77; F. K. Wilson, 77; G. T. Dunlap, Jr., 78; W. P. Arnold, Jr., North Abington, Mass., 79; Donald Parson, Franklin, Me., 81; Richard Chapman, Greenwich, Conn., 81; Phillip Finlay, Redlands, Cal., 81; H. J. Blue, Pinehurst, 83; W. N. Swoope, Merion, Pa., 84; William O'Brien, Detroit, 85; Wallace Zweener, North Hills, L. I., 85; A. B. Jenks, Manchester, N. H., 86; J. J. Chickering, Jr., Boston, 86.

SHARKEY MEETS STRIBLING ON FEBRUARY 26

NEW YORK, Dec. 27.—Jack Sharkey, of Boston, and William L. (Young) Stribling, of Macon, Ga., have been matched to meet in the first bout of the 1929 heavyweight elimination tournament, at Miami, Fla. The contest is scheduled for 10 rounds, and will be held on Tuesday night, February 26.

Tex Rickard, who will promote the affair, closed negotiations with Sharkey through Jack Conway, a Boston attorney. Conway holds a 12 per cent interest in Sharkey's earnings and has the final say on all of his ring contracts.

Rickard left for Miami last night after informing newspapermen that Sharkey was still a holdout, but it has been learned from unquestionable authority that the match is closed. The promoter said he would have an important announcement to make when he reached Miami on Friday, but there is no need for the public to hold its breath until then.

Roses Tournament to Be Broadcast

NEW YORK, Dec. 27.—(AP.)—The story of the annual Tournament of Roses with its climax, the University of California-Georgia Tech football game, at Pasadena, Cal., New Year's Day will be broadcast throughout the country over the WEAF and WJZ networks, the National Broadcasting Company announced. Graham McNamee will give the description of the Rose Carnival which precedes the game.

Billick-Rodgers Go Off; Bouts Carded For Tonight

By HARRY KECK, Sports Editor

LOTS of fistic news to spread out in type today. Jim McGirr runs his weekly show at McKeesport tonight. Two new boxers are in our midst seeking action. Motor Square Club announces its present scale of prices will remain in effect for the New Year's Day show, next Tuesday, and that the lower prices talked about will not become operative until after the holiday matinee.

And not only that, but the return bout between Dan Billick and Jackie Rodgers is off for New Year's Day. Billick will not be able to get over the bruises he suffered in his hectic battle with Rodgers in the same ring Christmas afternoon in time to keep the second engagement. He has a couple of battered ribs, a swollen eye and other souvenirs of Rodgers' hard punching. The club is endeavoring to sign Midget Mike O'Dowd, of Louisville, managed by Charley Jones, the former sheik of McKeesport, to replace Dan against Jackie in the headliner, which will be a 10-rounder, and will be backed up by an eight-round mix between Tom Malco, of Soho, and Phil Scello, of McKeesport, welterweights; a six-rounder between Johnny Dunn, of New Kensington, and Johnny Michaels, of the North Side, featherweights, and two four-rounders, in which Teddy Welch, McKeesport welterweight, will oppose Jackie Murray, of the Hill, and Max Ziff and Charley Sabol will clash in a heavyweight mix.

BOUTS AT McKEESPORT

Henry Firpo, of Louisville, a big favorite around New Castle, where he has been boxing regularly, battles Young Saylor, 150-pound veteran of Charleroi, in one of the two 10-round battles at McKeesport tonight. U. S. Carpentier and Ken Hargraves, both of New Kensington, feathers, meet in the other feature event. Firpo recently lost on an unintentional foul to Frankie Palmo, of Cincinnati, at Motor Square Garden, but was winning when Palmo took advantage of the low blow to get the fight over with. Carpentier takes the place of Bat-

GAMES TONIGHT.

Detroit at Les Canadiens.
Chicago at New York Americans.

By CARL W. SHATTO

ALTHOUGH a big percentage of those who know their calendars will not add the flipping of new leafs to their daily dozen until January 1, Benny Leonard's hockey Pirates will go in for leaf-turning tonight when they attempt to turn back the Maple Leafs of Toronto in a National League game at Duquesne Garden.

Even should the local skaters succeed in their joust with the Leafs, it is probable that their style will be somewhat cramped, for Bert McCaffery, veteran defense ace, is lost to the Bucs for this and several other battles. Manager Odie Cleghorn received a telegram from Mrs. McCaffery late yesterday in which she announced that the Pirate star was confined to his home with a severe attack of tonsilitis, and attending physicians fear that his illness may develop into pneumonia. Roger Smith, a veteran among veterans, and robust Johnny McKinnon will start at the defense posts tonight, Cleghorn announced, and Toots Holway, who is in the habit of pairing with McCaffery at defense, will be saved for relief duty.

Frederickson is experiencing no trouble in adapting himself to the Pittsburgh style of play, according to Pilot Odie, and he is expected to be at his best in tonight's clash, one in which he will make his local debut as a Pirate. Freddie slammed home the goal that gave the Bucs a 3-2 decision over the Leafs at Toronto Saturday night, and Cleghorn is confident that he will be able to lead the locals to their third straight triumph. A victory tonight will elevate the Bucs into a third-place tie with Boston, and the locals are eager to get into a play-off berth.

SPARES PACK PUNCH

If the Bucs exhibition in Toronto can be taken as a criterion, Cotton has given the spare line a new and powerful punch. Harold registered one of the locals' three tallies, and Drury contributed another.

And it would appear that the Pirates have struck their goal-getting stride just in time, for in the Leafs they will be meeting the greatest scoring club in the league, and it probably will take a cluster of tallies to save them from defeat. The invaders have scored 32 goals in 14 games, while the locals have been tallying 10 times in the same number of encounters, and four of the Toronto goals were garnered Tuesday at the expense of the husky Montreal Maroons, indicating that the setback which they suffered at the hands of the Bucs did not dampen their ardor.

But the Leafs' defense record is an entirely different story. They lead the league in the matter of giving away goals, with 30, so the Bucs' scoring chances can be regarded as bright. And those who prefer to see a game go to a decision probably will be satisfied, for the invaders have not participated in a tie game this season.

Although the loss of McCaffery may leave the Pirates' defense a little shaky, the locals will be as strong in this department as will their foemen. Art Duncan, the Leafs' defense ace, has been ill for the last fortnight, and Red Horner, husky star brought in from the amateurs last week to fill his shoes, was injured in the Montreal game Tuesday and will be on the shelf indefinitely. Horner sugered a broken hand.

The Toronto skater who may command the interest of Pirate fans and who is certain to command most of the Pirate players' attention is Ace Bailey, tied with Stewart and Morenz for the lead in the individual scoring race. Bailey has six goals and five assists to his credit, and plenty of action can be anticipated when he sweeps down the ice.

The rival goalies are former New York net guardians. Lorne Chabot became a Leaf when Mickey Roach was shipped to the Rangers, and Joe Miller became Pittsburgh property in a deal which saw Roy Worters go to the Americans.

If the oft-repeated statement that hockey fans prefer goals is true, the Craig street arena will be packed tonight, for the Leafs are the league's best at taking and giving tallies. The probable lineup:

Pirates.		Leafs.
Miller	G.	Chabot
McKinnon	R. D.	Day
R. Smith	L. D.	A. Smith
Frederickson	C.	Carson
Darragh	R. W.	Bailey
Milks	L. W.	Cox

Fight Results

OAKLAND, Cal., Dec. 27.—(AP.)—Word that Jimmy Reese, second baseman, had been released to them on option by the New York Yankees was described by officials of the Oakland baseball club as a "very acceptable Christmas present." Both Reese and Lyn Lary were sold to the Yanks for delivery this spring.

SOCCERITES TURN TO HEIDELBERG, DUNLEVY TILT

By TOM BIRKS.

SOCCER fans are faced with a dull week-end, but with Heidelberg scheduled to tangle with Dunlevy at the home of the Pitt Panther New Year's Day, and the second round of the national amateur cup scheduled for the following week end, plenty of real interesting soccer looms ahead for the fans to get excited over.

While the Pittsburgh Rovers-National Tube crowd did not come up to expectations, the meeting between Heidelberg and Dunlevy should put quite a representative crowd into the big stadium. The recent meeting between the clubs which was unfinished, will give the necessary punch to next Tuesday's game. Dunlevy and Heidelberg both play the type of soccer that appeals to the crowd, and when these combinations swing into action, real action can be expected, and got. Then plenty of sport lovers who watched the recent collegiate season with interest, will be on hand to watch Buff Donnelli do his stuff on a soccer field. The Duquesne University captain is a real soccer player, in fact this was his first love, and he is just as competent kicking the leather as carrying the pigskin.

Of course, Hennigan cannot do the things that Jaap did in the same style, but with a set of punk center forwards around the district the work of the Tube star stood out in a poor setting. It seems that Johnny Jaap will never be replaced in this neck of the woods, his brilliancy at controlling the ball, that neat swerve in eluding an opponent, drawing the defense before sending his wing men on their way with the ball, and shooting on the run, has not been duplicated. Buff Donnelli is a harder shot than Jaap, but Buff cannot control the ball like the Bethlehem star did.

When fans walked out of the home of the Pitt Panther when Peckovitch sounded the final whistle, it seemed that the leading question fans found themselves asking, was "What is wrong with the Rovers?" Here is a club that is crammed with soccer talent. All its members could stand out as individual stars, but when the going gets tough they curl up, and seemingly quit. The ball was kicked around in aimless fashion by players who can, if they wish, play a tatoo with the ball on a dime. Moir, Moran, Gifford, Zupanic and Bradshaw are all real good men, but they failed to convey that impression to the fans in the Tube game. Gifford would break up the Tube attack, then aimlessly kick to the opposition, then his next play would stop Hennigan and give Dunlop and Moir a great chance that would be thrown away. Yes, the Rovers were very disappointing, even to their friends, in that game.

Luther Lest, of New Kensington, and John Brucker, of Pittsburgh, middleweights, will box the six-round second bout and Johnny Brown, of Lawrenceville, and Jack McCarthy, of the North Side, welters, will appear in the opener of the Tube City show.

Frankie Nanci, featherweight, is one of the newcomers in town anxious to be accommodated in the way of battles. He is a brother of Anthony Nanci, of Swissvale, and, like the latter, formerly starred in the amateur ranks hereabouts. He left Pittsburgh more than six years ago for the South, and turned professional there. He has done most of his boxing in Florida and Cuba, being well known to the fans of Miami, Tampa, Jacksonville, Palm Beach and Havana. He holds victories over Boots Antley, Tim O'Dowd and other good Southern boxers and plans to remain here if he can get sufficient bouts in this vicinity to keep him busy. If not, he will return to Florida. His brother, Anthony, who has been boxing around Cincinnati, also is back home and is ready to meet any of the flyweights.

JIMMY CARLO HERE

The other addition to the local boxing colony is Jimmy Carlo, of New York, also a featherweight, who has been boxing through the South recently. Among others, he has met Jimmy Doyle, Benny Martini, Frankie White, Tiger Martin and Tresco Johnson. It might not be a bad idea to pair Nanci and Carlo against each other if no other opponents are available for them.

Anent the cut in prices at Motor Square, the club announces that the holidays afford it the only good breaks of the season in the way of making a little money to stand off the leaner shows and it will be necessary to hold to the $1, $2 and $3 scale of prices until after New Year's Day is out of the way. For future shows the prices will be 75 cents, $1 and $2.

CARNEY BOOKING AGENT

Luke Carney has opened a booking agency for boxers, managers and clubs in the Jackson Building, downtown, and is ready to furnish talent for all occasions on long or short notice.

Al Singer's next big bout in New York will be with Kid Chocolate, the Cuban sensation, and will furnish the attraction for the opening show of Jess McMahon's new Coliseum arena in the Bronx, which, it is said, will have a larger seating capacity than Madison Square Garden. The show is planned for some time in February.

"Dominick Profio will meet Tom Malco any time at 142 pounds." This is the reply of Reed Brown, manager of Profil, to Malco's claim that Profio does not care to box him.

Bert McCaffery

NOT only one of the greatest fighters of his own time, but of any other time in the history of the ring, answered the last gong when Oscar Gardner died in Minneapolis. Over a stretch of 11 years, from 1891 to 1901, inclusive, Gardner made one of the most impressive records ever credited to any fighter. H took part in 547 battles, and the word "battle" in those days meant just that and nothing less, for the majority were scheduled for from 20 to 25 rounds and the foemen were real fighters who fought for the love of the game and did not make their sport secondary to the commercialism that governs the pastime today.

WHILE weighing only 115 pounds himself, Gardner never gave any thought to the matter of poundage when making matches, but readily took on featherweights and lightweights. It was nothing out of the ordinary for him to appear in 20-round bouts only a day or two apart. He engaged in two bouts in Millvale while Pittsburgh was closed to boxing in 1899 and 1900, and also met Jack McClelland and other local fighters in Wheeling, and elsewhere in the Tri-State district.

Before Terry McGovern knocked him out in the third round on March 9, 1900, Gardner floored McGovern for what probably would have been a full count, but Charley White, the referee, permitted Terry to pull himself to his feet by catching hold of the official's legs. One of Gardner's fights ended fatally, George Stout failing to regain consciousness after being knocked out by Oscar in the twelfth round of a fight in Columbus, O., on April 7, 1898.

IT'S just one handicap after another for the Pittsburgh hockey club. For a long time the defense was all that could be desired but the goal shooting was below par. Then that defect was remedied by the acquisition of Frank Frederickson, and now the defense is knocked awry by the loss of Bert McCaffery's services.

McCaffery is ill at his home in Toronto, Ont., and is out of the game indefinitely, necessitating the changing of the lineup and the using of a new defense pair, Johnny McKinnon and Roger Smith, in tonight's game here against the Maple Leafs and in other contests to follow. It is another tough break for Manager Cleghorn and his Pirates just as the Bucs were beginning to find themselves.

SAY DOC - WHATS GOOD TO TAKE WHEN YOURE ALL TIRED OUT?
TAKE A TAXI
I TOLD HIM TO TAKE A SUN BATH FOR THAT TIRED FEELING - BUT HE SAID - "GEE WHIZ I CANT SWIM A STROKE"
HE THINKS THEY USE RED OIL IN RED LANTERNS
HOT FRANKS
HE WAS SHELL SHOCKED AT THE 6 DAY RACE SOMEONE HIT HIM WITH A PEANUT
OH - THERE AIN'T NO USE SINGIN' LIKE THE DEUCE ALL BY YOURSELF IN THE MOONLIGHT

CLUB FIELDING FEATURES.

Chicago leads in team fielding with .975 and had most runners left on bases, 1185. St. Louis made the most putouts, 4248. New York had the largest number of assists, 2028, and most total chances, 6386. Brooklyn committed the most errors, 217. Cincinnati led in making double plays, with 194. No triple plays were made during the season. Boston had most passed balls, 13.

Cincinnati, with 194 double plays, set a new league record, breaking the Chicago Cubs' record of 174 made in 1926. Chicago, with 176 double plays, and New York, with 175, also surpassed the former mark.

RAUHS, MIELES TO BATTLE TONIGHT

By JULIUS LEVIN.

WHAT looms as one of the best basketball games of the season is scheduled at Columbus Temple tonight when the Rauhs and Miele-Franchinas clash in the only Allegheny County League attraction on the program.

Hailing from the same section of the city, the battle between the Rauhs and Miele-Franchinas has created unusual interest in the Hill district basketball circles, and indications are that tonight's clash will bring out a capacity crowd of divided supporters.

Inasmuch as both participants play all of their home games at Columbus Temple, neither club will have a decided advantage tonight. Added interest is attached to tonight's contest, due to the fact that Nate Lippe, two years ago the main cog in the Rauh machine, now is playing a stellar role for the Miele-Franchinas. Lippe appears to have struck his natural stride after getting off to a poor start, and if he plays his normal game tonight the Rauhs are going to be in for a busy evening.

The game will be preceded by a high-class preliminary attraction, featuring the Lou Gordons, last year's junior champions, and the Tarentum All-Stars. The first game will start at 8 o'clock.

DRIBBLES

The Duquesne Lafayettes, twice winners of the Allegheny County League championship and leaders in the present race with four victories and no defeats will hold a brisk workout tonight. The Lafayettes meet the Goldensons at the Market House Saturday night.

Community House will be the attraction of the Young Men's Hebrew Association tonight in an Institutional League contest. The Y. M. H. A. advanced nearer to first place by defeating East Liberty Saturday night. The reserve teams of the two institutions will meet in the preliminary game, starting at 8 o'clock.

Kingsley House has withdrawn Palomone and the Young Men's Hebrew Association has withdrawn Davey Wilder from their Institutional League rosters, both boys being candidates for the Duquesne University basketball squad.

The Duquesne Lafayettes are eager to arrange games abroad with first-class professional teams desiring a strong attraction. A. W. Had is handling the booking arrangements and dates may be obtained by calling him at Dukane 24433 after 6 p. m.

The return of Whitey Littell, former Morry flash, to the Goldenson lineup, is certain to bolster the South Siders for the race down the home stretch in the County League. The former Morry scoring ace gives the Goldensons three veteran forwards in Eddie Siegle, Moon Klinzing and Littell.

I. K. S. ACTIVE

The Irene Kaufmann Settlement House basketball activities are confined mainly to house leagues, but once the new gym is completed the Center avenue institution will resume its policy of turning out representative teams in all classes of amateur competition. Coach Ziggy Kahn is keeping his passers in shape by staging daily workouts at the Herron Hill High School.

The Manchester Community Lyceum will have the Canevin Club as its attraction in a Pittsburgh Lyceum league game tonight. The Manchester team has been strengthened by the return of several regulars, who have been inactive due to illness.

Immaculate Heart meets the Conleys at Homestead, and the Mangans meet Alumni in the two Pittsburgh & Ohio Valley League games carded tonight. Both games should prove interesting affairs.

Morrys, Immaculate Heart Are Beaten

McKeesport Alumni set down the Morrys, 25 to 23, and Greenfield Alumni nosed out Immaculate Heart, 33 to 32, in P. & O. League games last night. The lineups:

EAST SQUAD ENDS STIFF TRAINING

By Howard Harpster

All-America Quarterback of Carnegie Tech.

(Written Exclusively for the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.)

PALO ALTO, Cal., Dec. 27.—The East team ended its hard training for the coming game with the West when a final scrimmage was held yesterday afternoon. The practices between now and game time will be used to speed up and smooth out our offense, and no more hard work is scheduled, as the coaches do not want to take the chance of having any of the players injured.

Howard Harpster

All of the men are in fine physical condition at the present time with the single exception of Ken Haycraft, the All-America end from Minnesota, who is suffering from a slight attack of yellow jaundice.

Ken thinks he will be all right in a few days, and I surely hope he will be, as he is a great pass receiver and a wonderful defensive end.

I predict that Blue will do the same thing with the West's line, even though the people here in California do say that the West team has the greatest line ever assembled on any football team.

TECH-CAL. NEAR PEAK

PASADENA, Cal., Dec. 27.—(AP.)—Indications that the Yellow Jackets of Georgia Tech and the Bears of California are near the peak of physical shape and teamwork for the New Year's Day clash at the Rose Bowl here, became sharply outlined as the two sectional representative elevens swing into a steady training stride.

Having crowded 10 workouts into a period of six days, Coach Nibs Price has decided to lighten the gridiron drudgery of the Golden Bear squad. Satisfied with the way his men have been progressing, the California mentor announced that starting today the Bears would have but one workout a day. To date Price has been sending his squad through two practices daily as a training diet.

The Yellow Jackets have had three workouts on Southern California soil, and will continue their one practice a day program. They will alternate with the Bears in the use of the Rose Bowl as a training turf.

Why Bank Deposits Exceed Our Total Stock of Money

By B. C. FORBES

SINCE so many more millions of people began to buy stocks, interest in financial subjects has very greatly increased. Persons who formerly paid not the slightest attention, for example, to banking statistics, now try to understand them. Naturally, what some of the figures stand for puzzles them.

As brokers' loans have figured so prominently in discussions of the stock market, many readers of newspapers, noting the phenomenal expansion in them and then reading about how much currency there is in the whole country, cannot grasp where so much "money" comes from to keep the speculation going.

When they read that bank deposits for the whole country are very much larger than the uninitiation's total currency, the uninitiated think there must be something wrong with the figures. How could the banks be carrying more deposits than there is money in the land?

Perhaps a little enlightenment will be interesting and timely.

"If the entire issue of currency by the Federal Reserve banks is $1,700,000,000, how can they loan on stock margins in New York $5,000,000,000?

"Also, if the gross stock of money in the United States is less than $4,000,000,000, why do banks publish $70,000,000,000 deposits?"

I SUBMITTED these questions to a friend connected with the Federal Reserve system and asked him for an explanation which would be understood by the lay mind. He has kindly furnished this reply:

"The writer of the inquiry misunderstands the relationship of currency, bank deposits and bank credit.

"In the first place, no bank carries a dollar of currency for every dollar of deposits. If that were the case, there would be no such thing as bank credit; banks would be merely safekeeping institutions; they could make no loans, would have no earnings, could pay no interest on deposits, and, in fact, would have to charge depositors for the custody of their deposits.

"Banks only have enough cash to meet possible withdrawals in any day. Long experience has shown that the daily demand for currency can be met by keeping on hand about $2 of currency for every $100 of deposits. To meet any unusual demand for currency the banks have the Federal Reserve system to fall back upon, which keeps hundreds of millions of dollars of currency as a reserve to meet any unusual demand.

"COMING now to the specific points raised in the inquiry, there is no relationship whatever between the $1,700,000,000 of Federal Reserve notes and the $5,000,000,000 of brokers loans.

"The Federal Reserve notes are simply a part of the currency of the country used as till money or in hand-to-hand circulation.

"The loans to brokers to finance the carrying of stocks on margin and other security transactions are not made by the Reserve Banks but are reported to the New York Reserve Bank by commercial banks in New York. The reports show how much of such loans these New York City banks have placed for their own account, for correspondent banks, and for others. A huge volume of checks is drawn against the deposits created by these loans, but no currency is involved.

"In the United States, checks drawn against deposits serve the same purposes as currency, and in fact, replace currency in a very large proportion of all business transactions in this country.

"THE total stock of money in this country is over $8,500,000,000, of which between four billions and five billions is in actual circulation; a smaller amount constitutes a reserve policy of Federal Reserve notes and other currency.

"The latest reported figure on total deposits of all banks in the United States was about $53,000,000,000 on June 30, 1928."

THE statement that banks have found it necessary to carry only about $2 of actual currency for every $100 of deposits on their books should go far to remove the misconception that money in circulation and bank deposits are the same thing.

HIGHER MONEY RATE FORCES SELLING

NEW YORK, Dec. 27.—(AP.)—Selling pressure, which became quite heavy yesterday afternoon when the call money rate was marked up to 12 per cent, was resumed at the opening of today's stock market. Initial declines of a point or two were recorded by Chile Copper, Chrysler, General Motors and Atchison. American Can opened a point higher.

There were a few independent strong spots in the early trading indicating that some operators were looking forward to an unusually heavy reinvestment demand after the turn of the year. Atlas Powder was marked up more than 6 points to a new high record of 110¾ and Otis Elevator crossed 285 to a new top. National Bellas Hess showed an early advance of 4 points.

Most commission houses continued to urge caution in the making of new commitments because of the temporary credit stringency, and the heavy year-end readjustment of speculative accounts. Such selling as came into the market was orderly in character with few breaks of any consequence.

Radio, which was weak yesterday, rapidly sold off 5 points and Wright Aeronautical, Consolidated Gas and Atchison extended their initial declines to 2 points or more. In the long list of issues which sagged a point or more below yesterday's final quotations were Union Pacific, Chesapeake and Ohio, Standard Oil of California, Mexican Seaboard, Loose Wiles, Curtiss, Simmons, Central Alloy Steel and Commercial Credit.

The selling movement broadened during the forenoon, after the call money renewal rate was established at 10 per cent. Radio fell more than 6 points through 350 while General Electric and Curtiss lost 3 points each. Montgomery Ward, General Motors and Allied Chemical sagged 2 points and more. Among the few strong points were Spicer Manufacturing, Hartman Corporation B and Allis Chalmers, which broke into new high ground in gains of about 2 points each.

CHICAGO BOARD

CHICAGO, Dec. 27.—(AP.)—Active buying of corn and fresh advances in price went together early today, but selling broadened out on the upturns. Receipts of corn here were meager, 209 cars, and rural offerings were mostly above the market. Opening at ⅛c off to ⅜c up, corn subsequently at times showed gains all around. Wheat started at ⅛c decline to ⅛c advance and afterwards held near to initial figures. Oats were firm. Provisions kept about steady.

Bulls in corn had the advantage much of the time today but the market was by no means altogether one-sided. One of the striking features was that a house with export connections sold December delivery of corn and bought May. Meanwhile deliveries on December contracts here were at a minimum, arrivals small, and the country giving evidence of reluctance to part with holdings.

Some aggressive selling of wheat was done here today apparently for Winnipeg account. Bears put stress on the fact that the domestic visible supply is the heaviest ever known, 50,000,000 bushels more than last year, and that prices here are above world parity.

Radio Killing Jazz, Says Music Leader

CLEVELAND, Dec. 27.—(AP.)—Radio is killing its first love, jazz, by a sort of slow poisoning method, in the opinion of William Arms Fisher, of Boston, president of the Music Teachers' National Association, which opened its fiftieth annual convention here today.

SUGAR MARKET.

NEW YORK, Dec. 27.—(AP.)—Although not very active, the raw sugar market was easier early today, with prices declining to the basis of 3.89c for spots, duty paid, under increased offerings, principally of sugars from store. Sales reported were 5,000 bags of Cuban ex-warehouse at the quoted price to a local refiner. Price changes in raw sugar futures were narrow and after opening unchanged to 1 point lower, prices continued within that range throughout the balance of the forenoon. The volume of business was light, with some selling by houses with trade connections, probably influenced by the easier spot market, and the disappointing showing of London. The offerings were not aggressive, however, and were absorbed by shorts and commission houses.

In refined a fair new inquiry was reported with prices unchanged at 5.25c for fine granulated.

NARROW PRICE CHANGES RULE IN TRADING HERE

Dealings on the Pittsburgh Stock Exchange today were largely in the nature of an evening-up proposition in anticipation of the year-end closely approaching.

Price fluctuations were narrow and there was no noticeable concentration of activity in any particular issues. Arkansas Gas displayed a firm tone in the early trading but demand for the issue was not sufficient to force it more than a fraction beyond the trading limits to which it has held for some time. Lone Star Gas was quiet and came into the market at a small fraction above last night's close.

Armstrong Cork, in which there was a sharp flurry yesterday, opened off more than a point when the buying demand of the previous session failed to assert itself this morning. On the rise yesterday, Armstrong shot up from 59¾ to 63¾ with a total turnover of less than 1,400 shares. The sharp rise on this small volume is interpreted as a reflection of the scarcity of the stock for trading purposes at anything near the recently prevailing levels.

Pittsburgh Plate Glass was handled today at 63⅛ in the forenoon dealings, comparing with yesterday's final sale of 63. There was no explanation of yesterday's heaviness in the stock and the decline was attributed to absence of buying demand rather than to any developments affecting the company's operations or earning power.

Pig Crop in U. S. Decreases 5 Per Cent

WASHINGTON, Dec. 27.—(AP.)—The Department of Agriculture today reported a decrease of about 5 per cent in the fall pig crop of 1928 from the fall crop last year. The decrease in the 11 corn belt states was only about 1½ per cent, but large decreases were shown in the southern states. The survey was made as of December 1, in co-operation with the Postoffice Department through the rural carriers.

By GEORGE H. SNYDER.

BIG days on the New York Stock Exchange are here to stay if the facts published in the last Year Book mean anything. The far-famed "orgy of speculation" has not been the only factor making 6,000,000-share days possible. Stock dividends, split-ups, new listings and the offerings of rights have contributed their share.

The members of the exchange are trading in the stocks of more companies than ever before and these individual companies have more shares of stock outstanding. The big board has been taking on new lines and naturally its business has increased.

Barring disturbing elements which might sharply curtail the investment market for short periods, the present volume of trading is likely to be permanent.

THIS, of course, does not necessarily mean that the existing high prices for stocks are to last. But there is good reason to believe that 6,000,000-share days and perhaps even busier times are to be common in the future.

The exchange has been adding stock issues to its trading list in an increasingly rapid pace. Between 1900 and 1910 the growth was slow. The number of stock issues increased from 377 to only 426.

SINCE then, however, the really impressive development has taken place. The year 1925 started with 927 stocks on the board and by October 1 of this year 1,131 issues were listed.

Since 1925 the number of issues which the public can buy or sell has increased 22 per cent. But this is only part of the story.

At the beginning of 1925 a total of 433,448,561 individual shares were listed. This increased to 711,197,109 shares on October 1, 1928.

By the process of cutting melons the number of shares has grown far more rapidly than the total of issues. The growth in shares which can be traded has amounted to 64 per cent in less than four years.

IF THERE has been excessive inflation in speculation, it has been in the prices of stocks, not in the volume of business handled.

The New York Stock Exchange has been increasing its service to the investing and speculating public by making an open market available in the stocks of more companies. These companies have further added to the business by the process of making little shares out of big ones.

In spite of the constant tendency to represent the ownership of listed corporations by increased numbers of shares, the price of the individual stocks is considerably higher than it was at the start of 1925.

THE Year Book shows that the average price of the shares listed on January 1, 1925, was 62.45. Since then the average has never gone below that point. There have been set-backs at various times, but the average climbed up to its highest point of 83.42 on October 1, 1928, the date of publication of the book.

The mere advance of 20.97 points in the average price does not tell the whole story. The average listing in 1925 had a total market value of about $29,200,000. This grew to $52,456,000 by October 1.

OF COURSE, mergers, recapitalizations, and the growth of companies would account for a large share of legitimate increase in the value of the listings. Figures are not available to form an estimate of the part these factors have played.

There are some who think that the normal growth to be expected for the class of corporations represented by stock exchange listings will justify present prices in the next few years. By far the majority, however, feel that there will be further adjustments in the prices of stocks to a more reasonable basis. When this will happen is a prediction that only a brave or a foolish prophet would dare to make.

But regardless of prices, the volume of sales is not likely to show any pronounced reduction except for short periods.

The Orange Gas at the GULF Sign of the Orange Disc

Gulf No-Nox Motor Fuel

Sells for 3c per gallon More Than Ordinary Gasoline

And It Is Worth It

Stops Knocks

Improves Motor Efficiency

IT is not necessary for us to manufacture a special winter gasoline . . .

The High Quality of THAT GOOD GULF GASOLINE and NO-NOX MOTOR FUEL makes them equally efficient winter and summer.

COTTON MARKET

NEW YORK, Dec. 27.—(AP.)—Prices opened 1 to 4 points lower on the cotton market today in response to rather disappointing Liverpool cables and some further near month liquidation due to the circulation of a few additional January notices. The offerings were well enough taken to give the market a fairly steady undertone, however. Trading was quiet after the call, with prices holding around 20.20 for March and 19.93 for July at the end of the first half hour, or within a point or two of yesterday's closing quotations. Private cables said there had been London, Bombay and local liquidation in the Liverpool market absorbed by trade calling on the decline and that business in the cloth and yarn market had not been fully resumed following the holiday.

The market acted as if the few notices issued this morning were being readily stopped, as January sold about 3 points over March compared with a discount of 4 points at the close yesterday, and the tone was steady later in the morning. Bulges to about or a shade above yesterday's closing quotations were not maintained, however, as they seemed to meet further liquidation or a little Southern selling. At midday trading was quiet, with active months 1 to 6 points net lower.

Money Market.

LONDON, Dec. 27.—(AP.)—Bar silver 26 7-16d per ounce; money 2½ per cent; discount rates, short bills and three-months, 4 7-16 per cent.

FINANCIAL NEWS AND VIEWS

Stocks Rally in Last Hour.

Stringency in the money market held stock exchange enthusiasm down again today, but there were no drastic breaks in the list despite a 10 per cent opening on call loans and a rise in the rate to 12 per cent shortly after noon. About $25,000,000 of loans were called during the forenoon as banks built up their cash reserves to meet the big year-end dividend payments and in anticipation of national and state bank calls. However, the unusually high rate on demand loans may attract funds from out-of-town banks and "other" lenders, and this possibility led some observers to anticipate an easier rate should money from these sources make its appearance. Thirty-day money was very scarce at 8½ per cent bid. Caution and hesitation marked the greater part of the trading session on the exchange. The buoyancy evident in yesterday's early dealings was absent and there was no spirited bidding for the favorites such as marked the activities in certain speculative stars. Mild reactionary tendencies were noted in practically all sections of the list, but the heaviness did not attract more than an ordinary volume of selling from the professional bear contingent. The widely held belief that the coming year will witness even greater expansion and greater profits for the major industrials is the principal deterrent to large scale liquidation at this time, and with their well-margined accounts, the trading element is in a pretty good position to wait for the expected favorable developments.

In the first half of the last hour, when the call loan rate failed to go above the earlier high of 12 per cent, the market enjoyed a distinct reversal of trend. The best stocks in the list turned upward and there was a more or less general advance from the low prices of the morning. Among the leaders of the rally were General Electric, Westinghouse, Steel, Anaconda, American Can, Johns Manville and Atlantic Refining.

Picking 1929 Favorites.

Paine, Webber & Co., of New York, in their semi-monthly bulletin say: "As 1928 closes it is fitting to survey lines of industry and specific companies which are likely, by virtue of increased earnings, trade or special developments to score more than ordinary progress in 1929. Our analysis suggests that basis exists for further distinct improvement in rubber industry, and in certain branches of merchandising food, amusement and automobile accessory industries. Without prejudice to other meritorious issues, we have selected the following stocks as representing outstanding opportunities for 1929: Anaconda, Briggs, Canadian Pacific, Chesapeake and Ohio, Gold Dust, Goodrich, Kennecott, Lambert, Metropolitan Chain Stores, preferred, Burray Corporation, St. Louis Southwestern, Union Pacific and Warner Brothers."

Ford of Canada.

Detroit reports say the Ford Motor Company of Canada has practically as many unfilled orders for spring delivery as had accumulated before deliveries were started on the new model A, according to reports from dealers. The company will return to a six-day week basis in February. All back orders have been filled and present operations are seasonally low due to the usual inventory period. Estimated production of new cars and trucks in 1928 is 75,000 units. W. R. Campbell, vice president, said Ford of Canada is scheduled to produce 140,000 new cars in 1929 for Canadian and overseas territories, which is 35,000 more than any previous yearly record. Ford Motor of England was buoyant at the opening on the New York Curb, but quieted down as the money conditions brought further nervousness into the big market.

Federal Reserve Condition.

Federal Reserve Board's condition statement of 628 reporting member banks in leading cities as of December 19 shows increases for the week of $66,000,000 in loans and discounts, of $105,000,000 in investments of which $98,000,000 represents government securities, of $246,000,000 in government deposits, and of $1,000,000 in time deposits, and decreases of $168,000,000 in net demand deposits and of $93,000,000 in borrowing from Federal Reserve Banks.

Loans on stocks and bonds, including U. S. government obligations, were $21,000,000 below the December 12 total at all reporting banks, reductions of $16,000,000 being reported by member banks in the New York district and of $11,000,000 each in the Cleveland and Chicago districts, which were partly offset by smaller increases in most of the other districts.

Common Stock Enhancements.

The feature of the reinvestment demand after January 1 is expected to be heavy demand for the better grade of common stocks. Public has read a great deal of fabulous fortunes made by patient holders of equities in growing companies. Investment trusts are adding to the evidence by placing a greater proportion of their funds in this type of issue. Sun Life Assurance Company of Canada shows that in the past eight years its investments in stocks have increased from 15.9% to 45.2% of its total investments, whereas increase in common stocks alone was from 3.6% to 36.1% of total investments.

Anaconda Deal in Making.

In connection with current rumors in market circles that the Inland Wire and Cable will be consolidated with the Anaconda Copper Mining Company, interests close to the former state that while there has been some conversation between officers of the two companies, the matter is still in the formative stage and that none of the details or terms of the deal have been taken up.

Although there has been rather heavy profit-taking in Anaconda following the increase in the dividend to $6, sponsors of the copper stocks believe there is sufficient bullish news in the offing to warrant a continued constructive attitude. The metal market continues strong and another advance above the 16¼-cent level is looked for shortly. Other dividend increases are expected and in this connection Nevada Consolidated, earning at an estimated annual rate of $4 a share, is expected to increase its $2 dividend.

Export Copper Raised.

Copper Exports, Inc., has advanced the export price of copper ¼c a pound to 16½c cost and freight, Hamburg, Havre and London. This follows an advance in the price of domestic delivery copper to 16¼c a pound yesterday.

Copper sales to domestic consumers were of record proportions in the past week despite the holiday, the business volume being even larger than that reported for the exceptionally active period of early September, Engineering and Mining Journal states. Other non-ferrous metals remained quiet, though there has been no indication of price weakness.

Express Agency Capitalization.

Application has been made to the Inter-State Commerce Commission by a committee of railroad executives for authority for the newly incorporated Railway Express Agency to take over the properties of the American Railway Express. Authority was also requested permitting issuance and sale of $35,000,000 of debenture bonds and 1,000 shares of no par stock.

The 1,000 shares of stock would be divided up among the railroads owning the agency, and the bonds would be sold to meet the cost of property which has been acquired for it. The outline of the plan was laid before the commission for approval last week.

2. All bids must be made upon the prepared form of proposal to be obtained at the office of the Contract Clerk, Room 429 City-County Building, on and after December 21, 1928, upon presentation of receipt for deposit required for contract plans and specifications. Proposals containing any additions, erasures, omissions, alterations, additions not called for, or additional bid of any kind may be rejected as informal and no bidder will be allowed to withdraw his bid.

3. Bids must be accompanied by a bond in the amount of fifty (50%) per centum of the estimated cost of the proposed improvement, duly and legally executed with a surety or trust company, which has complied with the city ordinances relating thereto; said bond shall be in the form of bond furnished by the City of Pittsburgh.

4. Blueprint copies of contract plans and specifications may be obtained at the Bureau of Engineering, Room 440 City-County Building. Deposits in the amount of $10.00 will be required for East Street Bridge and for Heth's Run Sewer improvements, and $2.00 for each of the other above named improvements. Receipts for said deposits will be given and the money refunded upon return of plans and specifications in good condition and without marking within 10 days of the date bids are opened.

5. The Mayor and the Director of the Department of Public Works reserve the right to increase or decrease the amount or class of any portion of the work which they deem necessary, to reject any or all proposals, or to accept any proposal which they deem it to the interest of the city so to do.

BUGS BAER Says

Every time we build one of those big battle barges we are going to sign a treaty.

ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

A naval engagement in 1967 will read something like this:

The elimination tournament opened at dawn with both sides still hopeful that their diplomats could hold off peace until trouble started.

At 8 a. m. the Dove sighted the Good Will and broke loose with a broadside of confetti.

The Sweet Breeze, commanded by a committee of pacifists, put on a beautiful radio program for the benefit of the—visitors—we almost said "enemy."

The Yellow Canary, pride of the fleet, had some trouble in the forward turret. While the sailors were having a candy-pulling contest, the hook broke.

At noon, Admiral Mark Time signaled, "The daisy chain is broken. What shall we do?"

The Morning Glory came in contact with the visitors and grappled with them. A pleasant time was had by all.

Action was stopped at 2 p. m. when a landing party discovered we were fighting under the wrong treaty.

The war was postponed until a better understanding could be cemented between the two nations.

After arriving in drydock, Admiral Wimple, who was on the bridge during the entire contest, said, "My bridge game was wonderful."

Versailles was the first choice. But it was discovered that all the looking glasses in the Hall of Mirrors had been busted during the famous peace conference in 1918.

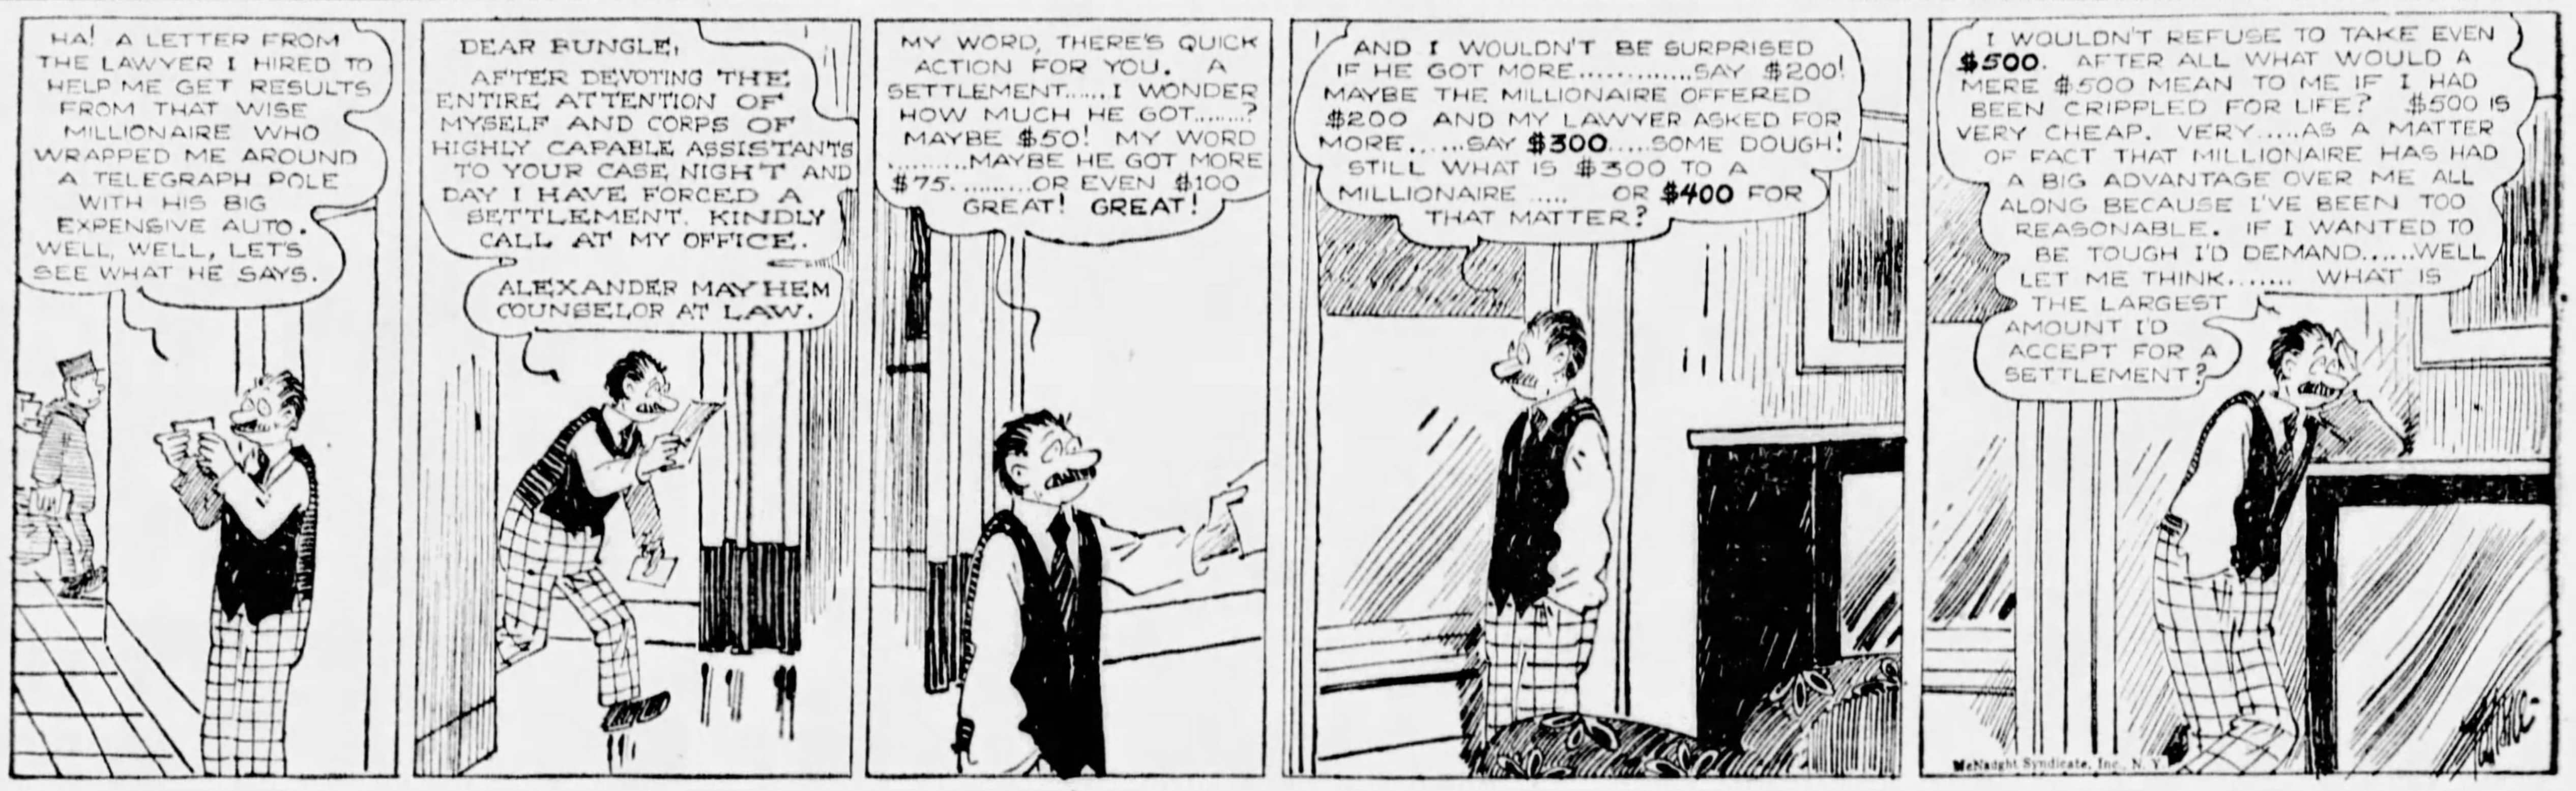
THE BUNGLE FAMILY

Shooting High



HA! A LETTER FROM THE LAWYER I HIRED TO HELP ME GET RESULTS FROM THAT WISE MILLIONAIRE WHO WRAPPED ME AROUND A TELEGRAPH POLE WITH HIS BIG EXPENSIVE AUTO. WELL, WELL, LET'S SEE WHAT HE SAYS.
DEAR BUNGLE, AFTER DEVOTING THE ENTIRE ATTENTION OF MYSELF AND CORPS OF HIGHLY CAPABLE ASSISTANTS TO YOUR CASE NIGHT AND DAY I HAVE FORCED A SETTLEMENT. KINDLY CALL AT MY OFFICE.
ALEXANDER MAYHEM COUNSELOR AT LAW.
MY WORD, THERE'S QUICK ACTION FOR YOU. A SETTLEMENT......I WONDER HOW MUCH HE GOT.......? MAYBE $50! MY WORD ....MAYBE HE GOT MORE $75..........OR EVEN $100 GREAT! GREAT!
AND I WOULDN'T BE SURPRISED IF HE GOT MORE............SAY $200! MAYBE THE MILLIONAIRE OFFERED $200 AND MY LAWYER ASKED FOR MORE......SAY $300.....SOME DOUGH! STILL WHAT IS $300 TO A MILLIONAIRE ..... OR $400 FOR THAT MATTER?
I WOULDN'T REFUSE TO TAKE EVEN $500. AFTER ALL WHAT WOULD A MERE $500 MEAN TO ME IF I HAD BEEN CRIPPLED FOR LIFE? $500 IS VERY CHEAP. VERY.....AS A MATTER OF FACT THAT MILLIONAIRE HAS HAD A BIG ADVANTAGE OVER ME ALL ALONG BECAUSE I'VE BEEN TOO REASONABLE. IF I WANTED TO BE TOUGH I'D DEMAND......WELL LET ME THINK....... WHAT IS THE LARGEST AMOUNT I'D ACCEPT FOR A SETTLEMENT?

MYSTERY STORY
Faced by Facts, Inspector Acts Like Wounded Bird.

It should be kept clearly in mind that the major import of this investigaton is to determine who poisoned Bottisford Beale, for if he was not poisoned, who was?

Had he not been found curled up on a rug in his club? And did he not kick jerkily when anyone attempted to question him?

And who was the turbaned stranger who rang her doorbell and then ran hastily into the garden, stopping only long enough to dig up some bulbs and spade around? Around what?

Inspector Ogle, of Scotland Yard, asked her these questions again and again. But, what bothered him most was who left the cigar stub on the window sill? "Tell me that," he said to himself, "and I will tell you something that will be to your advantage." Just then there was a brief pause for station announcements—

Though Candle Is Gone Yule Tree Needs an Eye

Electrical illumination of Christmas trees has had the effect of greatly reducing the fire hazard. Formerly, just prior to Christmas, annual warnings were given against having lighted candles on Christmas trees, which were the cause of numerous fires. Often Santa Claus suffered only a singed face when his whiskers ignited, but sometimes the effect was fatal.

That, happily, has been done away with through the more beautiful and effective lighting of trees bearing winter fruit by electricity. Yet there is an element of danger, too, in the use of electricity, as is evident in the report of fires having started from sparks of electric toys beneath the trees.

So it would seem that our Christmas trees still must be watched.

The Wisdom of Napoleon

He Understood the Value of Discussion.

Man exercises his muscles to improve them. He competes —muscularly—with his fellows, and rivalry of muscle ends in muscular improvement all around.

What exercise does for the muscles, DISCUSSION does for the BRAIN.

The importance of discussion Napoleon appreciated thoroughly.

And when he discussed, he discussed like a BIG man, selecting questions to exhaust his mind and lead far away into fields of conjecture and widest speculation.

His was no dreamer's brain, giving to speculation the time needed for doing. First came the real work of the day or hour—the planning and finishing of details, from the disposing of army corps to the smallest final arrangements.

On his voyage to Egypt, determined to waste no time, he organized serious discussion as methodically as he ever organized a fighting plan.

He selected the subject for discussion, he chose the three or four on each side to support and oppose any given proposition.

These were his favorite topics:

First, THE ART OF WAR.
Second, THE ART OF GOVERNMENT.
Third, RELIGION.

From his point of view, his chief subjects for discussion were admirably chosen. They represented the only two things he cared for here below, and the final question affecting his fate hereafter.

THE AGE OF THE WORLD was one topic of discussion, rather hopeless in those days, when the popular idea of fossils still maintained that they represented God's preliminary experiments in creating animals.

Once he asked his chosen debaters to decide whether the planets are inhabited.

Again he discussed this earth's probable ending—by fire or water.

He discussed also the meaning of dreams, and the value of "presentiments."

In practical life he discarded everything save realities. But in discussion all abstract questions interested him.

It may interest you to know that, in general, he denied positively the existence of hell—perhaps that was caution on his part—and maintained that no man should die without confessing his sins:

> "Only a fool says that he will die without a confessor. There is so much we do not know and that we cannot explain."

It is deeply characteristic of Napoleon's thought that he should have declared for Mahometanism in preference to Christianity.

He admired the religion of Mahomet:

> "Because it conquered one-half the world in 10 years, whereas it took 300 years for Christianity to establish itself."

The old French King became converted because he thought the Christian God beat HIS pagan god in battle. Napoleon had not traveled far beyond that old king.

The man who seeks for all sorts of wisdom in Napoleon will be deeply disappointed when he comes to analyze the great fighter's religious thought.

Napoleon trifled with everything, EXCEPT THE FIRST GREAT CAUSE.

On the deck of his ship, on a fine night, there was much irreverent, flippant, materialistic chatter. The Revolution had made stupid atheism fashionable.

But Napoleon was impressed by the calm night, the blue, dark water, and the silent, beautiful stars shining down in cosmic rebuke of the tiny egotists below.

Toward the stars he pointed the short, thick arm, so soon to rule this little planet:

> "You may talk as long as you please, gentlemen, but WHO MADE ALL THAT?"

There was no answer.

The man who was to build up the Code Napoleon could appreciate the force and necessity of law. His mind realized the feebleness of man, coping even with little problems of earth.

He felt that great laws, and a Great Law Giver, must swing and direct those millions of silent worlds above.

When Napoleon was still a Corsican patriot, the great Paoli said to him:

Earnestness of the old kind was indeed Napoleon's characteristic—as Emperor, planning to rule Asia from the back of an ornamented elephant, or a poor, half-starved lad, taking off his muddy shoes to enter the presence of the matronly Madame Permon, and listening to her stories of descent from the Emperors of Constantinople.

Napoleon in his hours of work was a DOER, and in his hours of leisure he was a DISCUSSER.

Do the same, and succeed.

TOO MUCH STATIC!

Tales That Are Told

Well Away

HE WAS up before the magistrate for causing a breach of the peace.

"Did you strike the plaintiff in an excess of irascibility?" asked the man on the bench.

"I am afraid I did," admitted the culprit cheerfully.

"What happened then?" pursued the prosecuting counsel, who wanted to prove that his client had been incapacitated by the blow.

"You are sure? Did he run away or stagger away? Please be careful."

"He ran right enough, sir."

"Well, did he run fast?"

"Did he run fast? If that man had had just one feather in his hand, he'd 'a' flew, sir."

Breaking It Gently

"Open up, Mrs. O'Malley—open up!"

Mrs. O'Malley opened the door quickly. On the steps stood her neighbor, crying softly.

"Oi've come to tell ye yer 'usband has met with an accident, Mrs. O'Malley," she wailed sadly.

Puzzling

The judge knew the prisoner of old and admonished him thus:

"If, as you say, you want to live happily in this world, you must keep straight. Now do you understand?"

The prisoner frowned and had to admit that he was puzzled.

"I am afraid I don't, your honor," he said doubtfully. "But if you'll tell me how a man is to keep straight while he is trying to make both ends meet, I might."

Worst Story I Have Heard Today

A GUY fell off a house and got him a terrible pain in the back of the head that lasted all night. Then he sent for a doctor.

The doc looked him all over like he was going to charge plenty, and it made the guy mad. Finally the medicine man come to the back of the head, which was kinda dirty from the grit he got into when he fell. The doc ordered a pitcher of warm water, and started pouring it on the sore place and watching it closely. He kept on pouring slowly, and then he says, kinda thoughtful-like: "Compound fracture of the cervicle protoplasm plus ingrown combustion of the hyperthproid process!"

"See here, Doc," says the patient. "I didn't get you here to christen that knot on my bean, you know!"

JUPITER IN MOVIES

By Garrett P. Serviss

EVERYBODY who has watched the planet Jupiter for an hour or two with a telescope must have noticed how the rapid rotation of the great belted globe manifests itself by a perceptible coming into view of objects near the eastern border and a corresponding passing out of view of objects near the western border, while in the central parts of the disk all markings show a similar advance. Since Jupiter makes a complete rotation on its axis in a little less than 10 hours, its rotational motion is considerably more rapid than that of the hour hand of a clock, which makes one complete circuit in 12 hours.

Manifestly, a series of consecutive photographs of Jupiter, taken at short time intervals, and exhibited in the manner of a motion picture, should show the great planet visibly rotating on a screen. This effect has recently been produced with such a series photographed by Prof. W. H. Wright with the great Lick telescope, and arranged on a cinematograph film by Dr. C. E. K. Mees. The photographs were taken about a minute apart, covering a complete 10-hour rotation of the planet. The resulting motion picture was first presented to an audience last summer in London at a meeting of the Royal Astronomical Society, and the effect upon the assembled astronomers was electric.

* * *

They beheld the giant planet of the solar system rolling upon its axis before their eyes, as realistical in its motion as a movie actor. The beforehand knowledge that such an effect must necessarily be witnessed in no way detracted from the startling nature of the exhibition. It was as if the Jovian globe had been brought down to earth for experimental examination faster than its normal rate, just as a growing plant may be presented on the screen so accelerated that its increase of size and changes of form take place before the spectator in a few minutes.

It would be worth while to apply this method to other heavenly bodies. The planet Mars, for instance, makes a rotation on its axis in about the same time as the earth. By a suitable series of photographs taken on two or three consecutive nights a motion picture of Mars could be made that would be no less interesting and instructive than that of his great brother Jupiter.

The mystery of Venus' rotation might also be investigated by a similar method. The latest observations have shown that Venus turns only three or four times on her axis during one revolution around the sun. The real length of this period might be more certainly determined by a motion picture integrating the successive appearances of her surface as it slowly turns, and making the motion more evident by the effects of the artificial acceleration. The addition of motion to the view of the more or less veiled disk might well result in an effective clearing away of the obscurity.

Similar motion pictures of the rotating sun would surely reveal more clearly the law of the multifold rotation of that great body, and of the interrelations of the spot zones on either side of the equator. The sun, as a whole, makes a single rotation on its axis in about 25 days, but in latitude 45 degrees the rotation is about two and a half days longer, while in intermediate latitudes the period increases as the equator is approached. The spots and groups of spots also have independent motions, which should be more clearly revealed in a motion picture. In short, the application of the cinematograph to the heavenly bodies seems full of promise.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By Elsie Robinson

THE Beautiful Blonde is suing the Perfidious Wretch for $25,000.

He Done Her Wrong! Said he'd marry her—took her to a Love nest, then quit her cold. So she wants a lot of balm for her busted heart and wounded sensibilities. And she'll probably get it. For the last three days she has been crying all over the courtroom and most of our reading public has been crying with her. For if there's one thing we Americans can't stand it's Injured Innocence.

But I do see something in such cases which is most humiliating to the self-respect of the female sex—provided it has any.

It is done in the name of chivalry, but chivalry like that is no compliment, for it assumes that women are nitwits, unable to comprehend or protect themselves from Predatory Papas.

In fact, there never was a time in the world's history when a girl had to work harder to get herself damaged.

And you may be sure that any lady that succeeds in getting herself damaged in this blase era did, at least, her bit toward that end.

As for this Injured Innocence plea—

Now I ask you, does it sound reasonable, our movies and magazines being what they are?

Maybe there are Beautiful Blondes, aged 28, who have preserved their pristine innocence—but if so, what they deserve is not damages, but medals. Or a niche in a good sanitary museum.

Lastly this tender theory that Wronged Women need $25,000 balm to allay their wounded feelings—

That may go good with judges who need votes—

But any regular woman knows it's hooey—

Ladies whose feelings over their lost virtue can be allayed by a $25,000 check and a ton of newsprint haven't any feelings. And our courts should not be invoked to aid them in their hold-up game.

Bible Passages

"Seek Ye the Lord"

(Isaiah 55: 1-8)

HO, every one that thirsteth, come ye to the waters, and he that hath no money; come ye, buy, and eat; yea, come, buy wine and milk and without money and without price.

Wherefore do ye spend money for that which is not bread? and your labour for that which satisfieth not? hearken diligently unto me, and eat ye that which is good, and let your soul delight itself in fatness.

Incline your ear, and come unto me: hear, and your soul shall live; and I will make an everlasting covenant with you, even the sure mercies of David.

Behold, I have given him for a witness to the people, a leader and commander to the people.

Behold, thou shalt call a nation that thou knowest not, and nations that knew not thee shall run unto thee because of the Lord thy God, and for the Holy One of Israel; for he hath glorified thee.

Let the wicked forsake his way, and the unrighteous man his thoughts: and let him return unto the Lord, and he will have mercy upon him; and to our God, for he will abundantly pardon.

The Rhyming Optimist

By ALINE MICHAELIS

The Truant

I ASKED my thoughts: "Where have you been?
Your place is ever here
With bread and cheese so dear!"
My thoughts could only answer me,
"Work's ways are dull and cold,
And we have sped by land and sea
To watch the dawn unfold."
"Where have you been?" I asked my heart.
"Wise hearts would never roam."
It said: "I saw my Love depart
And so, with Love went home."
How can a stripling cope with life
When truant heart and dreams
Slip out, away from care and strife,
For love or, sunrise gleams?
Fret not! These truants save the day,
For in their wandering
They glean the fruits that keep life gay
And sweet with breath of Spring!

Isn't It So?

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Dec. 27.—The upstairs employment agencies dotting Sixth avenue below Forty-second street form one of New York economic question marks. Huddled groups are always scanning chalked bulletin boards out front. Then drift to Bryant Park to salvage a snipe and a discarded newspaper.

The biggest crowds clot there in the early morning before New York is ready for business of the day. Although a drifting army of unskilled labor, it is selective in its quest for the job. Sociological workers find the untrained are the most independent of all workers.

The greatest chronic floaters are hotel workers—dish washers, hall men and bus boys. They like to go from job to job and city to city. In the cafe belt in the Forties there is always a heavy demand for kitchen assistants and bus boys which is never supplied.

Few remain more than several weeks in one place. Then they loaf awhile and go back again to inspect the employment agency bulletin boards. They sleep in the flop houses, eat in the coffee houses and depend on charity for clothing. Peculiarly enough most are temperate.

While a percentage of the employment agency customers are those jobless by some perverse fate over which they have no control, the great majority are those who work merely to appease the trinity of necessity — food, shelter and clothing.

On the bulletin boards one finds hints of romance in far away corners such as "Stevedores for Alaska"—"Lumber Loggers for Seattle"—"Cooks for tramp steamers to the Orient"—"Mine Workers for Montana" and a variety of other hardy tasks calling for men of brawn and daring.

There seems to be an indefinable lure to employment bureau signs. Men who really have no desire or inclination for work will hustle out at daylight to inspect the freshly listed jobs. Then they mope off—back to some idle bench to dream the day away.

* * *

Poets have remarked the beauty and glamor of that hour New York rarely sees. It is when dawn surmounts the mist—the lingering hiatus between the last lap of sleep and awakening. The city's heartbeat is sluggish and there is a languorous hush to the town. The skyline is crested with rare purple merging into a softly creeping pink. A slight noise reverberates as in a giant canyon and an early morning whistler or the clop-clop of a milk-wagon horse may be heard blocks away. At no other time does the city seem so mysterious and provocative. And then with a booming the laughter and tears of a passing night are drowned in the rushing cascade of another day. All of which shows how staying out until daylight to entertain out-of-town friends affects a home boy.

OH, THESE WOMEN

By Leola Allard

BOB CASEY, who is not a ladies' man, says that when women aren't deceiving you they are deceiving themselves. Of course he says it in a book, but it's his opinion.

If he's found out that much, wouldn't you like to hear a regular ladies' man talk frankly?

A woman was sentenced to prison for murdering her youthful sweetheart. Her invalid husband, an ex-soldier, said he would wait for her loyally till she served her sentence.

Some years ago, Beulah Annan's husband said that, in Chicago, when she was tried for murder, and he sat faithfully by her in court, promising to take her home and make a good girl out of her. And the day she was acquitted she announced that she was going to divorce him immediately.

"The other lady is here for her appointment," said the nice girl hair dresser, who has been in the same beauty parlor for 15 years. "I am working you in on her time."

"I never saw anything as selfish as women," said the girl, jabbing in a hair pin to hold the wet curl. "All they think about, any of them, is themselves. They don't care how much they inconvenience some one else."

The customer was silent. As a matter of fact what could she say? She slid down in her chair as far as she could, but she was still visible.

"There," said one of them, "is a sign telling that 72 people were killed there by automobiles. That stone pillar marks the spot."

"My, my," said the other one, "isn't that terrible, think of burying 72 people right on a street corner in New York!"

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

WHAT are you doing to increase your mental powers?

As time went on your friends as well as your family took considerable pride in your high grades at school.

Perhaps you did not go as far in school as you wished.

And so you went into business or into home life providing for or bringing up a family thinking that you would succeed in what you undertook.

But how has it turned out, so far?

Does your occupation take up your whole time?

Trained to logical and even scientific thought, do you put your education into every-day use?

Then you have not made much use of your education, have you?

If you have not applied, consciously, some of the principles that your teachers sought to inculcate, you have missed the object of education.
